A great revival is to be begun in Toronto. It is believed the plumb line can be converted, and six hundred ministers and a choir of 1000 voices have been engaged. If the effort succeeds, there may be hope for St. John's aldermen and officials, including the mayor's wife and the city engineer.

GOLDWIN SMITH ON HOME RULE

The venerable publicist, Prof. Goldwin Smith, whose "Irish History and the Irish Question" has just been published by McLure-Phillips, is quoted in a Canadian newspaper as having defined his position on the Irish question as follows: "While always pleading for justice to Ireland, in former days strongly advocating the improvement of the Irish Land Law, I have always held with Bright and other Liberals of the moderate school that union was essential to the welfare of both countries and that its dissolution would be followed by a renewal of the calamities which Irish history is a mournful record."

He did not smoke and did not touch intoxicating liquors of any kind, but he was opposed to the by-laws and opposed the matter going to the people. No one else spoke.

POPE PIUS HAS ISSUED AN ENCYCLICAL URGING THE DIVINE RIGHT OF KINGS

It Was Addressed to the Bishops of Russian Poland and Advised People to "Be Submissive to the Rulers Who Exercise Power by the Will of God".

A despatch from Rome says:—The pope has issued a most important encyclical addressed to the bishops of Russian Poland recommending the Poles to cooperate in the pacification of the empire, obey their rulers and avoid sedition. The pope says he is much occupied by the grave crisis in Poland, and will try to contribute to its complete pacification. Evils are afflicting Poland and many distress weigh upon the episcopacy and the faithful. Among the evils are sedition, parties which are spreading terror and causing damage. Although the good Poles are in the majority, they lack energy, which renders possible the deplorable excesses unworthy of a civilized people, such as massacres of Jews, which are condemned and detested by the evangelical law, which imposes love of all indiscriminately. Among remedies, the encyclical suggests love of religion, which teaches one to submit one's passions to the law of God, subordinating human interests to the eternal law. During the trouble in Russia, Catholics must form an element sincerely wishing for peace and order. Recalling the words of Pope Leo XIII. in his encyclical of 1891, the pontiff says: "Be submissive to the rulers who exercise power by the will of God. The Poles should secretly protect their civil liberties and should abstain from taking part in the plots of wicked men. From their gatherings no sedition should emanate and they should make every effort to maintain peace and justice." The pontiff then urges the Poles to promote a serious organization against the subversive by working against strikes, "which damage incalculably the welfare of the poor," and indicates that it is the duty of all good people to work towards obtaining freedom of conscience, giving happiness to many souls. This concession was confirmed and amplified by the ukase of Oct. 30, so the clergy must assist those who wish to embrace Catholicism. The pontiff concludes with exhorting the Poles to avail themselves of the right of citizenship, and with loyalty and diligence to contribute to the progressive emancipation of Russian Poland, assuring them that he will constantly use his influence with the emperor and the government for the religious and moral good of the Polish population.
