Gentlemen at Large (a title which recalls memories of the Fleet and the King's Bench) receives £129 each. The insignificance of these salaries gives a peculiar emphasis to Thackeray's immense scorn of the "sham coort and its sham splindor." emphasis to Thackeray's limitines scorn of the "sham coort and its sham splindor." The whole cost of the Vicercy and his household is £27,000 to be divided among two noblemen, a knight, two honorables, two colonels, a captain, two aides-de-camp and a small mob of people officially called "other salaries and charges."

At a meeting of the Committee of the Irish National Land League in Dublin on five years he labored with untiring zeal for the glory of God, his own and his neighbor's salvation. He was a father to the poor, a consoler to the afflicted, and a friend to all who sought his advice. He is universally regretted.

A mysterious occurrence is reported from Dublin. On the night of Jan. 16th, at the top of Marlborough street, near Great Britian street, a man named John Freeman was shot at and stabbed and Great Britian street, a man named John Freeman was shot at and stabbed and wounded three times on the upper part of the right arm, once in the back, and twice on the right hiv. Freeman was a pensioner from the 2nd Battalion of the 20th Regiment. It is stated that the outrage was deliberately planned, and that Freeman was mistaken by his assailant for another person who, during the Fenian disturbances of 1867, had become informer. A man named Carroll was arrested on suspicion, was brought before the magistrates, picion, was brought before the magistrates, and after evidence a remand was obtained. The surgeons attending on Freeman described him as being riddled with wounds. The stabs were inflicted with great violence, and the bullet wounds are of a dangerous nature. Freeman gives a clear account of the circumstances of the outrage,

He rode up to the door, when the deceased rushed out, having in his right hand a blackthorn stick, around which he had fastened beads and scapulars, and in his hand a bottle of holy water. Witness tried to pacify him, but he said he could not rest, and the devil was in his house, that Father Murray had sent him there to punish him. Witness went to report the matter to the constable of police. It appeared that before the constable arrived the man had cut his throat. Some of the Irish papers are pointing to the cost of the Viceregal household, and asking that in a time of famine the pomp should be diminished, the salaries curtailed and the balance of the estimate given to the staving people. The Lord Lieutenant receives £20,000 a year, his private secretary £829, and Mr. Burke, as Ulster King of Arms, £850. The remaining salaries are contemptible. Lord Wallscourt gets £200 as gentleman usher; Mr. Lawless £185, as gentleman in waiting; Mr. Lambert, the chamberlain, £200, and the two Gentlemen at Large (a title which recalls

The recently appointed Relief Committee, in Mallow, has been kept busy for some time by the increasing distress in that district. Little employment is to be had, and the relief works, in the shape of had, and the relief works, in the shape of sewerage improvements, employ no more than one member of a family, who can only get Is, per day. The Committee at present is distributing coal to 404 families, and has given out two hundred pairs of blankets among the poor of the town.

The Rev. P. Fitzpatrick, C. C., of St.
Laurence O'Toole's, Dublin, died on January 23rd. He was born on the 3rd of August, 1849, and having passed a very successful course of studies in Holy Cross Seminary, Clonliff, was ordained by his Eminence Cardinal Cullen on the Feast of the Eminhany, 1874. Soon after he was the Epiphany, 1874. Soon after he was appointed to a curacy in the parish of St. Laurence O'Toole's, where during the last give his children food, and Mr. Terry, the vice-chairman, expressed a fear that a great deal of land would remain out of tillage this season for want of anything to put into it. The Local Government Board having refused to place Midleton on the list of distressed unions, a resolution was passed asking the Board, to reconsider its decision. Three hundred destitute peasants from members of the local committee, owing to the fact that all the funds at their dis-posal are now exhausted, with the exception of contributions from the Duchess of Marlborough's Fund. The rule prescribed by the Duchess's committee, which limits the distribution of their funds by provid-ing that no relief shall be afforded to At Meelick, King's County, relief works have been started in connection with the drainage of the Shannon. Five hundred men are employed at an average wages of one shilling and eight pence per day. The Local Government Board have granted a loan of six hundred pounds to earry out relief words at Parsontown in the same county.

On January 23rd an inquest was held in Tullamore by Mr. William Arnott Young Corner, on the body of a young lad named Dunne, who was drowned in the exala on the previous day. From the evidence it appeared that the deceased who was perfectly sober, and had just given his week's wages to his mother, ran after the boat, and in attempting to jump in fell into the canal basin. He was brought to the bank in a few minutes, but life was then found to be extinct. The jump returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

ANTRIM.

The Northern Whig deplores the selfishness displayed by the town of Belfast on the subject of Irish distress. Scarcely any money it says has been contributed from the town to the relief fund, while only one Protestant clergyman [a Presbyterian] has made an appeal to his congregation to subscribe in aid of the distress.

DOWN.

On Jan. 21st, five men—Robert Marks, a gardener; John McKeown, a boatman; Robert Daniel, sailor; Owen Hanlan, laborer, and Patrick Rice also a laborer left Warrenpoint in a small punt to re-turn to their homes at Omeath. Shortly afterwards some persons on the south shore heard cries, and proceeded to the landing place, but no boat was then visible, but early next morning the boat was found, and in it the dead body of one of the men. GALWAY.

Mr. Scully, R. M., Oughterard, was engaged at Spiddal Petry Sessions, on Jan. 16th, to a very late hour (11.30 p.m.), hearing the numerous charges of assault on the process-server, Tully, and the bailiff, Fenton, whom all the extra police were sent to protect. The defendants in the several cases did not find bail till ten p.m., and then with great difficulty. They were bound over to stand their trial at the Spring Assizes at Galway. A force of fifty men, under charge of Sub-Inspectors Hull, of Oughterard, and Rodgers, Athlone, arrived at Spiddal from Galway on the morning of the Petty Sessions, as it was rumored there would be some disturbance. None, however, took place. Several men from Queen's County are at Spiddal in 'addition to the usual local force.

On January 20th a process server named McHugh, while serving processes at a place called Milltown, in Tuam district, was met by two men with blackened faces, and armed with revolvers. They threatened to take his life unless he de livered up all the processes he had, and swore never to serve any more. The ter-

Rev. R. H. Craig, Princetown, N. J., says: Last summer when I was in Canada, I cought a bad cold in my throat. It became so bad that often in the middle of my sermon my throat and tongue would become so dry I could hardly speak. My tongue was covered with a white parched crust, and my throat was much inflamed. An old lady of my congregation advised me to use the Shosho-nees Remedy, which she was then using. The first dose releived me, and in a few days my throat was nearly well. I discondays my throat was nearly well. I discontinued the use of it, but my throat not being entirely well, became worse again. I procured another supply, and I am happy to say that my throat is entirely well, and the white crust has entirely dissappeared. I wish that every minister who suffers from sore throat would try the Great Shoshonees Remedy.
