

For the reader who is restricted by time considerations the summary at the end of each chapter, and the two sections where comparisons are made between the attentive public and the general public provide the major conclusions of the study.