LYOYD GEORGE MUST BE RIGHT

His Temperance Proposals Are Pleasing to Neither Side.

Special Cable to The Sunday World.

LONDON, April 30.—The government's proposals for further restrictions of the liquor traffic, as outlined yesterday by Lloyd George, has caused an absolute furore thruout the country, his speech being the sole topic of discussion. The feature is the practical unanimity with which the whole nation rises against the proposition to curtail liquor consumption. Two millions of the flower of British manhood have volunteered to fight the nation's battles. It is the greatest record any country in the history of the world has ever shown, and forty-four million who remain at home rise as one man to save their whistkey. There is no doubt the political truce established at the beginning of the war is broken, and it will take a great effort to re-establish it. Regardless of speeches in parliament, the declarations of responsible men, statements of cabinet ministers and great employers of labor, the average man talks himself hoarse in argument. He is being penalized by prohibitive taxes placed on liquors on account of a small section of the community, who, earning high wages, are enabled to buy drink which he henceforth will be unable to afford. Consequently the old party schisms are outbroken afresh, with the Tories tacitly hostile, labor aggrieved and Irish enraged. The liquor interests, however, are strangely quiet. The principal distillers held a meeting today to discuss the situation, but no report was issued, and one and all refused to make a statement on the situation. The big brewers are taking the same line, but there is good reason to believe they are marshalling all their tremendous forces to prevent the proposals becoming law, but to some extent the scope of the chancellor's changes can be judged from two shillings to two shillings and sixpence per bottle, an increase of fifty to sixty per cent.

H. G. Robinson, secretary of the Licensed Victuallers' Defence League, said: "The chancellor's scheme resembles the plan of burning a pigsty in order to obtain roast pig. Lloyd George has taken up the attitude of a tactical pedagogue." Nor was his speech greeted enthusiastically by the temperance party. Alexander Thomson, the principal figure of the United Kingdom Alliance, said today: "Those who listened to the chancellor would incline to the belief that the speech was strong on the proposals too weak."

With receipts like this it becomes increasingly obvious that the government will have to use all its strength and influence before the proposals can become law.
