THE DIAMOND FROM THE SKY

She only knew that Arthur would not betray Blair and that Blair would not betray Arthur. She knew that while Blair secretly, yet with intense bitterness, hated his supposed cousin, Arthur had eagerly sacrificed himself for Blair. And now that Arthur, as John Powell, was indeed a golden man, Vivian remembered his strange attachment for Blair, and thought it well to apprise Blair of the change in the fortunes as well as the name of Arthur Stanley and have Blair come out to the west as a willing and valuable accomplice in her designs to strip the golden man of all his gold.

In Fairfax Blair was surprised to receive a brief but amiable letter from Vivian. The letter read:

My Dear Boy—Am sorry we parted in anger about the diamond. Arthur Stanley, under the name of John Powell, has struck it rich in oil here. You better join me and let bygones be bygones. Lovingly, Blair had crushed the note and wondered. In the presence of Vivian Blair was as a man under a toxic spell. But he remembered with bitterness her light and scornful dismissal of him. She had married him, given herself to him for the diamond from the sky. He had risked his life for it and her.

Yet when the train robbers had despoiled them of the great gem she had thrown him aside and mocked him. And now she needed him and sent for him. Blair was young, full blooded and evilly suspicious and passionate.

The sweet and beautiful development of Esther's character and person, now that he was relieved of the intoxicating presence of Vivian, had roused in Blair's breast a longing for Esther that he thought was love.

Was it true, as Abe Bloom, the gambler, had hinted, and Abe Bloom had known the lady of old, that Vivian Marston possessed several husbands and that her marriage, secret and hasty, to Blair in Richmond previous to their flight with the diamond was null and void?

Blair's mother had taunted him with this and had lightly dismissed the thoughts of Vivian and the marriage from her mind. It was Blair's mother also who constantly inspired him with thoughts of Esther. The very day the letter had come from Vivian to Blair Blair's mother had received a letter from Lawyer Hunter, the legal adviser to the Stanley's, who as referee in bankruptcy had charge of the sale of Stanley hall when it went to Detective Blake as highest bidder for some unknown client.

TO REGAIN HEALTH CLEANSE THE BLOOD

When your blood is impure, weak, thin and debilitated, you cannot possibly enjoy good health. Your system becomes receptive of any or all diseases, and germs are likely to lodge in some part of the body.

Put your blood in good condition, and do so at once.

Hood's Sarsaparilla acts directly and peculiarly on the blood—it purifies, enriches, and revitalizes it and builds up the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is not a cure-all. It is the best blood medicine on the market. It has stood the test of forty years and is used all over the world. Get it and begin treatment today. It will surely help you. Sold by all druggists.

LIVE WIRE FENCE

Marks the Border Line Between Belgium and Holland.

Tilburg, Netherlands, Jan. 4.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—A continuous wire fence, charged with electricity at high tension, marks the border line between Belgium and Holland. To touch the wire means instant death, and it is seemingly impossible for even a cat to crawl through unscathed. As a matter of fact, electrocuted dogs, cats and chickens are often found enmeshed in the wires. Resolute smugglers, however, are undismayed and constantly devise new tricks to circumvent the "line of death."

In a field near Baarle-Nassau, close to the frontier, a whole set of contrivances has been discovered which enable a man to cross the line unharm. The principal object was a flat oblong piece of wood, provided with a rubber-coated groove lengthwise down the center. Then, by means of hinged and jointed side-supports, the wire is pushed upwards and a tunnel-like opening appears, through which an ordinary-sized man, lying on his back may safely wriggle without coming into contact with the fatal wire. The official report says: "The owner has not presented himself to claim the return of his property."
