

CONTENTS

	PAGE
recollections—How Mackenzie confiscated the enemy's Campaign Thunder—Hon. George Brown at last obtains a Special Committee—They report in favour of a Federal Union—The new Taché-Macdonald Ministry defeated—Deadlock again king!	197

CHAPTER XVIII

BROWN AND MACDONALD PATRIOTICALLY UNITE TO CARRY CONFEDERATION

Hon. George Brown sees the possibilities of the crisis—Patriotically offers to assist the Conservative or any Government which will settle the difficulties distracting the country—Proceedings of the Select Committee on Federal Union—Brown, Macdonald and Galt meet to discuss the situation—An embarrassing but patriotic meeting—Difficulties in the way of the rival political leaders acting as colleagues—They finally decide to form the famous Coalition of the Reform and Conservative parties which carried Confederation—The grandest achievement of Canadian statesmanship—Formation of the Coalition Government—The country astounded but delighted	210
---	-----

CHAPTER XIX

HORACE GREERLEY AND HENRY WARD BEECHER

Memories of a tour abroad—An enchanting bit of scenic loveliness—New York City at that time—Greenwood Cemetery when ablaze with June roses—An enchanting, elevating and solemnizing scene—My first and only interview with Horace Greeley—His early hardships and peculiarities—Famous career as founder of the Tribune —Dies from a broken heart—Henry Ward Beecher at his zenith—A sermon in Plymouth Church never to be forgotten—"The good, the bad and the Beechers"—Stirring incident of Beecher when sombre clouds were passing—The greatest of American orators—Old Ocean's salty breath	220
---	-----

CHAPTER XX

MEMORIES OF A TOUR IN ENGLAND

The world's machine metropolis, Liverpool—Loveliness of English, Scotch and Irish landscapes—Old England unrivalled for pastoral beauty—Views from the turrets of Windsor and Stirling Castles quite enrapturing—London and its marvellous attractions—A day in the House of Commons—A peep
