1,000 Eggs in Every Hen—Four to Seven Eggs a Week per Hen Through Cold Winter Season. With Eggs at Dollar a Dozen, Means $5.00 Profit per Hen in Next Six Months. Amazing Poultry Secrets Revealed by

AMERICA'S FOREMOST POULTRY EXPERT

This is an offer no reader of this paper who keeps chickens can afford to ignore. We will tell you why.

Henry Trafford, Famous Poultry Expert and Breeder, for nearly eighteen years Editor of "Poultry Success," has developed a new and remarkable system of rearing, breeding and feeding chickens for heavy egg production that seems certain to revolutionize the poultry industry and give five eggs or more for every egg produced today. This plan or system is explained in Mr. Trafford's "1,000 Egg Hen" a free copy of which will be sent to any person who keeps six hens or more.

Poultry keepers, following Mr. Trafford's directions, learn how to start young pullets laying early; make old hens moult quickly and resume heavy laying during entire winter season. Most any hen will lay in spring when eggs are cheap. Mr. Trafford tells how hens lay four to seven eggs a week during coldest winter days when eggs sell at a dollar a dozen or more. His system shows how any breeder, with ordinary care, may get 1,000 eggs or more from nearly every hen in five years' time at a net profit of $25.00.

There is big money to be made with chickens this winter by the man or woman who gets the eggs. The time to get the hens ready for heavy winter laying is now. Mr. Trafford's "1,000 Egg Hen" system tells how and arrangements have been made whereby any reader of this paper may receive one copy absolutely free by using the Coupon below. Send no money, but cut out the Coupon and mail it with your name and address to Henry Trafford, 328R Tyne Bldg., Binghamton, N.Y., and the story of the 1,000 Egg Hen will be sent you by return mail.

we are satisfied that we would have suffered a considerable loss. With these feeds we made a nice profit, even during the period of high prices. Large litters kept growing are essential, and we select our breeding sows just as carefully as we do our cows.

Our aim has been to raise and market choice bacon hogs. We have been told that Canadian bacon is held in high esteem in England, and that this important market is ours if bacon of the right quality in sufficient quantities is produced. We notice, however, that our load of straight, deep, long-sided pigs are weighed up and paid for on the local market with our neighbor's short, thick hogs which do not cut a good side of bacon. What encouragement is this to produce an exportable product? Buying hogs on grade at country points may be difficult to do, but if a premium were paid for the choice hogs it would be the quickest way of increasing the number of bacon hogs. The outlook just now is none too bright. There seems to be information withheld from the producer, which makes him leary about going too strongly into hogs. If packers and Government officials who know the inside workings of the hog situation would frankly tell the public, it would be much better for the industry.

Hogs led us from city to country and we have never regretted the move. We have long since ceased to expect phenomenal prices for breeding stock, and are content to raise a few choice animals at nominal prices to our fellow breeders and to have a bunch of finished hogs to market at intervals throughout the year. After we got to know hogs they have helped build up our farm, furnish our home, and add a few shekels to our bank account. Hog raising is no bonanza, but hogs are a class of animals that should be kept on every farm, and if fed and cared for properly they will be a good asset to the farm.

remarkable for its possibilities in dairying and fruit growing, and it is my opinion that no province of the Dominion will realize greater success in these directions. Remarkable development has been made in co-operative selling of dairy products in that country, and I believe that this system of marketing has been brought nearer perfection there than in any other province of Canada. British Columbia is also getting into her stride with reference to improvement in sheep, swine and beef cattle in various sections of that great Province, and those interested in live stock may anticipate great development along these lines in the Coast Country.

In closing it may be admitted without argument that the Western Country has much to learn, but it has youth on its side, and tremendous natural resources to be developed. We of the West will apply our energies with diligence to the solution of the problems that lie in the future, and to that end bespeak the sympathy and co-operation of Eastern Canada.

Brant County Judging Competition.

On Tuesday, November 12, the farm of Thomas Brown, South Dumfries Township, Brant County, was the scene of the first annual Brant County Junior Farmers' Stock Judging Competition. Many were, no doubt, prevented from attending on account of disagreeable weather conditions, but eighteen young farmers took part, nevertheless, in the judging work. Live stock for all of the classes was supplied by neighboring farmers, and consisted of heavy horses, beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep and swine. The competition was arranged by R. Schuyler, Agricultural Representative, and the judging was performed by Wm. Gardhouse, Thistletown, together with the Agricultural Representatives of Waterloo and Simcoe Counties. Out of a total score of 100 points for each class, 50 points were given for correct placings and 50 points for reasons, with the six men named below as winners in the competition. Pringle Brown, Ayr, with a total score of 694 points, won first place in the competition and a free trip to the International Live Stock Exposition

Chicago, the expense of which is being borne by the Canadian Packing Company, Brantford. The second high man was Bertram Muma, Ayr, with a total score of 691 points; third, F. Mitchell, Ayr, with 686 points; fourth, Robert McRuer, Ayr, with 678 points; fifth, Geo. Stockton, Paris, 662 points; sixth, Russell Templar, Burford, 633 points.

Smiles in Four Tongues.

A celebrated revivalist came to address his flock, and before he began to speak the pastor said: "Brother Jones, before you begins this discourse, there are some powerful bad negroes in this here congregation, and I want to pray for you," which he did in this fashion:

"O Lord, give Brother Jones the eye of the eagle, that he may see sin from afar. Glue his ear to the gospel telephone, and connect him with the central skies. Illuminate his brow with a brightness that will make the fires of hell look like a tallow candle. Nail his hands to the gospel plow, and bow his head in some lonesome valley where prayer is much wanted to be said, and anoint him all over with the kerosene oil of thy salvation and set him a-fire."

An Italian had been warned to beware of rattlesnakes, but being assured that they would give the warning rattle before striking. The next day he was eating his luncheon on a pine log when he saw a big rattler coiled a few feet from him. He eyed the serpent, and began lifting his legs over the log. He had hardly got them out of the way before the snake's fangs hit the bark beneath him.

"Son of a gunna!" yelled Pietro. "Why you no ringa da bell."

An Irishman came home one night with a blackened eye, a broken nose, and split lip.

"Tim Sullivan done it," he told his wife as he began to bathe the wounds.

"Shame on ye!" Bridget cried, "big feller like you to be licked by a hard drinking cockroach like Tim Sullivan! Why, he—

"Whist," said Pat, "don't spake evil of the dead."

Joseph and Isaac went to hear Billy Sunday preach, and after service, as they were going home Joseph said:

"Vell, Izaac, vat you t'ink of him?"

"I don't like him," said Isaac. "Too much hell. It was hell, hell, hell all the time. And I don't believe there is any hell, Joseph."

"No hell?" asked Joseph in amazement.

"No," answered his friend.

"Vell, then, Izaac," said Joseph, "if there is no hell, where is bizness gone?"

From the Skim-Milk Spout.

"Mother," said little Arthur thoughtfully, "do men ever go to heaven?"

"To be sure, dear. Why do you ask such a question?"

"Because I never see any pictures of angels with whiskers."

"Well," said the mother reflectively, "some men do go to heaven, but they only get there by a close shave."

"Hey, Moike, and phwat do yez tink of these new sanitary drinkin' cups?"

"Not much, Pat. Soon and we'll have to spit on our hands wid an eye-dropper."

"They say," remarked the spinster boarder, "that the woman who hesitates is lost."

"Lost is not the proper word for it," growled the fussy old bachelor at the pedal extremity of the table. "She's extinct!"

"Do you think your father would consent to our marriage?"

"He might. Father's so eccentric."
