"Ach Mein Gott"
 I Crowed too Soon

A battalion which some time ago passed through Moncton, had displayed on the car "Man Maulers." This cognomen comes from the fact of their having a number of the best detectives in the Vancouver Police Force. The regiment was also largely composed of the big men from the lumber woods, many over six feet. There were also a number of bank clerks and professional men.

Among the soldiers in Moncton recently were the 74th and 75th battalions from Toronto. These were two of the regiments which marched from Niagara to Toronto last summer, and are said to be two of the finest in the Overseas forces. Each regiment had a splendid bugle band as well as a brass band. The 75th was originally raised from the "8th Mississauga Horse," a cavalry regiment, but as cavalry is not being used to any great extent, in the present war, they had orders to recruit a full infantry battalion, and train as infantrymen. The 74th was raised from the Highlanders, Grenadiers and the celebrated "Queen's Own Rifles," of Toronto.

When a Saskatchewan regiment was also in Moncton some time ago it displayed on their cars the steamer

"Ach Mein Gott," I Crowed too soon

here comes that gal darned 8th Platoon." Another steamer was "We'll hoist the Kaiser to the moon, for we're the boys of the 7th Platoon."

Salvation Army
 Bill at Ottawa

Aims to Create Governing Council in Eastern and Western Canada

OTTAWA, April 5.—A bill of the Salvation Army to create two governing councils—one in Eastern Canada and another in Western Canada—is being considered here.

The Bill has been before the Private Bills Committee at several meetings and the measures was referred to a sub-committee to consider the matter. The committee could not see the necessity for division and counsel for the Army failed to satisfy the committee. So the Bill was sent to a sub-committee.

The Bill does not propose a territorial division of the Army's work, but there are to be two separate bodies with identical powers.

The committee thought this would mean over-lapping and could not see the need for the division.

Labor Leaders
 To Be Tried In Chicago

CHICAGO, April 5.—The sensational conspiracy and extortion cases brought by the state against 51 prominent labor leaders are soon to have an airing in open court. Judge Kavanaugh is hearing preliminary motions to-day, and the state has announced it is ready for trial. It is said that the state's attorney has received threatening letters and that similar missives were received by at least two grand jurors while the cases were under consideration.

The state contends that there has been widespread violation of law; that contractors and builders have been compelled to pay tribute to unscrupulous men on pain of having windows broken and buildings under construction wrecked. The labor men maintain that the prosecution is an attempt to crush organized labor in Chicago.
