

Magistrates Court

Two citizens charged by the Board of Control for a breach of section 24, sub-section 3 of the Alcoholic Liquors Act, were convicted and fined $10 or in default 30 days imprisonment.

A man charged with a breach of Street Traffic Regulations was fined to go upon paying costs.

A man and a woman, apparently sound mind, were held in custody to be examined by a doctor. They were both deported from Boston and fined $2 each.

Two drunks and disorderlies were arrested and fined $2 each.

A 27 year old seaman named Frost, of the yacht, Sylvia, was arrested and charged by the Board of Liquor Control with a breach of section 24, sub-section 3 of the Alcoholic Liquors Act, that is, drunk in a public place.

A second charge was laid by the board for accosting females on the sidewalk street on Saturday night. The charge of Const. Kennedy, who made arrest, was taken, and showed the accused first interrupted the station Army service, which was conducted in Sagar's Cove. The man was under the influence of liquor and when cautioned by the officer and ordered to move on, he proceeded east along Water Street.

He met two of his friends. The three then started shouting out and drew a large crowd around.

Caught hold of several women who were passing in that direction. The man was then placed under arrest and conveyed to the lockup. The board had no explanation to make, merely stating that he was too drunk to know what he was doing.

Major Judge Morris then fined him $10 for each offence or in default 60 days imprisonment.

CHANDLER MOTOR

NEW YORK, June 12.—The advance in Chandler Motor to a new high at $9 5-8 reflects increased confidence in the company's future and its improved financial condition, which bankers say is the best in five years. Conservative dividend policy has enabled the strengthening of cash position and left Chandler entirely free of bank debt for the first time since 1920.

Chandler's main difficulty during this period, reflected in the decline in the stock from around par to under 30, has been the necessity until last year of maintaining a dividend which closely approximated annual earnings. With this difficulty removed through reduction in dividend from $6 to $3 annually, a rate well below normal earning power, the company is increasing its surplus and adding strength of its net quick asset position.

Notwithstanding the onerous rate of the past five years, some improvement in this direction has been noted. The company has steadily liquidated its $1,250,000 bank debt since 1921 to extent of $1,000,000 yearly, leaving it entirely free of the banks at end of last year. The strain was reflected in working capital, which declined to around $1,000,000 last year against $3,600,000 in 1920.

It is estimated, Chandler earned its full year's $3 dividend in the first five months, which indicates a balance exceeding $850,000 for this period. While official figures are not available, the prospect is that, having paid out less than half its earnings in dividends during this period, working capital will show a betterment of some 40 per cent. for the period. Interests close to the company believe it will have no difficulty in earnings around $6 a share for its 230,000 shares this year, which would compare with $4.81 earned last year.

Business continues to hold up well, and shipments the past three months are understood to have averaged between 1000 and 15000 cars monthly. While Chandler is not doing some of the sensational feats other companies have done this year, the stock has undoubtedly attracted many friends through the conservatism with which the management is building for the future.

AMUNDSEN VOYAGE WILL HAVE GREAT RESULTS.

COPENHAGEN, May 22.

Knud Rasmussen, the Danish Arctic explorer, commenting upon the Amundsen attempt to reach the North Pole by air, said, from a scientific point of view, it is of no consequence that Amundsen did not actually reach the Pole. "On the whole, I am of the opinion that his flight will have a revolutionary effect on the methods used in future Arctic researches. One conclusion to be drawn is that more than one airplane must be used, to ensure the success of a Polar aerial expedition," he said.

MACMILLAN'S PLANS.

MONHEGAN ISLAND, Me., June 22.

Commander B. MacMillan to-day was well started on the first leg of his ninth expedition to the Arctic, sailing yesterday from this port on board the 115 ton auxiliary schooner Bowdoin. MacMillan hoped to reach Sydney, N.S., where fuel oil will be obtained for the voyage north, on Thursday, a tender, and three amphibian naval planes by means of which explorer hopes to discover great areas of land in the vicinity of the North Pole. Before leaving here, Commander MacMillan said he looked forward to flying from Cape Thomas Hubbard, Axel Heiberg Island, out over Polar Sea in search of land, which he believes to exist there. With a flying radius of 250 miles, he said, the planes will be able to cover a vast territory and settle the question whether the areas about the Pole are land or water. Dr. Gilbert Grover, President of National Geographic Society, who is sponsoring and financing the expedition, is a guest on board the Bowdoin and will accompany MacMillan as far as Sydney, N.S. The explorer made his formal start for the Arctic from Wiscasset Saturday when official farewells were said. At Monhegan Island is always a part of MacMillan's voyage north, his ship is made ready for the expeditions here and he has many friends on the island.

The Cemetery Beautiful

That is something more than a pretty phrase. It is an appeal to each individual lot-owner to do his share toward making the Cemetery what it should be—really attractive—full of harmony—replete in restfulness.

It calls for artistic—although not necessarily large—Memorials, placed in well ordered, well kept settings—all brought together in a colorful gloom-dispelling picture.

The essential part of our business is to give assistance to those deciding these matters. Our service, with complete information, Catalogues and estimates, is at the disposal of all Memorial purchasers. We invite you to visit our Display Rooms and let us confer with you on what you require.
