

prompt me to make this public declaration of his merits as a surgeon, and the claim he has to the patronage of the public.

"JAMES MCNOBLE.

"Thurlow, Nov. 24, 1815."

Dr. Marshall issued his card as follows:

Kingston Gazette, December 9, 1815: "Mr. Marshall, Surgeon, takes the liberty of announcing that he has taken Mr. Evart's house, where all calls in his line will be immediately attended to."

"Kingston, July 10, 1816: Mr. Marshall, Surgeon, has received from Montreal a fresh supply of vaccine or cow-pock matter."

"LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR'S OFFICE,

"YORK, Dec. 10, 1816.

"His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to appoint Surgeon Anthony Marshall, of Kingston, to examine and grant certificates of disability, to militiamen disabled from wounds received in service in defence of this Province during the late war.

"By order of His Excellency,

"EDWARD MCMAHON,

"Assistant Secretary."

Dr. Marshall, after the death of Dr. Meacham, whom he attended in his last illness, removed to Belleville, being the second doctor to settle in the place. He was greatly respected as a practitioner, and as an indication of his character it may be mentioned that he, with Mr. John Turnbull and Dr. Cooper, organized a Sunday School, and was one of the teachers. Dr. Marshall was a Coroner for the Midland District. This notice appeared in the Kingston News, March 20, 1879: "A RIPE OLD AGE.—Mrs. Jane Marshall, whose death, at Picton, on the 10th instant, at the ripe old age of ninety-two years, was announced in the News of yesterday, was a former resident of this city, and sat under the ministration of the first resident Presbyterian minister, the Rev. Mr. Barclay, whose monument stands in the old Presbyterian burying ground, on Clergy
