SHOULDER TO SHOULDER.
If the people of this division make a long pull, a strong pull and a pull together it is palpable that there can be produced a boom within the next few months of no small proportions. All the signs which presage a boom are at hand and all that is necessary to do is to take advantage of what is manifestly a great opportunity. A flood tide on which is floating many good opportunities is coming our way, and we should take advantage of the situation.
The smelter at Trail is to start this month and will give employment to a large force of men indefinitely as it is certain that once it is blown in, the intention is to keep it in motion. As more ore than ever is available there should be steady work at the Trail smelter for years to come.
The building of the extension of the C. & W. railway into the Boundary Creek country, the contractors say, will give employment to an army of 5,000 men for at least a year. This means work for our laborers and mechanics and business for our merchants, for railway contractors and their employees usually have money "to burn" and are free at "burning" it.
There is a renewed interest manifested in the mines of this section from every part of the investing world. Great Britain constantly has representatives here who are picking up properties whenever the opportunity offers. Eastern Canada is buying in a quiet way. Spokane and other cities to the south are showing an increased interest and when the war between the United States and Spain is over, which promises to be soon, there will be a large infow of American capital into this section.
Besides the output of the mines of the Trail Creek division will be about double this year what it was last. This has been caused by several recent additions to the list of regular shipping properties. There are others that promise to be added to the list within the next few months. The marked success that has attended the development of many of the properties here is encouraging some who grew faint-hearted a year since and they are beginning to flock back, and, in many instances, have resumed operations on properties in regard to which they were skeptical twelve months since.
The renewed faith in the camp on the part of outsiders is nowhere more sincerely manifested than in the increased dealings in the local standard stocks. Whereas a few months since there was "absolutely no market" stocks have an actual cash value and are bought for investment. A short time since the brokers of this city were losing money every day while they remained in business, but now all are doing well, and some have made large sums in the last six months. They have established a market for the stocks of this camp that is lasting and which in the future will grow instead of decreasing in volume.
It is certain as soon as the war is over between the United States and Spain that there will follow one of the greatest revivals in the mining business that the world has ever seen, and this section should be largely benefited by it. In our order, however, that we may get our due share of this coming tide of prosperity it is necessary that all put their shoulders to the wheel and push together for the benefit of Roseland. The Roseland Miner hopes to do its share in bringing about the prosperity that is to come, and to help to tell the world of the resources of this section. In order to do this it will be necessary that the citizens of this division stand by THE MINER and give it the patronage that they can. With a little larger paper than is now published a much better setting forth of the merits of our mines could be given which would redound greatly to the advantage of all.

not improbable that mining in the most northwestern portion of the Dominion may in the next fifteen or twenty years be done on an extensive scale and with great profit, but the region that offers incomparable opportunities for the English investor at the present time is southeastern British Columbia, and to this field it would have been better for Mr. Merritt to have given more attention in his address. However, British Columbia owes him a debt of gratitude for doing what he has in this particular instance.
THE ELECTIONS.
(From Sunday's Daily.)
The most exciting contest in the history of British Columbia occurred yesterday. At this writing it is impossible to say whether the Turner government is sustained or defeated. As the reports stand at present the Administration has a perfect right to claim 18 seats as against 17 for the Opposition. There are three doubtful constituencies to be heard from. The success of the Opposition party in Cariboo and South-east Kootenay means the overthrow of Premier Turner, but it is more than likely that he will secure at least one seat, and it is not improbable that he will obtain two from these districts.
One cabinet minister, Hon. G. B. Martin of North Yale, has been defeated, and the fate of another, Colonel Baker, minister of mines and education, hangs in the balance, so that in any event a reconstruction of the Provincial executive becomes necessary.
In this riding the contest was by far the cleanest that has occurred in the history of the Trail Creek division. Mr. McKane made a manly and plucky fight against tremendous odds, and THE MINER regrets that he was not successful. We sincerely believe that had he been elected the Independent Government candidate would have served this district faithfully and well. At the same time it is highly gratifying to note that his successful rival is an honest and conscientious man, whose only fault lies in the fact that he is pledged to support such men as "Joe" Martin and Carter Cotton. If all the Oppositionists who have been elected to the legislature had the reputation for integrity that is enjoyed by James Martin, the country would be safe, no matter which side won. Unfortunately, however, Mr. Martin is a follower and not a leader in the ranks of his party.
By the result of the elections a new condition of things has arisen in Provincial politics. We think we see an end to "Government" and "Opposition" in British Columbia. In their places henceforth will be written "Conservative" and "Liberal."
EDITORIAL NOTES.
ROSSLAND is soon to be honored by the presence of Miss Flora Shaw, one of the editors of THE TIMES, of London, Eng. The growing demand in Great Britain for reliable information concerning the magnificent natural resources of British Columbia is mainly responsible for Miss Shaw's visit to this Province. This distinguished journalist will make an exhaustive examination with regard to the opportunities existing here for intending emigrants and investors from the mother country, and her views thereon will be set forth in a series of articles to be printed in the greatest and most influential newspaper in the world. This will be of incalculable benefit to British Columbia, and greatly hasten the coming of the British Columbia boom in Europe.
The president of the United States yesterday signed the bill for the annexation of the republic of Hawaii to the United States, and the islands that make up that country are now a portion of the American republic. These islands are 12 in number, have an area of 6,977 square miles, and a population of between 90,000 and 100,000. The principal product is sugar. The chief advantage to the United States in the acquirement of these islands is their convenience as a coaling station and naval rendezvous. While the soil is fertile the population is chiefly made up of Hawaiians, Chinese, Japanese and Portuguese, which altogether make an undesirable class of citizens. There was considerable opposition to the annexation of the country, and it is probable that the step would not have been taken except as a war measure. The natives are dying out, and in time will doubtless disappear. If the islands were peopled by whites they would make an ideal residence place, for the climate is mild and the soil very fruitful.
The Homestake Group.
D. M. Linnard, who has just returned from a nine months' visit to London, Eng., informs THE MINER that the Homestake group of mines in the south belt will probably be incorporated as an assessable company, on terms very satisfactory to the owners of the properties, and that the work of development of the mines will commence as soon as this is arranged. As fast as development is done shipments of ore will be made to the smelter. A meeting to arrange these details will be held on the 26th day of this month in this city.
Sittings of the Supreme Court Here.
It seems certain that there will be sittings of the Supreme court in this city during August, when the O. K. suits will come up for hearing. There are a number of actions against the old company, brought by the Old National bank of Spokane to recover some $2,000 advanced to the O. K. company. It is probable that Mr. Justice Drake will be the presiding justice at the coming sittings. The exact date can not yet be set.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.
The London Market.
EDITOR MINER, SIR:—In your issue of May 31st I read with much interest a report of an interview with F. L. Mercer, a London gentleman, who is now visiting Roseland, and as the subjects which he discussed are of vital interest to the people of British Columbia I hope that my review of his opinions may not be uninteresting to your readers.
In a general way, Mr. Mercer is quite correct when he recommends the authorities of B. C. to spare no expense in the publication of reports of the wonderful resources of the country in the English newspapers, and of the splendid opportunities there are for the safe investment of British capital in your mines. Of late years, however, the London market has become rather suspicious of some of the financial papers over here, which has been intensified by the statements of Mr. Hooley, the great industrial company promoter, whose failure last week created such a sensation in London. Mr. Hooley has drawn £12,000,000 from the pockets of English investors in the various schemes he has brought forward, and now he tells the bankruptcy commissioner that he has been black-mailed out of all his profits by the editors of certain newspapers, and the joke is, that he has pledged himself to name them. This failure, following as it did that of Mr. Bottomley, the great South African and Westralian speculator, has made the London market particularly cautious; he is naturally cunning and suspicious, and like all people of that class, is constantly being taken in and done for, in his narrow-minded way. He argues that, if an investment is profitable, it does not require an act of British ignorance, and the Londoners, as a whole, a large proportion of the capital comes from the provinces, and the people of Bradford, Manchester, Edinburgh, Glasgow, etc., are generally better posted on the wealth of British Columbia, than the Londoners, and have often been amused. About a month ago, I was assured by a director of a British Columbia syndicate, that all mining operations around Roseland had suspended for several months in the deep snows. He seemed amazed when I told him, that for the past three months, I had been compelled to wear warmer clothing in London, than I had in Roseland, all the while the snows had been melting, and the Canadian Pacific was the only railroad in the Dominion of Canada.
The London mining speculator or promoter pursues pretty much the same tactics today that he did in California and Australia. Each mining country in the world has a boom in its turn which generally lasts about six months, during which period anything in the shape of a mine can be sold in that particular locality. I once saw a notice of a quartz claim in California or Nevada, with a notice of location stuck in it, which commanded a big price in London directly it was offered on the market; then would come a reaction, and for three years thereafter the owners in either of those countries would not fetch sixpence, because Mexico, Peru or New Zealand was having its innings. After all it may be as good a plan as any.
Shortly after my arrival in town I was assured by a very shrewd mining promoter that just then British Columbia mines were not fashionable (sic), but that if I had anything in Kalguri to offer he was prepared to take it up.
Mr. Mercer's advice to "offer nothing but the best mining properties for sale at the best price" seems a matter of indifference to the promoter, whether the mine has any merit or not. Anyone who cares to read over the long list of South African and Westralian mines, whose shares are quoted on the London stock exchange, will see that they have ever paid, or ever will pay a dividend, can easily convince himself of that fact.
Notwithstanding the extreme dullness of the mining market here at present, it is still held by good prospectors; they are willing to advance the working capital, pay all the expenses necessary for the flotation of a company, registration fees, printing prospectuses, advertisements, and provide all the miners with tools, and sufficient confidence in their mines, by taking their pay in shares, instead of asking a round sum in cash for a grass root prospect. They reason, and with justice, that they take all the risk; they pay all the expenses over and above the money for sinking shafts, running tunnel, erection of buildings, purchase of tools, etc., and then, if there is a mine, the shares, which the owners have received as good as bank notes. Unfortunately, this arrangement does not always suit the prospector, who has made his location, done $100 assessment work on the claim and would like to sell his mine for $100,000; but the time is not far distant when every "going" mine in British Columbia may be sold for a fair price, and every good prospect will be able to secure money for development.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS.
They Should Not Be Allowed to Speculate in Mines.
Toronto, Ont., July 7.—The Globe has an editorial article on the question of the Dominion government officials in the Yukon speculating in mining claims. It starts with the statement that there can be no doubt of the soundness of the views that officials in the Yukon having anything to do with mining claims ought not to speculate or in any way endeavor to make profit for themselves out of the claims. The Globe refers to its own Ottawa dispatch a few days ago in which it was contended that while the officials having to do with the administration of mines should not hold or speculate in mining claims, the case of Mr. Wade, who is clerk of the peace and crown attorney for the Yukon, is an exception to the general rule. The Globe says:
"We see the force of the argument that Mr. Wade's duties have no connection with mining claims or that his dealing with mining claims would not necessarily conflict with his duties, and that it is therefore neither corrupt nor illegal, and then, admitting all this our judgment is still against Mr. Wade or any other official speculating in mining claims for several reasons. First, it is important not only that the administration of justice should be pure so that people should have perfect confidence therein. If you lay down the rule that no official shall deal in mines (you say you have something to say that a rough and ready miner can understand and appreciate, but it is doubtful whether he could grasp the distinction between one sort of official and another. Suppose the mining inspector being himself forbidden to speculate in mines, is continually giving the crown attorney suggestions as to good things in the mining line; does he do this out of mere good nature and without corrupt intent? Then suppose he is tempted to speculate a little himself, or otherwise break the rule, with which he was armed, could the crown attorney carry on a prosecution against a man to whom he is bound by every tie of gratitude?"
WILL FORFEIT $500 A DAY.
Railway Must Be Completed From Robson to Midway by September.
GRAND FORKS, July 6.—Prominent railway officials announced here yesterday that according to the C. P. R. contract with the Dominion government the railway must be actually completed and trains running between Robson and Midway by September, 1899, and that a penalty of $500 a day shall be paid if the contractors fail to do so.
Will Vote for the Government Man.
As the date for the coming provincial election draws near it becomes more apparent that atleast three-quarters of the vote in Grand Forks will be cast for the independent government man.
Grand Forks Men Get a Contract.
Thomas Price, a resident of this place, has secured a five-mile grading contract on the Robson and Midway railway. His contract is for work in the vicinity of Christina lake.
MINING NOTES.
Lionel H. Webber has secured a 14-day option on the Le Roi Star, a fraction lying between the Centre Star and the Le Roi, and owned by A. L. Anderson.
The title of the Diamond Dust and the Noonday has been transferred from Edward Baillie and C. A. Baldwin to the Abbottsford Gold Mining company, which is now in control of the properties.
A number of companies are transferring titles of their properties to individuals, in order to avoid paying the annual license of $100, which became due on July 1st. The companies owning properties in the province.
The British Columbia Smelting & Refining Company has secured a crown grant for its property, the Morning Star No. 1. Richard Power of Trail has also secured a crown grant to the Gold Dollar No. 1, on Green mountain.
In the Copper Chief on Sophie mountain, at a depth of 18 feet, three feet of ore has been found on the hanging wall, and the ore is of a fine quality. This ore assays $10 to the ton. The owners of the property are greatly pleased with the find.
The ownership of the Blockberg and Surrum Corda, on Monte Christo mountain, has been incorporated as the Shakespeare Gold Mining company. F. R. Blockberger, American consular agent, is carrying on work on the claims with a small force of men.
Sanford Fleming has bought the Big Six group, including the Big Six, the Fystrack, the Klondike, the Producer, the Yukon, the Anacoanda, the Copper King, and the Skookum, from Kit Carson, D. McDermidt, W. R. Braden, Alex. Carson, John Wilson, J. W. McAuliffe, and J. Fred Ritchie.
Late advices from Ymir are very encouraging as to the Blue-Eyed Nellie property. A large vein has been encountered and the showing is of a most gratifying character. The Blue-Eyed Nellie is in the vicinity of the Porcupine group and of the famous Jubilee.
The Gold Queen.
On the Gold Queen, a property joining the Jubilee on Porcupine creek, the work of development has been in progress for the past six weeks. The lead can be followed on the surface for 1,000 feet. It has been opened up for 850 feet. There are three open cuts and one shaft. In the shaft there is four and one-half feet of mineral. The surface assays were $10.60. The owners of the property, Jos. Astley and Swan Nelson, discovered another piece, 30 feet east of the lead, on which they were working with a foot of ore in sight; they skipped this for 125 feet from where they found it, and the result was, they found it there again, which leads them to believe that the lead can be followed two leads. The owners are going to resume work on this property next week, and continue operations till the end of August.
Will Operate in British Columbia.
The Associated Gold Mines of British Columbia, with a capital of $500,000, in 21 shares, will issue its prospectus next week. It will acquire ninety-six properties in British Columbia; the purchase price is $275,000, and its object is to form companies to work them.

MARTIN IS ELECTED
He Defeated John McKane by a Majority of About 140.
WAS A QUIET ELECTION

Roseland Precinct Gave the Opposition Candidate a Majority of 97, Trail 5, Grand Forks 13, and Cascade City 6.—Two Precincts Hear From.
(From Sunday's Daily.)
The election in this riding yesterday resulted in the return of James Martin, the opposition candidate, over John McKane, the independent government candidate, by a majority of about 140. Roseland precinct gave Martin a majority of 97, Trail 5, Grand Forks 13, and Cascade City 6. There are two precincts to hear from which will give Martin a further majority.
The election in this city yesterday resulted in the polling of 562 votes, and of this number James Martin received 229 votes, and John McKane, the independent, 222. There was one spoiled ballot which was thrown out. This gave Mr. Martin a clear majority of 97 in the Roseland precinct. The election was an extremely quiet one. There was not a very large crowd around the polling place on Columbia avenue near St. Paul street at any time. As soon as the polls opened at 8 o'clock the business men began to pour in, and within an hour 100 votes had been cast. By 12 o'clock 300 votes had been cast, and these were principally the brokers, stockbrokers, hotelmen, merchants and their employees. Between 12 noon and 1:30 p. m. the workers began to arrive and by 1:30, 400 votes had been cast. Then there was a little lull. Voting began to get brisk and by 3 o'clock there was quite a rush and by 3:30, 528 votes had been polled. In the last half hour between 3:30 and 4 p. m. 66 votes were polled. There were only three challenges. Two of these were by J. W. Nelson on behalf of Mr. McKane. The third was a challenge by A. H. MacNeill, who caught a man whom it was alleged was trying to give the name of a departed friend. The impersonator of the departed refused to swear in the vote and was allowed to leave the polling place amid the jeers of those present. There was the best of order around the polls. The workers and the candidates gazed each other, more or less, but the badinage was given and received without any signs of bitterness and the result was that there were no personal encounters. Mr. Martin had a number of active workers, and among these were J. S. Patterson, J. D. McCaughey and others and judging from the result they did very effective work. Among the workers for Mr. McKane were A. R. Macdonald, Joseph Campbell, Frank Walker and others. They had a number of teams at their command and though they toiled like beavers the tide was against them, but they put up as good a fight as they could under adverse circumstances.
Rose Thompson was a host in himself and did some energetic work for McKane. Fred Ritchie was also a tireless worker.
It was thought that Trail would surely give a majority for McKane, and Colonel E. B. Topping telephoned Roseland a short time before the poll closed that his precinct was certain to give the independent government supporter a majority of 35 or 40. When the rest of the ballots were counted, however, it was found that Trail had cast 141 votes and of this number James Martin had received 76 votes and John McKane 71, thus giving Martin a majority of five.
Returns came in by telephone from the Boundary countries follows: Grand Forks, Martin 51, McKane 38; Cascade City, Martin 13, McKane 7; Trail 5.
Shortly after the returns from this city and Trail were received the adherents of Mr. Martin began to celebrate their victory. A brass band was engaged and the crowd gathered in front of the headquarters and amid music and speech-making they had a joyful time. Short addresses were made by John S. Clute, J. J. W. Wilkes, James Martin and others and there was much cheering and demonstration of joy. Later in the evening a procession was formed and Mr. Martin rode at its head in a coupe, followed by a long line of his henchmen, who cheered lustily, while the band played "Marching Through Georgia" and "Near My God to Thee," and other inspiring airs. Later in the evening the enthusiasm increased all along the line. It was a late hour this morning before the last hurrah of the victorious oppositionists were heard.
A Good Show Toss.
In the early history of Roseland it was not a good show town. This was because the population was made up principally of men who were so busy with other matters that they did not have the time or the inclination to attend theatrical performances. Now the conditions are altered. There are more families here now than formerly and the heads of households, now that they are better settled than when the town was in the process of construction, have more leisure and consequently more inclination to attend dramatic performances. The success achieved by the Lindley Dramatic company during its recent engagement here demonstrated this to be a fact. Manager White of the Roseland opera house has dates open for companies and expects to book several attractions that he is corresponding with in next few days.
