HACKMEN WERE SLOW ABOUT PAYING FINES

But in the End Had to Fork Over Two Dollars Each for Violating L. C. R. Regulations

In the absence of Magistrate Ritchie, sitting Magistrate Henderson dealt out the next business before the court was a charge made against hackmen by I. C. R. Policeman Smith, who testified that they did not stay outside the rail but entered the building. Those who appeared in court were Messrs. Parks, McCarthy, McManus, John and Harry Barry, all of whom acknowledged that they had been inside the rail but with many others had been doing it all winter.

Policeman Smith gave evidence to show that a policeman's life at the depot was not a happy one. He said he had warned the hackmen on different occasions to keep in their places but they ignored him, so it was simply a case of reporting them to the court or losing his job. The charge against them was for Wednesday on the arrival of the Boston train at noon. Magistrate Henderson informed the hackmen that there was a place for them to stand, that the policeman's position should be appreciated and the law must be carried out. If the hackmen had rules to carry out, they had not enough room at the depot they should appeal to the railway authorities but the policeman had rules to carry out. He adjudged all guilty and fined them two dollars each.

The hackmen looked at each other as though they thought the fine might be allowed to stand, so they all took seats and made no offer to pay up. After a couple of requests had been made and they were told plainly if they didn't pay up commitments would issue and this would mean an extra dollar to the fines, they slowly came to the front and all paid in a most unwilling manner, with the exception of one, who said he did not have the money with him. "Well you can stay here and send for it," said the magistrate. "This was too much for the cabby. He went to the square room to telephone, but instead of doing so he counted out his fine in silver, saying: "This is hard to part with. I held out as long as possible, but have to pay." Returning to the court room he amazed the magistrate with his rather sudden appearance with the cash he was supposed to telephone for. It was paid in small silver and after he left the court the supposed two dollars only amounted to $1.85 for there was in the lot a 20 cent piece, which while the fine was being paid represented a quarter. There are three other hackmen, Messrs. Worden, Watson and Glynn, who are to appear in court, and if they do not answer to their summonses their fine will be increased from $2 to $4.

PROGRESS OF WAR IN CENTRAL AMERICA

General Bonilla of Honduras Led in Person and Gained a Victory

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 7.—It is reported here that General Manuel Bonilla, the President of Honduras, personally led his forces in an attack Wednesday on the Nicaraguan positions at Managua. In Honduras, the Nicaraguan forces were routed, and many Nicaraguans were either killed or made prisoners. Today Nicaraguan forces captured the Honduran position at Tuguaire after a hard fight. In this engagement many Honduran prisoners were taken. Tuguaire is not far from Choluteca, the strongest position held by the Honduran troops.

AT LEAST ONE MAN WHO MET THE KING

Anson A. Gard Will Have a Reply from St. John

J. Edward Holder, Former School Teacher Was One of the Guard of Honor During the Royal Visit.

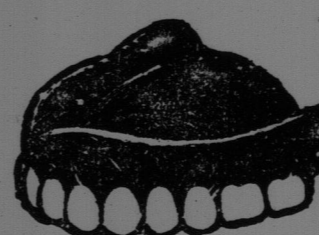

Several days ago Mayor Sears received a letter from Anson A. Gard, of Ottawa, asking that His Worship secure autographs of persons now living here who spoke with King Edward when he visited this city years ago. Mr. Gard also asked that a piece of wood taken from some historic building be sent him. He stated that he intended to send these things to His Majesty. Mayor Sears had not done anything in the matter until this morning when a very interesting visitor called at his office in the person of J. Edward N. Holder, a man who is about 80 years old and whose autograph will make Mr. Gard's volume all the more interesting. Mr. Holder was for years a school teacher in this city and is very well known. He stated that he was a member of the guard of honor which was in attendance on the King when he came here, which was made up of men from the Queen's Own Rifles and the Rothesay Rifles. On the first morning of His Majesty's visit, Mr. Holder was in uniform and had military duties to perform. In the afternoon he donned civilian's clothes and met the Prince. When he approached the Sovereign he was asked to give him his name. The Prince followed suit. Mr. Holder stated that it was one of the proudest days of his life. In those days long gone by he thought of the fact that the Prince would one day be King and when but a lad he expressed the hope that when the Prince was crowned he would take the name of Edward. When the King did announce after the coronation that he would be known as Edward VII, Mr. Holder's heart came back to him when he read the news in the papers. The mayor will have at least one interesting man to tell Mr. Gard about.

NOT ALLOWED SKATE IN VICTORIA RINK

Duffy and Logan Barred by the Management

Would Not Enter When the People Wanted Them and are Now Told to Go Elsewhere

Fred Logan, in spite of his previous refusal to skate in the Victoria Rink, last evening accepted Bart Duffy's challenge to skate a series of races in that rink, the time to be arranged later. This morning Duffy went to see Manager Armstrong for the purpose of settling about the contents but was given a cold touch. Mr. Armstrong refused to allow either Duffy or Logan to appear in the Victoria Rink. Speaking to the Star later Mr. Armstrong said: "Duffy came to me and I just told him to run away to Carleton or some other place. That's the sort of a rink for them. What's the use bothering about those men. No sense in wasting time, for they won't race anyway. They have had lots of chances to appear when people wanted them, and would not come out. Now that they think they can make arrangements to suit themselves let them go and do it. They don't get the chance in the Vic. See the reception Logan got last night? Didn't look much as though the town is falling over itself to watch him skate." Evidently from this, even the latest proposition ends in talk.

ARE DISINFECTING THE TRAVIS HOUSE

Board of Health Will Deal Today With the Isolation Caretaker—Disease Disappearing at Musquash.

The board of health will meet this afternoon and will consider the case of the caretaker of the Isolation Hospital, who recently made a demand for more money. He has been asked to send in his proposal and it will receive attention. The member of the board are all more or less paid, and they think he is receiving a very generous return for the work done. The board will also discuss the latest snailcase case. The task of disinfecting the Travis house was begun yesterday, all the occupants who had not recently been vaccinated or who were not immune being put through the operation. It is believed that some of these persons may be safely released in a few days when the fumigating has been completed, while others will likely be let go as soon as evidences of successful vaccination appear. A quantity of bedding in the house will have to be destroyed. The latest from the lumber camps in the Musquash district is that only two patients are now still unable to work, while one of these is convalescent. There is little danger of any further spread of the disease which has been of a remarkably mild type.

MUNICIPAL DELEGATION TO OPPOSE TELEPHONE BILL

Mayor Sears, president of the Provincial Municipalities Association, was busy this morning in arranging for the formation of a delegation to go to Fredericton next week to oppose the new telephone bill which is being introduced by Mr. King, M. P. P. The delegation will be chosen from the following: Mayor Sears, Common Clerk, Magistrate, Mayor Munroe, Woodstock; Mr. Flett, Northumberland; and Mayor Teed of St. Stephen.

COOPER THE UNFORTUNATE AGAIN NEEDS ATTENTION

About a fortnight ago when the weather was bitterly cold, a colored cripple named Richard Cooper was found exhausted from exposure under a car on the government wharf. He was sent to jail and it was thought by some that he had been removed from the jail to the Alma House, but instead a relative took him out of jail and returned the unfortunate man to his home on British street. Last night about eight o'clock Policemen Lucas and Scott visited the Cooper home at 189 British street and found Cooper in a poor state of health and in destitute circumstances. They recommended that the poor old fellow be removed to some institution where he could be cared for.
