THE MURDER.

Higgins and Goodspeed Remanded For Three More Days.

The Boys Show the Effect of Their Confinement in the Jail.

Shortly after eleven o'clock this morning Higgins and Goodspeed were brought into the police court. Goodspeed was for a few minutes closeted in the office of the deputy chief. Later they were both taken up stairs to the court room. Only a small crowd remained as the announcement made previously that the preliminary trial of the boys would not take place until Tuesday, had sent most of them away. The boys came up attended by Deputy Chief Jenkins and Detective Killen. Goodspeed could easily have been hidden under the arm of the deputy, and Higgins barely reached to the shoulder of the detective. In manner there was not much change from Tuesday morning, when they made their last public appearance. Goodspeed had lost some of his color, but none of his coolness. He quietly took his stand at one end of the table facing the magistrate, while Higgins stood a few feet away. He appeared to have changed more than his fellow-prisoner. His face was rather pale and he seemed to be excessively nervous. His eyes and face twitched involuntarily during the couple of minutes he stood in the room. But despite that, it would be hard to believe that he realized the gravity of the charge made against him and the mass of evidence which has been collected. As he went down the stairs to the solitary confinement from which he had been momentarily taken, he smiled confidently and boyishly. As they stood out in the court room his honor informed them that as their three days' remand was up, they had again been taken before him, and would be remanded for three more days to suit the convenience of the counsel engaged in the case. That means the preliminary trial will not come up until Tuesday morning. Mrs. Goodspeed was early at the police court this morning with a package of dainties for her boy, but had no chance for any conversation with him. She came up in the court room and was present when the boys were again remanded.

Neither Higgins nor Goodspeed was asked to plead or say anything for himself. No counsel for the defence or the crown was present at the time. Yesterday afternoon Young Goodspeed pointed out to the officers the position in the creek where the revolver, with which the murder had been done was thrown. Shortly after Deputy Chief Jenkins by the aid of a telescope saw the weapon on the bottom and it was brought up. It is a 38 calibre, nickel plated, American bulldog weapon, with five empty shells in the barrel. When it was discovered the revolver was considerably coated with rust and mud from its two weeks' immersion. At first the self-cocking apparatus would not act, but after a little work it was apparently as good as ever. It has been discovered that the weapon was bought from one of the Mill street stores.

PRESS COMMENTS

On the Murder of William Doherty and Its Lessons.

A DIME NOVEL FIEND.

That is an awful story which comes from New Brunswick about the murder of Willie Doherty, aged seventeen, by his companion, Frank Higgins, aged sixteen. The boys are reported to have been members of a band of juvenile robbers, and the murderer posed as a hypnotist and a burglar. Being in this kind of business, naturally he was provided with a revolver, and he is reported to have shot his companion four times on the head with the butt of the revolver, because he suspected him of hiding some of the spoils. It is almost inconceivable that the devil himself could instigate a sixteen-year-old boy to such a crime. But unfortunately his Satanic majesty has agencies for instigating crime that are very much up-to-date. The boy is described as a dime novel fiend, and according to all the canons of the dime novels and the yellow journals, he is a hero, to be held up for the admiration of other vicious young idiots. Weak-minded, we must hope he is, for the credit of humanity, and it is from the ranks of the weak-minded that the dime novel fiends are recruited, and among whom the yellow journals get their greatest admirers. (Montreal Gazette.)

The police of St. John, N. B., have some ugly business to deal with. A little while ago, an old man named Oulton was found dead, under circumstances pointing to the possibility of murder. Within a fortnight the body of a lad named William Doherty was discovered with the plain evidence of murder upon it. What one witness says indicates that the crime was committed by a boy and that it was the sequel to other crimes. St. John is neither very big nor very wicked, but it seems to have bred a bad gang which it will be well for it if it can root out. (Miramichi Advance.)

The parents of the boys who played their parts in the St. John murder tragedy, of which we give a brief account in another column, may not realize their position in it, but they, nevertheless, have the heaviest share of responsibility. They seem to have let their boys to do about as they please.

HORRIBLE DEATH.

Two Wealthy Americans Crushed and Killed in France.

While Running an Automobile at too High a Rate of Speed.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—The fatal accident to Mr. and Mrs. Fair occurred at the village of St. Agullin. Mr. Fair himself was driving his automobile at a high rate of speed when one of the pneumatic tires burst. The machine swerved, collided with a tree with a terrible crash and was overturned. Mr. and Mrs. Fair were killed outright and their chauffeur was badly injured.

The Fairs have been living lately in Paris at the Hotel Ritz and kept their apartments there while they were staying at Trouville.

Mrs. Wm. K. Vanderbilt, jr., who was Mr. Fair's sister, returned from Trouville Sunday and sailed for New York yesterday on the North German Lloyd steamship Kron Prins Wilhelm.

EVREUX, France, Aug. 14.—The accident occurred at half-past two o'clock this afternoon and almost in front of the Chateau Bulisson Du Mal. The Fairs intended to dine and spend the night in Paris and return to Trouville for lunch tomorrow.

The wife of the gate keeper of the Chateau was the only witness of the disaster. She says she noticed a big red automobile coming along the road at a tremendous pace. Suddenly something happened and the heavy machine slid sideways from the right to the left side of the road for about 60 yards. It then dashed up an embankment, turned a complete somersault and crashed into a big elm tree in front of the gate of the Chateau. The automobile was completely wrecked. When the automobile turned over the wife of the gate keeper saw Mr. and Mrs. Fair thrown high in the air and fall with a heavy thud to the ground. The chauffeur who was sitting behind the Fairs was precipitated into a ditch. He staggered to his feet, calling for help. The gate keeper's wife rushed to his assistance and aided him in extricating Mr. and Mrs. Fair, who were buried beneath the wrecked machine, and in the last throes of death. Both had sustained ghastly injuries and were almost unrecognizable. Mr. Fair's head was split. The chauffeur was terribly affected by the calamity and seemed bereft of his senses. He threw himself into a ditch on the opposite side of the road and rolled about, crying: "My poor master."

M. Borson, owner of the Chateau Bulisson Du Mal, was summoned, and after advising the local authorities of the accident he ordered the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Fair to be carried to the gate keeper's lodge. Here they now lie on mattresses and flowers have been strewn over them. In the room are three wax tapers burning dimly. The accident was evidently due to the bursting of a tire. At the time it occurred the automobile was going at the rate of 82 miles an hour. The local police authorities hold in their possession and have sealed up a valise belonging to the Fairs and which contains jewelry, two letters of credit, a French bank note worth $200 and some gold coins.

A WEALTHY CUBAN

Shoots an American and His Wife at Tampa.

TAMPA, Florida, Aug. 14.—Charles J. Allen and his wife were fatally shot at their home today by Manuel Chavez, of the wealthiest and most prominent members of the Cuban colony here. Allen died this afternoon and Mrs. Allen's death is only a question of time.

Many conflicting accounts of the tragedy are current, but the one generally believed is that Allen returned home unexpectedly and found Chavez in his home and that he assaulted Chavez, who, it is said, drew a pistol and began to fire. One bullet struck Allen in the left side, another in the mouth and a third in the abdomen, after passing through the body of Mrs. Allen, who had rushed between the men in an effort to separate them. The shooting of Mrs. Allen is believed to have been unintentional. Immediately after the shooting Chavez rushed from the house and drove off in his buggy. He subsequently surrendered to the sheriff.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—The supreme lodge of Knights of Pythias were again in session today, as was the supreme temple of the Rathbone Sisters. At both places matters of much interest to the order were discussed. The competitive drills between crack companies of the uniform rank which daily attract many spectators were resumed at the Presidio. The judges will render their decision tonight. The Knights of Khorrassan held a ceremonial session and participated in an excursion. Tonight there will be a concert and entertainment for the knights at the Chinese Theatre, and an exhibition drill will be followed by a spectacular exhibition by Modoc Indians.

THE COAL STRIKE.

All Quiet at Duryea, but Washery Was Not Started.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 15.—Duryea, the scene of yesterday's riot, in which several persons were wounded, was as quiet as a country village today. No attempt was made to resume operations at the Warnke Washery, and in consequence no crowd collected there. Sheriff Jacobs and a large number of deputies were on the ground all night, but they were not molested. The sheriff told the owners of the washery this morning that if they wished to start their works he would see that their employes got ample protection. There were no employes to go to work. Nearly all the men at work yesterday were arrested and sent to jail by the local authorities. The superintendent of the washery declares that this was an injustice to the employes, who he says, were not acting as coal and iron police. When the constables reached the washery to make arrests they arrested everybody in sight. Sheriff Jacobs is confident that there will be no more trouble at the washery, but should an outbreak occur, he says he will have a force of deputies sufficient to preserve the peace.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Aug. 15.—August 15, the feast of Assumption, is a church holiday in the coal regions. All the Catholic churches hold exercises. The mine workers generally and their families either go visiting or hold large picnics. Owing to the strike and consequent lack of money, the day was not as well observed as in former years. The largest picnic grounds, in this vicinity are now occupied by the troops.

DEEDS OF BLOOD.

A Desperate Affray—Men and Bloodhounds After Murderers.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 15.—Authentic details have been received of a desperate affray in which three young men and a woman, all of them prominent in Scott County, Tenn., were involved and which is said to have resulted in the death of one and the possible death of another, and the flight of both the woman and the other man implicated. Jarrett Trammell was killed, but by whom is not definitely known. Mrs. Trammell and Whig Duncan, one of those involved, escaped over the border into Kentucky. The scene of the tragedy was at Winfield, a small town in Scott County, Tenn. NAPOLEON, Ohio, Aug. 15.—Henry and Eck Thompson, who shot Sheriff Barnhill, have been traced to a dense thicket a few miles from Miller City and are surrounded by armed men who are determined that they shall not escape. Marshall Hier has called for men and bloodhounds. A $500 reward is offered for the men dead or alive and there is a standing reward of $200 for horse stealing.

A HARD HEADED FARMER.

The Way He Held Up a Prince With a Pitchfork.

When Edward VII. of England was an undergraduate at Oxford University, he had an adventure which led a newspaper of that time to describe the prince as a prisoner. It said that "not very far from Oxford, at a place called Steeple Barton, there was a farmer named Hedges, a man of much independence of character, commonly known as 'Lord Chief Justice Hedges.'"

"On one occasion the prince and his friends were out with the South Oxfordshire hounds, but, meeting with indifferent sport, they resolved on riding home across country. This they did, galloping over the lands of Farmer Hedges and presently riding into his farmyard. There they were confronted by the farmer himself, armed with a fork. He closed the gates and informed the party bluntly that they had been trespassing on his ground and trampling on his young wheat and that he would not allow one of them to leave his farmyard until he had paid a fine of a sovereign for the damage done.

"They whispered that the prince himself was of the party. 'Prince or no prince,' he replied shortly, 'I'll have my money.' There was little glory to be had by fighting a resolute farmer armed with a fork. They therefore made up their minds to pay, prince and all. When he had the money in his pocket and not till then, 'Lord Chief Justice Hedges' opened the gates and let them go."—Philadelphia Times.
