ONCE A PRETTY MILLINER.

Sarah Leslic was a few years ago a pretty milliner and dressmaker. Her maiden name was McGee, and she was looked upon as one of the cleverest women in her profession in Toronto, and was much sought after by the leading stores. After a short period of married life she became addicted to liquor and a separation from her husband followed. Since then she had been leading a wanton life, and it is now nearly two years ago that she became identified with John Richardson, who is a "scissors-to-grind" man and umbrella mender, well known on the streets.

Just previous to the time deceased threw in her lot with John a woman named McKee, a niece of Richardson's, died very suddenly under somewhat similar circumstances at the same house. Her husband was with her at the time of her death, on the same mattress on which the Leslie woman died last night. Coroner Johnson looked into the circumstances of that case, but decided that an inquest was unnecessary, heart disease having caused death.

Chicago, Oct. 23.-Wheat recovered from yesterday's panic in very short order, to-day's market displaying remarkable strength, and prices regaining more than half their loss. Liverpool was the principal agent in bringstead of becoming demoralized at the news of our sensational slump, prices at that place declined only moderately. Traders here became encouraged that a general smash-up was avoided, and some of the people who threw wheat indiscriminately at the close wheat indiscriminately at the close yesterday became sturdy buyers at the opening this morning. Many who went short of the market, finding the phospects of recovery bright, covered freely. Generally speaking, there was a healthier sentiment all around. The greatest strength was noted near the close, a report of another cargo sold for shipment to Calcutta helping prices materially. December wheat opened from 72c to 72 5-8c, sold between 71 1-2c and 73 1-2c, closing at 73 1-8c, 2 5-8c higher than yesterday. Cash wheat was firm and 2c higher.
