

Canadian Poultry Review.

DEVOTED TO POULTRY AND PET STOCK.

Vol. 4.

STRATHROY, ONTARIO, JANUARY, 1881.

No. 2.

ROUEN DUCKS.

By request we give this month the above excellent plate of a pair of Rouen ducks. The drakes of this variety are very handsome, being exactly similar in color to the wild Mallard. For a short time in summer his feathers lose much of their brilliant hues and then much resembles the duck in color. She is always plain in appearance, being of a brownish drab throughout. This variety holds its own well among fanciers, and gives as good returns to its keepers as any other.