"Signal ability. The author thinks for himself, strikes out into his own paths, and walks alone with an independent step; he does not lean on the arm of anyone. We rejoice to know from this volume, that Cambria has still preachers of original thought, fervid enthusiasm and stirring eloquence."—The Homilist.

"We regard the discourses of this volume as models of exposition; and ministers who are engaged in taking their hearers through the first gospel, cannot do better than get Mr. Jones' volume."—Christian World Pulpit.

"Mr. Jones writes with much literary finish and skill, and with an evident avoidance of coarse sensationalism so common in works of the kind, for which we know not how to be sufficiently grateful."—Christian Globe.
