

The Weekly Monitor.

BRIDGETOWN, MAY 23rd, 1877.

THE SITUATION.

The war-cloud, which at first overshadowed but a portion, is gradually extending its scope and threatens ere long to darken several of the European monarchies. In France, that land of revolutions and republics, appearances have by no means a promising outlook. Ever mercurial in their tendencies, the slightest disturbance of the social or political elements of the nation causes this characteristic to ascend in the national tube to such an extent as to render incapable the Constitution of restraining its expansive properties, and the result has ever been an uprising of the populace, accompanied with violence and frequently bloodshed. The present unhappy condition of affairs appears to have been brought about by a somewhat despotic despatch of the President, MacMahon, to M. Simon Minister of the Interior. This the French Ministry could ill brook, and hence the disturbance. Gambetta, the popular leader of the Left, at once protested against such an usurpation of power, and it is believed, that in this protest the vast majority of the nation concurred; but the army, ever the dominant and controlling power in France, are with the President, and so Gambetta, for the present at least, must be content with protesting. What the end may be is indeed difficult to forecast. Across the Channel, in our own "Island home," sentiment is much divided on the great Eastern question, and it is by no means improbable that complications of a most serious character may arise before this difficult problem is finally solved. Active operations of an extensive nature are going on rapidly at all the arsenals and dockyards in the kingdom. Our Eastern fortresses are being reinforced, and some of the most powerful and effective ships in the British navy ordered into eastern waters. Orders for the manufacture of those "fireballs of death" are being executed with marvellous rapidity—garrisons re-voctualled—troops placed upon a war footing, and, in fact, everything is being done which points to the conclusion that England is determined to be prepared for any emergency that may arise.

New Store.—Messrs. Phinney & Smith intend opening a new lot of choice goods, consisting of Groceries, Dry Goods, Clothing, Millinery, &c., on Monday the 28th inst., in the store formerly occupied by R. D. Macdonald, Messrs. P. & S. are a new firm just commencing business. Look at their advertisement in another column.

ACCIDENT.—On Saturday afternoon an accident of a serious nature, happened to the Rev. Mr. Vidilo, Baptist Minister. It appears that he was engaged in the upper flat of his new house, now under construction, when, by some means he was unfortunately enough to fall from where he stood down into the cellar, a distance of seventeen feet, breaking one bone of his arm close to the wrist, several of his ribs and badly lacerating his face. He is improving.

PERSONAL.—The Rev. Mr. Young of New Brunswick, who has been assisting Elder Blakeney in the revival which has been going on at the Bay shore for some months past, preached his farewell sermon to the congregation at Parker's Cove last Sabbath afternoon. He left for his home on Tuesday, carrying with him many pleasing recollections of his labors, and the heartfelt prayers of those who under God he has been the means of reclaiming from the error of their ways. The meetings are still to be continued by Elder Blakeney.

ENTERTAINMENT.—Another of those very interesting and amusing entertainments given from time to time by the members of "Olive Branch" Division took place at their division room on Monday Evening. Songs, instrumental music, recitations, dialogues, &c., were rendered with great credit to the performers, and to the delight of the audience present. The whole performance was a success, each one rendering the part assigned them in a clear and audible voice. The decoration of the platform looked exceedingly well, showing a degree of taste and refinement on the part of those who did it. The entertainment closed with a very amusing farce entitled "Hemmed in."

SENDING STEAMERS ACROSS THE CONTINENT BY RAIL.

From the New York Tribune.] The novel enterprise of transporting large steamers across the continent has been successfully carried out within a few weeks. In October, 1876, George H. Reddary, president of the Occidental and Oriental Steamship Company, and made a contract with Fletcher, Harrison & Co., of this city, for the construction of two side-wheel steamships, each of the following dimensions:—Keel, 210 feet; beam, 32 feet; depth of hold, 10 1/2 feet. Each was to have two boilers, one vertical beam condensing engine, with a cylinder 50 inches in diameter and 11 feet length of stroke. The contract provided that the hulls, machinery, and joiner-work should be built and fitted together here, and that when completed the boats should be taken to pieces and shipped by rail to San Francisco, and there put together again. In accordance with the agreement, Fletcher, Harrison & Co., early in March, forwarded the hull and machinery of the first vessel, and they have since dispatched the hull and machinery of the second with the joiner-work for both. The boilers for the second boat were delivered in Jersey City about a week ago, and are now on their way to San Francisco. The entire weight of the vessels and machinery as shipped was about 800 tons. The four boilers were completed before shipment, and taken on locomotive trucks to Buffalo, whence they were transferred to Lovell flats, upon which they were transported without change to their destination. Each ship has been delivered about twenty days after it left New York. The steamers are to be worked by the Government, and are not confined to Turkey in Europe alone, but is the prevailing church in Asia Minor and all the principalities and Pachaiks tributary to Turkey, besides in many independent Asiatic sovereignties.

THE HORRORS OF CHINESE WARFARE.

A correspondent of the London "Times" writing from Shanghai of the Chinese rebellion, gives a thrilling account of the capture of Mans by the Government troops and of the terrible scenes of bloodshed which ensued. The Mohammedan commander of the insurgents sought and obtained permission to surrender, and marched into the Government camp with some 3000 fighting men, armed to the teeth. The Government general ordered them to throw down their arms when they suddenly made a rush upon the besiegers, who had, however, been suspecting this movement and who soon repulsed them. The insurgent leader was captured and beheaded before his line, and his troops were all finally captured and killed to a man. Another body of the Government troops had, meanwhile, captured the city and put to death every one of its inhabitants sparing only the old men, women and children. Hai-gen and other insurgent leaders were captured alive and put to death with extreme torture. The corpses of various other leaders, together with the remains of the "Prince of Pure Religion," so called, who had died or been slain during the siege, were sought out and exhibited and cut to pieces before the troops and the survivors of the rebels as a public example. In short, all the able bodied males in the city were massacred to the number of several thousand. The account of this affair is not taken from rumor, but from the official reports of the Imperial Viceroy and of the commander of the government forces, General Shi Shun.

A PICTOR HEROINE.

Picton has a little heroine in Alice Irving 7 years of age, who on Tuesday last, when some clothing in the room she was sleeping in with her 5 year old brother caught fire, dropped off from the window-sill, 35 feet from the ground, to gain access to the door which was locked, to liberate her brother. The little fellow, however, unheeding his sister's warning, did not wait, but crawled to the window and fell to the ground. Both children miraculously escaped injury. The arm and leg of the little heroine slightly injured, but she feels no other ill effects. The little fellow was playing around next day.

INGRATITUDE AND ROBBERY.

On Monday last a sailor, known here by the name of "Scottie," was lodged in Annapolis, Md. He was a native of Annapolis, and was liberated about noon the next day. At the station he met a brother who was returning home from sea with about $300, and by some means, too common among sailors, succeeded in getting into the good graces of his new made friend. "Scottie's" coat was out of order, and his friend fitted him out with a new one, and also with other articles of clothing, all of which were much needed. They then fitted themselves out with a lot of rum and took the train for the eastward. "Scottie" succeeded in soothing his benefactor into a sound sleep, and then robbed him of his money and stepped off the train at Kentville. When the train left Kentville the conductor and another man perceived that "Scottie" was not aboard, and suspecting something wrong awoke the sleeper, who soon discovered that his money was gone. He was put off at the next station and returned to Kentville, to find "Scottie" dressed from head to foot in a new suit, and decorated with jewelry. He was immediately lodged in jail where he remains. The most of the money was obtained.—Journal.

A DISTRESSING CASE.

FOUR CHILDREN THROWN BY THEIR FATHER TO A PACK OF WOLVES. A few months ago a Russian peasant with his wife and four children was travelling in a sleigh along the banks of the Pruth, when they were pursued by a pack of wolves. The peasant urged on the horses as much as he could, but he soon perceived the horrible fact that the wolves were fast gaining upon them. At the moment when the sleigh was surrounded by the ravenous beasts the man seized one of the children, threw it into the midst of them, and while the wolves were struggling over their prey he hastened on his horse and gained ground. Four times the wolves seized up with their mouths open, and the horrible sacrifice was completed. At last the peasant and his wife arrived at the nearest village, leaving behind them the bones of their children. In the bitterness of her despair the mother informed against her husband; but the judges, considering that if the peasant had not designed himself to the horrible sacrifice, he would not only have lost his children, but also his wife, accordingly acquitted the prisoner.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY.

A horrible tragedy is reported at Streator a large mining town, 100 miles south-west of Chicago. Some unknown find managed to poison the food of the miners, so that sixty men were killed, and the rest, after a long and agonizing struggle, died of the disease. The murderer had mixed arsenic with the dinners of the miners, producing such results that several of the victims are already dead, and the rest are in a dying agony. No clue to the perpetrator of the fiendish outrage has yet been discovered, but the tragedy grew out of the recent strike and the consequent difficulties among the miners. The poisoned men are of those who had been substituted for the strikers. The results would have been more immediately apparent had a quantity of the arsenic been given. There is intense excitement in the town and vicinity. Detectives are making every possible effort to discover the perpetrators of the foul deed.

On Saturday, a week ago, in Altoona, Pa., William Harkins, a miner, from Hunsville, supposed to be insane from drink, approached a high Courtney, and, with great provocation, in walking him several times in the leg and side with a pocket-knife. He then rushed at a crowd of men, who ran from him, and one of them, named Knepp, falling from the ground, he hit him on the head with the stomach, inflicting fatal wounds. Harkins was then assailed, had his skull twice fractured and his arm broken, and was shot twice. His injuries, it was thought, were fatal.

At a farm near Chattanooga, Tenn., a couple of rats recently attempted to drive a hen from a lot of provender she had scratched up, when she gave a cluck that called the rooster to her aid. He came on gallantly, and the rats showing fight he drove his spurs, struck first one, and then the other, after which he hen picked out their eyes.

SEVEN THUNDER STORMS.—A correspondent of the "Woodstock Sentinel" writing from Grand Falls, under date of the 16th inst., says: "We had on last Monday a heavy thunder squall, which took the roof of several houses and barns, leveling fences and taking trees out by the roots. I have not heard tell as yet of any lives being lost, but there were some narrow escapes."

The trade of St. Thomas is on the decline. That island has hitherto been the warehouse of many of the adjacent islands, supplying them with European manufactures and American provisions; but the chief islands, such as Porto Rico, Hayti, and particularly St. Domingo, are resorting more and more to direct importations.

The submarine and land telegraph lines now in operation measures a distance of more than 400,000 miles, and employ 1,000,000 miles of wire. At present there are 31,065 telegraph stations sending in the aggregate 80,000,000 messages per annum.

A terrible drought prevails in parts of Australia. Nearly every sheep station in New South Wales has lost from 1000 to 5000 head of sheep. The total loss is estimated at over 1,000,000 sheep.

The word Parliament is derived from the French word parlement (discourse). Parliament was the name given to the general assemblies of the States under Louis VII. of France, in the twelfth century.

One of the curiosities at a recent sale was a St. Louis watch, which was a case twenty-five years old, which was taken on the occasion of the original wedding.
