

tual Pastors, to make his Departure at last in the Odour of Sanctity, and his funeral Obsequies were solemnized with a Pomp and Solemnity befitting the Governor himself.

While these Things were transacting at Port-Royal, a new Project was formed in France to get Possession of Pentagoet, a River which lies 30 Leagues S. W. from that of St. Croix: With this View a Colony, duly furnished with Missionaries, was transported thither in the Year 1613; where finding no Body to oppose them, the Men landed, and presently raised a Fort. This Attempt, however, proved abortive, and the Colony was totally destroyed before the People had Time to form themselves into a regular Settlement. For the Governor of Virginia, who several Years before had obtained a Grant of this Coast as far as to the Latitude of 45 Degrees North, being informed by some of his People (who used the Fishery at a little Island called Mount Desert, near the Mouth of that River) of this Invasion of his Right, in a Place of great Importance, on Account of that Trade. He dispatched Commodore Argol, with three Ships of Force, this same Year, into these Parts, who, on his Arrival here, set fire to the Fort, and carried away the whole Colony, with their Missionaries, Prisoners of War. From hence he proceeded to Port Royal, where, finding
