

AN IDEAL TONIC

When your head is dull and heavy, your tongue furred, and you feel down-up and good for nothing, without knowing what is really the matter with you, probably all that is needed to restore you to health and vigor is a few doses of a reliable digestive tonic and stomachic remedy such as Mother Seigel's Syrup. Take it after each meal for a few days and note how beneficial is its action upon the stomach, liver and bowels—how it restores tone and healthy activity to these important organs, and by so doing enables you to gain new stores of vigor, vitality and health.

MOTHER SEIGEL'S SYRUP

The new 1.00 size contains three times as much as the trial size sold at 50c per bottle.

LONDON GOSSIP.

LONDON, Feb. 5th, 1917.
MRS. AUSTEN CHAMBERLAIN.

The birth of a second son to the Secretary of State for India has caused considerable excitement in the family, for his other son was born almost ten years ago. That boy was the greatest delight of Joseph Chamberlain's last saddened years. Mrs. Austen Chamberlain, who was Miss Ivy Dundas, daughter of Colonel Henry Dundas, has always taken a deep interest and active part in her husband's public career. They have a delightful house in Egerton Place, London, and live also at Highbury. They have one daughter.

CRUICK'S DOG SHOW.

Charles Cruick has received an entry of 2,500 in connection with this week's show in the Agricultural Hall, Islington—a surprising total in war-time and with travelling expenses 50 per cent. more than they were up to the end of last year. The Lancashire judges, Hugo Alingough and C. Houlker, are specially favoured, the former having drawn an entry of 140 collies, while the Accrington expert has the biggest section in the show. His 318 fox-terriers, smooth and rough coated, will provide him with a hard day's work. G. Ruper's bulldogs number 135; there are 100 Cairn terriers and 99 Airedales. The failures are the big non-sporting breeds, a fact which need cause no wonder in these days. The working dog, especially the terrier or gun-dog, now appears likely to come into his own.

"PEG-TOP" PETTICOATS PROTEST.

A voluntary league of women is suggested the members of which shall pledge themselves not to adopt the proposed "peg-top" skirts as a protest against dressmakers' dictation of fresh fashions during the period of rigid economy necessitated by the war. Not many people might like, even in war time, to see a revival of sumptuary legislation, but the callous disregard of the public pocket displayed in the suggested change is provoking a very decided protest, and may lead to a demand for interference. Those women who point out that the present is decidedly not a time for a revolution in the cut of our clothing—both visible and invisible," will find an amount of support from their own sex just now which at no previous period would in the same degree have been forthcoming. Your correspondent was once chatting with a lady who probably had written more columns of fashionable intelligence for various newspapers and periodicals than any who ever lived, and I asked her to tell me who it was that fixed the fashions. "My dear Sir," she replied, "I have been writing all these years and all these thousands of columns, and I have never found out yet. All that I know is that the changes come, and that the only thing sure about them is that they will make the dress so different that every woman is able to tell at a glance whether the other woman's dress is this year's or last, and that for all women settles it."

It Stops the Twinges of Rheumatism, Limbers the Muscles, Eases the Joints

Amazing Relief Comes at Once—
Cure Every Time.

USE NEVILLINE.

Aching joints and sore muscles are common in rheumatic people. Inflammation is deep in the tissues. You might use a dozen remedies and derive little relief than Nevilline will give you in half an hour. Nevilline is a pain-subduer that works do not altogether describe. It is fully five times stronger than most remedies, not that it affects the system, but that it acts on the nerves. It is due to its wonderful penetrative quality—it strikes in deeply, but never burns or blisters.

Just rub Nevilline into sore muscles, stiff joints, and note the glow of comfort, the ease of pain that follows. You are astonished, delighted; this is because words do not express the promptness and permanency with which Nevilline cures every ache and pain in the muscles and joints.

Marvelous, you'll say. Natural we say, because Nevilline is different, stronger, more penetrating, a true pain-subduer. Just try it and see if it doesn't cure rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, strains and sprains. Get it to-day. Sold by dealers everywhere—25c bottle.

In 1914 to over £42,000 for last year.

THE EMPIRE'S METAL BEARING DEPOSITS.

By arrangement between the Imperial, Colonial, and Indian Governments, a return is to be prepared, I hear, showing the approximate resources of the Empire as a whole in proved metal-bearing deposits. Its preparation is not expected to involve an undue amount of labor, having regard to what will prove its very great utility; and it is not apprehended, especially in official colonial circles, that much difficulty will be presented by the tabular statements, which also are being asked for, indicating the tonnage and value of metals treated and exported, whether to the mother country or countries outside the Empire, during a given number of years. The return will be one further attempt to systematise our knowledge of the Empire's resources, a branch of information of which some lack of regular collection and collation has been noted in the past; and its preparation and appearance, therefore, will be welcomed, especially in view of the great commercial and financial problem which will be presented to us after the war.

REPRISALS.

An international lawyer with whom I have had some conversation emphasises the concluding passage, in the Foreign Office communication respecting the German threat to sink hospital ships. If the threat is carried out reprisals will immediately be taken by the British authorities. Of course no hint has escaped as to the manner in which they would be carried out. The principle of retaliation has already been invoked by this country in the war. The Order in Council in March, 1915, which instituted the commercial blockade of Germany is specifically based on the "unquestionable right of retaliation" against the conduct of the German Government in issuing orders "which, in violation of the usages of war, purport to declare the waters surrounding the United Kingdom a military area," and also the memorandum in which "neutrals are warned against entrusting crews, passengers or goods to British or Allied ships." Reprisals are directed against illegitimate acts of warfare. They are the punishment for a crime; but, as the course of the war has shown, one of the greatest weaknesses of international law as a restraining influence is that it provides no supreme authority to enforce its dictates. The too ready assumption in the past has been that nations will carry on war, perhaps also owing to the suspicions that belligerents in the presence of a glaring infringement of the laws of war are not to be restrained by convention, the body of doctrine with regard to the nature of reprisals is meagre and lacking in precision. Their necessity is acknowledged, but the trend of learned opinion has been to discourage them except in the very gravest cases.

"Tiz" Fixes Aching, Swollen, Sore Feet

How "TIZ" does comfort tired, burning, calloused feet and corns.

Good-bye, sore feet, burning feet, swollen feet, tender feet, tired feet. Good-bye, corns, callouses, bunions and raw spots. No more shoe tightness, no more limping with pain or drawing up your face in agony. "Tiz" is magical, acts right off. "Tiz" draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet. Use "Tiz" and wear smaller shoes. Use "Tiz" and forget your foot misery. Ah! how comfortable your feet feel.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" now at any druggist or department store. Don't suffer. Have good feet, glad feet, feet that never swell, never hurt, never get tired. A year's foot comfort guaranteed or money refunded.

Your Boys and Girls.

A good way to furnish a child's room at little cost is to paint the floor a drab color two feet around the wall and cover the rest of the floor with an art square of light matting. Paint an old bed, chairs, stand and any article you wish in white. Pad the chairs, back and seat, with some soft goods, then cover with white oilcloth, and tack with brass tacks all around seat and back, also tack biscuit fashion. Take a small box for a footstool, cover it, and you will have something pretty and lasting. Make curtains of bleached cheesecloth with ruffles and edge with cheap lace if you like. On the walls have pictures of children and animals in bright colors.

White collars on frocks are going out of fashion; they are being replaced by small collars of contrasting color or the frock is finished without any collar.

ASK FOR MINARD'S LINIMENT AND TAKE NO OTHER.

Girls! Have Wavy, Thick, Glossy Hair Free From Dandruff

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments—try this!

If you care for heavy hair, that gleams with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scrub robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots flake out, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now?

British "Ruthlessness"

When Mr. Lloyd George says that "for some time" there has been a shortage of tonnage required for the needs of the British nation, he must be speaking of a period that antedates the February declaration of ruthless submarine war. That declaration has probably not increased the shortage much. The shortage, then, exists whether or not the navy succeeds in holding down the new submarine attack, and the food supply must be increased in any case. Great Britain not only can raise more foodstuffs than she has ever done, but is in fact doing so. Still, she is not raising enough, because the producers fear to let themselves go, lest the termination of the war might bring about a collapse in prices and the loss of their investment. To remove this fear the Premier announces that the Government will guarantee them minimum prices for a certain period, which will continue whether the war ends or not. He also proposes a minimum wage for agricultural laborers.

The Government also announces through him its purpose to cut down importations and build more ships. Among the importations cut off are coffee, tea, and cocoa. Any attempt to corner the markets will be met vigorously, if necessary, by the government taking control of the product chosen for attack by speculators. The army in France is to be made self-supporting.

The Premier describes these and the other stringent measures he proposes as dealing "ruthlessly and promptly" with the tonnage problem. The British ruthlessness is of a different kind from the German, slaughters no innocents, and breaks no commandments, but in its own fashion it is just as vigorously applied; not to neutrals, but to the men and women of Great Britain. It is almost amusing to look back and reflect that this is the nation which Germany imagined could be scared into begging for peace by a few Zeppelin raids and the bombardment of fishing villages and summer resorts. The argument for Schrecklichkeit is that it is really a military measure, even if it produces no military results, since it frightens the enemy into submission. It might be a good argument if men were made that way. Germany thought she understood the mental processes of Englishmen; if she still retains that delusion, it must be rather badly dented by this time.—N. Y. Times.

THE COUGH DROP.

The cough drop is a vest pocket remedy which enables man to live in peace and harmony with his neck.

The human neck, as usually constructed, is an intricate piece of mechanism and harder to keep turned up than a 1910 touring car. Owing to a peculiar habit which so many people have of opening their mouths in the form of the top of a kerosene barrel, when engaged in conversation, there is nothing to prevent the influenza microbe from entering noiselessly and settling on the neck in a menacing attitude. This results in a cough which starts from the shoe top and lets go with a snort like a shepherd dog with the quincy.

Our forefathers used to try to cure a cough with application of turpentine, mustard, salt pork and onions, but as this left the patient in an exhausted and highly perfumed state somebody got up the astringent cough drop, which could be applied internally and did not bite the outside of the neck. Despite the fact that this is one of the noblest inventions that ever differentiated man from the brute nothing has ever been done to perpetuate the memory of the inventor, while the man who invents a new way to spend money without earning it is hung all over with floral chaplets and bronze medals.

The cough drop can be carried in the same pocket which holds the aromatic clove, and usually is. For the benign purposes for which the clove is so admirably fitted the commercial cough drop is a pleasing substitute. Many a man has returned home late at night after an invigorating social session, and found that he had run out of cloves, only to fall back on the penetrating cough drop and thus soothe the suspicions of a loving wife. Amateur vocalists are much addicted to the use of the cough drop, as it allows their vocal chords to slide freely to and fro and seize a high note firmly between their teeth. This is the only argument against the indiscriminate use of the cough drop.

Fads and Fashions.

Hats will have very tall crowns. The new skirt may be narrow at the bottom and wide at the top. Chinese patterns in silk embroidery are particularly fashionable. White gloves are the proper thing for afternoon and luncheon affairs. The new white petticoats are neither very full nor very narrow. Nothing is too gay—either in color or pattern—for sports clothes. Narrow blue braid makes a good trimming for a blouse of white chiffon. Soft satin hats are embroidered with gold or silver or a brilliant color.

A white satin petticoat with ruffles of printed chiffon is quite charming.
