BRITISH YARDS ABLE TO REPLACE LOSSES

All Required is Adequate
Supply of Men and Material.

GERMANS EXAGGERATE

Sir Eric Geddes Gives Figures of Losses and New Shipbuilding.

London, March 20.—It was well within the capacity of the allied yards, and even of the British yards declared Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the admiralty today in the house of commons, to make good the world's losses if given an adequate supply of men and material. In the fourth quarter of 1917 the foreign construction was 12,000 tons, he stated, giving a total output of 93,000 tons, while the losses in the same period were 1,200,000 tons, which were the lowest since the intensive submarine war began. Great Britain had lost on the average 260,000 tons monthly during the last quarter of 1917, and had built 140,000 tons monthly, the first loss announced. British shipping had suffered the most, he pointed out, but the British had contributed the greatest naval effort of the allies and had sustained the greatest attack, and should not bemoan their scars.

Sir Eric declared that the German statement of the allied shipping losses for January was an exaggeration of 113 per cent. Since he had shown up those grossly false returns for previous months, he added, the German statement had not been issued, and was overdue.

During the last quarter of 1917, said Sir Eric, the allies were averaging within 100,000 tons monthly of making their losses good, and were then replacing 75 per cent. of their lost tonnage.

At the present time, the first lord went on, forty-seven shipyards, with 209 berths, were engaged on ocean-going merchant vessels. The shipyard work has completely disorganized during the first two years of the war from various causes, he explained, but nevertheless, there had been an enormous accomplishment by the shipbuilding industry. The output for the last quarter of 1917 was 450,000 tons, as against 213,000 tons for the last quarter of 1916, while during the last quarter of 1915 it had been only 42,000 tons.

The world's tonnage, exclusive of enemy ships, had fallen 2,500,000 from the beginning of the war to the end of 1917, Sir Eric stated. The total allied and neutral tonnage is now 42,000,000, Sir Eric stated, the fact that it is at this figure being largely due to the new construction by the United States and the seizure of German ships.

The output of new tonnage, continued the first lord, was very low in 1915, and reached its lowest point in 1916. This decline had been coincident with the increased output of munitions and before the intensified submarine war began Great Britain was 1,500,000 tons to the bad.

The amount of tonnage sunk in the past twelve months was 6,000,000, Sir Eric said, instead of 9,500,000 as the Germans claim.

With the American Army in France, March 19.—American artillery on the Toul front has heavily attacked the Germans with gas shells during the past day or so. Four different attacks were launched, and from the manner in which the enemy was silenced, it is evident they had the desired effect.

During one period when the gas shells were flying over the enemy lines last night, a German airplane with a red tail light appeared over the American lines and dropped a red rocket. Shrapnel from anti-aircraft batteries burst so near the German immediately afterward, that he was forced to return to his own lines.

American Gas Projectiles Silence German Batteries

Paris, March 20.—In official circles here it was pointed out today that the declaration issued in connection with last week's inter-allied conference in London concerns merely European territorial questions, and hence it was logical that the United States and Japan, although fully informed and in entire sympathy with the statements made, should not have taken formal part in the issuance of the declaration. The declaration denounces clearly and categorically the Bolshevik blunder in putting faith in Germany's words concerning peace without annexations or indemnities. It shows that the allies regard the Russian people as friends, drawing a distinction between the people and the Bolsheviks, and that they firmly intend to save Russia in spite of herself.

HEARING AGAIN ADJOURNED.

Ottawa, March 20.—Commissioner E. A. Pringle stated this morning that the hearing of the newspaper commission with regard to the question of differential between the manufacturers which had been adjourned until March 25 would likely be further adjourned until April 8, owing to the inability of witnesses to attend.

RUSSIAN WARSHIPS ESCAPE.

Washington, March 20.—Russian warships at Odessa escaped to Sebastopol when the Germans took Odessa, according to a despatch to the state department today from American Consul Summers at Moscow. Recent press despatches quoted Berlin authorities as declaring that 15 ships were taken when the city was occupied.

U.S. AVIATOR HONORED.

Paris, March 20.—David E. Putnam, of Brookline, Mass., a member of the Lafayette flying squadron, has just brought down two more German airplanes. He has been promoted to the rank of sergeant in the French army, and already has the war cross with palms.

Enormous Aerial Losses Are Inflicted on Germany

London, March 20.—The allies' inspiring successes in the air fighting continue.

The enemy losses in 'planes destroyed or driven down out of control in January were 292; in February, 273; in March (17 days), 278. In the same period the Germans' totally destroyed losses to the British were 318, and the British losses to the Germans were 117, a balance in favor of the British of 199.
