SYNOPSIS OF CANADIAN NORTHWEST LAND REGULATIONS.

THE sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for the District. Entry by proxy may be made at any Dominion Lands Agency (but not Sub-Agency on certain conditions).

Duties—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within least 50 acres, on certain conditions. A habitable house is required except where residence is performed in the vicinity.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter section along-side his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties—Six months' residence in each of three years after earning homestead patent; also 50 acres extra cultivation. Pre-emption patent may be obtained as soon as homestead patent, on certain conditions.

A settler who has exhausted his homestead right may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $500.

The area of cultivation is subject to reduction in case of rough, scrubby or stony land. Live stock may be substituted for cultivation under certain conditions.

HOW OUR SOLDIERS LEFT FOR THE FRONT

Graphic Description of Departure of the Canadian Force—Long March in the Rain—Soldiers Were in Good Spirits.

Those people who were fortunate enough to be in Quebec during the embarkation and departure of the Canadian overseas expeditionary force for Europe witnessed a sight unparalleled in Canada's history. It was an event upon which the eyes of the Dominion were fixed, even though the great majority of people were kept in ignorance of the exact time at which it took place. In fact so strict were the authorities in censoring messengers, and so well did the newspapers cooperate, that only a comparatively small number of citizens knew that history was being made once more in the city that already figures so prominently in the annals of this country. By the time these words are printed the volunteers will be well on their way, if not actually in Europe.

Weeks ago the first of the fleet of great liners chartered by the government for use as transports arrived here and hundreds of them were set to work loading them with munitions of war. But it was only a few days ago that the first of the troops at Valcartier moved in from the west. On the morning of the 24th the movement was carried out with remarkable speed, and to-night the tented city on the plain, in the heart of the city, which four days ago sheltered an army of some 33,000 men, is practically deserted.

It was on Thursday afternoon, September 24, that the long-looked-for order came, and the artillery brigade under Lieut.-Col. E. W. B. Morrison, marched out. There was nothing spectacular about it. From early in the morning a steady rain had been falling, and when the force moved out at 5 o'clock the roads were almost impassable. In spite of this, every man was happy in the thought that he was actually on the way to the theatre of war, and when the band struck up, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," the men who were picked up by three thousand voices, and sent resounding through the hills. But this march gave the men some conception of grim reality of active service, and they were not found wanting. For instance shortly after the start an officer was thrown from his horse, and before he could get up, he was stepped on by his horse, tearing away half his scalp. He refused to go back to the hospital so the wound was hastily dressed, and he continued the journey in a transport wagon.

Marched in Rain
On and over the winding valley road the column proceeded. Slowly and laboriously the horses picked their way along, dragging the gun limbers through mud a foot deep and men wrapped up in great coats strove vainly to keep dry. The dusk deepened into a heavy veil of darkness, broken here and there by the single light twinkling from the homes of the habitant, but still the forced march was continued and every man pressed on. It is only about twenty miles from Valcartier to Quebec by wagon road, but this is a long march with heavy guns on a wet night.

Hour after hour passed by, but still the limbers of the city, which in clear weather can be distinguished far across the valley, were obscured in the night. The rain continued falling in a steady drizzle from clouds that hung low over the nearby mountains and the silence was broken only by the rasp of harness and the creaking of some wheels for the want of grease. Midnight passed and the early morning hours were slowly picked off, yet the road still stretched out ahead. Undaunted these men kept up their spirits and the first pale light of dawn found them rumbling over the bridge that spans St. Charles river at the outskirts of the city.

Through the narrow streets of the lower town they went, rain-soaked and covered with mud, straight to the dock where the line of Saxonia awaited them. Guns and horses were loaded, breakfast was served,

NAVAL ENGAGEMENT

Forty German Warships Shelled a Russian Port on the Baltic.

(By Special Wire to the Courier)

PARIS, Oct. 1.—A Petrograd special to the Havas Agency, dated September 30, says:

"The details of the naval engagement which occurred September 24th, off the coast at Windau, a Russian seaport in Courland on the Baltic, have been made public. It appears that a German squadron, comprising forty ships of all classes, appeared off the harbor and were prevented from landing forces by the heavy fire of the forts. One officer and two sailors were killed and three more were drowned.

"The ships withdrew, but on the day following two cruisers returned, opened fire and destroyed the light-house. They killed a civilian and a number of soldiers, but were driven off again by the fire from the forts."

MONTREAL GRAIN MARKET

MONTREAL, Sept. 30.—The local grain situation was unchanged today. A few inquiries for grain were received, but in all cases the prices bid were out of line and no business was reported done. The feeling here is that it is just a matter of time until English buyers must come into the market for Canadian grain and just so soon as this occurs prices will respond easily. Farmers evidently are not nervous and are clinging to their stocks. Large supplies are piling up at all stores and as there has been a temporary lull in the demand, it is felt here the natural course of the market will be easy until the demand increases but that this should be short lived.

Oats were also easy. Little business was done in cheese, but the market held steady. Eggs, selected stock only, were a cent easier. Butter continued in little demand. The provision market was active and firm.
