WAR ACTIVITIES OF THE K. OF C.

HOW THE LUKEWARM AND INDIFFERENT ARE INFLUENCED

Washington, D. C., February-Much has been said and written about the vast amount of good that is being accomplished for Uncle Sam's soldiers through the social, recreational and religious work which the Kuights of Columbus, representing the Catholics of America are doing. There is, however, another side to this question, which ito the Catholic mind at least, is of tremendous im-portance, but concerning which little has been said. This is the good that is been said. This is the good shar (one pair a quarter.) mullifer (one sho, although Catholic in name, have gone on month after month, year after year, without Mass or receiving handkerchiefs (one a quarter.) housewife, handkerchiefs (one a quarter.) combs, Sacraments, perhaps without the hearing Mass.

SADDENS MOTHERS' HEARTS

The number of these young men is small, considering the hundreds of thousands enlisted in the army, but small as this number is, it is large enough to bring sadness to the hearts enough to bring sadness to the hearts of many mothers, and fathers, and discoursement to many zealous list may entail confiscation of the discouragement to many zealous parish priests. Let it be supposed that there was no work similar to that which the Knights of Columbus are doing in the army and navy. Suppose that the men were entirely dependent upon themselves for their recreation, and upon the ministrations of the commissioned chaplains alone, for their spiritual wants. It is not un-likely that they would be assigned to a regiment the chaplain of which was not a priest, and perhaps they would not have easy access to a Catholic chaplain. They would seek their recreation away from the camp; having been weak and lax in moral matters at home, they would naturally be weak and lax in the army. It could scarcely be honed that and the transition was also been also It could scarcely be hoped that any change would be wrought in these young men, except possibly a change his holy religion. His death removes for the worse. How different it all is with the present system that is in vogue. Now the soldier is provided with buildings and thence to Portage du Fort, Que., in which he may find wholesome recreation and conveniences. Hav-ing been a Catholic, at least in name, ever since an honored resident. The will naturally drift to the Knights of Columbus buildings. Here he meets other Catholic men—men who have not forsaken the practice of their Faith. Here he comes into contact with a kindly, sympathetic priest, and a group of thoroughly human young secretaries. If he correct to the building in the evening he will naturally drift to the Knights human young secretaries. If he comes to the building in the evening for entertainment or letter writing, it is quite probable that he will return to that building on Sunday morning for Mass. And then-but let a Knights of Columbus field secretary tell the story of one of them

He was rather an attractive boy, weak willed perhaps, a little over in broke dulgent, but he was subject to good influences just as he had been to influences just as he had been to bad. He came to the building first to write a letter, and then he became which was being organized. He made few friends, but for several from Mr. and Mrs. Ed.
