

---

Endnotes

- 1 See Bill Neilson, "Vietnam: Legal Indigestion and the New Economy", Asia Pacific News, Centre for Asia Pacific Initiatives, March, 1993.
- 2 EPZs, as described in Part 11 of this section, are Government-established industrial zones in which enterprises produce goods for export, or provide services to support export-oriented activities.
- 3 Note that the foreign partner in a BCC cannot lease land use rights. Instead, all land use rights for BCCs must be contributed by the Vietnamese partner. See Asian Corporate Law, May 1993, p.11.
- 4 International arbitration centres include the newly-established, non-government Vietnam International Arbitration Centre, and the British Columbia International Commercial Arbitration Centre.