A Pleasant Day's Outing.

The writer had the pleasure of making one of a party of twelve who enjoyed a very pleasant drive and picnic on Friday last. The whole party occupied a comfortable four seated wagon drawn by three fine horses. The day opened unfavorably, but the afternoon was most delightful one. The party comprised Mr and Mrs William Cox, Mr and Mrs Sherman Bulcher, of Upper Dike Village; Mr and Mrs Clarence Kinsman, of Sheffields Mills; Mr and Mrs Davidson, of Wolfville; Miss Hattie Moore and Miss Winnie Bulcher, of Kentville; Miss Minnie McKay, of Halifax; Miss Edith Hennigar, of Canning. The first place visited was the fine large barn under construction by the R. W. Kinsman Co., at Woodside. Mr Connors, the foreman, courteously placed the whole establishment at the disposal of the party. Tables were arranged and a most elaborate picnic dinner was had. The ladies of the party are recognized as experts in the culinary art and in this case had evidently vied with each other in the preparation of things dainty and delicious. After full justice had been done to all and a thorough inspection made of the barn and premises, the horses were again harnessed and the drive resumed to Hantsport's beach, the point of destination. The drive was a most beautiful one and was heartily enjoyed. On arriving at the beach bathing was indulged in by some, while others organized a clam-bogging expedition. After spending some hours in walking about the beach and enjoying the delightful scenery and cool sea air, tea was served and at dark the drive homeward began. This was the most delightful of all. The moon came out and added its charm to the scenery. With song and conversation the drive passed all too soon, and at about 11 o'clock home was reached.
