ALMOST AN ACCIDENT.—Just as the express train for Halifax started to leave Wolfville station Tuesday evening last, an old man named Wallace stepped from one of the cars to the station platform and attempted to get on another car; instead of doing which he swung around between the two cars, and would have been crushed to death had it not been for the presence of mind and the heroic conduct of Brakenham Dan Blair, who jumped from the baggage car door and caught the old man, lifting him by sheer muscular force at arms' length and landing him on the platform of the car, then catching the hind car himself. Such an act should not pass unrewarded.

If you wish to color wool, cottons, silk or feathers, use the new Electric Dye, Strongest and Best in the world. 10 cents at all-dealers.

SOCIABLE.—The sociable given by the ladies of the Baptist church in Witter's Hall on Wednesday evening was in every way a success. The house was well filled by a most appreciative audience. An excellent musical program, consisting of vocal and instrumental solos, duets, trios, quartettes, &c., was finely rendered. Miss Maggie Bishop read "My Sister and I," in her usual pleasing manner, and was highly applauded. Among the pleasing features of the entertainment was the performance of the Wolfville Quintette Club, which was even better than usual. Taken as a whole a most enjoyable evening was spent, and we hope before long we shall be favored by such another sociable.

PIERIAN.

"What's in a name?" Shakespeare puts the question, and without waiting for a reply, answers, "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet." Pierian, derived from the Greek, Pierios, or from the Latin, Pierius. Pierios, King of Emania, another name for Macedonia, gave his nine daughters the names of the nine Muses, namely, Calliope, Clio, Erato, Euterpe, Melpomene, Polyhymnia, Terpsichore, Thalia and Uranid. Their mother's name was Eurippe.

"Paonia" Eurippe mater fuit.—Ovid. Like the Muses, the Pierides, that is the daughters of Pieros, cultivated music, and, jealous of the reputation of those divine beings, challenged them to a musical contest. The Nymphs, or Nymphs, being appointed judges, decided in favor of the Muses. With this award the Pierides, being much displeas'd, vented their dissatisfaction in reproaches and abusive language. Whereupon the goddesses exercised their divine powers and changed their rivals into those well, but unfavorably known birds, the Magpies. "Tantane animis coelestibus irae!" The daughters of Pieros, as they were proficients in music were sometimes called Muses, or Muses, and were thus confounded with the deities, properly so called. The Magpie, or Pie, is a parti-colored bird of the crow tribe, called by Linnaeus "Corvus pica," and by Shakespeare the "Maggo-pie." It is moreover a loquacious, chattering bird, which is probably its most marked characteristic, and it was this property, especially, which was imposed upon it as a punishment for daring to contest with the Muses. It must not be understood however that Pierian Societies have assumed the name because they resemble Magpies in either dress or loquacity or a chattering propensity; or that others are disposed to regard them as chatter-boxes or chattering birds, as the magpie is. All that is designed in this learned disquisition is to trace and give the origin of the word Pierian—of which it is possible that some members of societies bearing that name have not always been aware.

ACADIA SEMINARY.

A correspondent to the Messenger and Visitor says the following in reference to Acadia Seminary: "This is an institution that is becoming well and favorably known to our Baptist public; but not yet more widely known than it should be, considering the work it is doing and the important place it holds in our educational machinery. I lately had the privilege of visiting the commodious building in which this school has its headquarters, and was much pleased with the air of taste and refinement that prevailed there. The large reception room at the entrance attracted attention immediately on entering the building. This, as it is now furnished and furnished, is certainly an elegant room. The walls and ceiling were painted in colors by a competent artist over a year ago, and now, through the generosity of Mrs Lovitt, of Yarmouth, the room has been carpeted in a style to match and harmonize with the mural decorations. The carpets, and the large Persian rug, in the adjacent music room, were selected, I learned, by Miss Graves, and they certainly exhibit a discriminating taste. The main body of the school is bright and warm in color, without being extreme, and the deep border of still richer color, surrounded by inland native woods, gives to the whole a most pleasing effect.

In company with the principal, I visited the library and reading-room. In the former they have nearly 400 volumes. In looking over them I saw all the leading poets and essayists represented, and several of the better writers of fiction. There was also standard works in other departments of literature and valuable books of reference.

The reading-room is supplied with the leading provincial papers, and a few American. The arrangement of the main hall is very convenient, and the school is always open and easy of access, the young ladies have no excuse for not becoming acquainted with the current events of the day. On enquiry, I found the number in attendance this term to be 75; of these, 3 are from Cape Breton, 7 from N. B., 3 from P. E. I., 1 from New York, and 59 from N. S. proper.

The curriculum of this school is now most satisfactory. The teachers have skill and experience, and there is prevailing the work of the institution, a very healthful, moral and religious atmosphere. Seminary is a school to be commended to those who wish a thorough education at a moderate expense."

The Little Sweethearts.

This beautiful picture of which we have heard so much is without doubt far superior to the ordinary premium chromos. In fact it will pay all who receive the "Little Sweethearts" to take it at once to Rockwell & Co.'s and have it framed, as they are in a position to frame these pictures at from 10 to 20 percent less than any other firm in the County.

You may ask Why? 1st.—We import our mouldings and fittings direct from the manufacturers.

2d.—We have framed more pictures in the past year than any other firm in this County, and five times as many as those who merely dabble in the business, therefore we use more stock and are thereby able to import in large quantities, thereby getting extra discounts. This also shows that our prices are right or we would not be patronised so largely.

3d.—We have every facility for making frames, and therefore can do the work cheaper than most others.

Our Frames are all made by first-class workmen who have had long experience in the business, therefore customers will find our work neater and more durable than that done by Amateurs who put frames up from a saw in a rough manner.

Now if you have any pictures to frame don't fail to give us a call, and we will show you our work and give any further information required.
