It is difficult to say which numbers won the most favor, the trombone selec-tions, the quartette and sele work, or the characteristic "Hoosier" impersonations given by Mr. C. H. Divon.
The club's first trombone number.
"Hark the Trumpet," was rendered most excellently, and the quartette received repeated encores. "Humoresque," by Beethoven, was another popular number. The solo work of Mr. Turner, first tenor in "Moonlight Bay," and the singing of some old-time songs by the quartette, deserved special mention. Mr. Dixon has appeared before in London, but his sketches on Saturday night showed that none of his skill as an entertainer has two and a half years was a resident of been lost.

WOODSTOCK WOULD LIKE

says that it was carefully surveyed lately by C. P. R. engineers, and that require 35 acres of land. Woodstock Would Like It.

In the opinion of many people, among them some of the C. P. R. superintendents, Woodstock is a much more suitable location for the shops than is London. From London there are no C. P. R. branches, while Woodstock has the main line, the St. Thomas, the Port Burwell and the St. Marys branches, with a good prospect of having in the near future a C. P. R. connection with Brantford. If the Weir farm were bought by the company there would be lots of room for expansion, while the land to be obtained in the neighborhood of the shops in London is very limited, and expansion is costly and difficult.

It is known that the C. P. R. has had its surveyors at work in the NIGHTINGALE, in song and dramatic west end of the city lately, and it is recital. possible that Woodstock may be a considerable gainer as a result of these activities.
