

RELIGION NEEDED IN ENGLAND NOW

Appeals From Army and Navy Leaders For Prayers For Victory.

By Courier Leased Wire.
New York, Nov. 18.—A London despatch under Wednesday's date, published in The Sun yesterday, says:
Londoners were surprised this morning to observe walls all over the city covered with huge official posters exhorting Englishmen to pray daily for their country, for its soldiers and sailors.
Admiral Beatty's words are displayed prominently:
"Until a religious revival takes place at home, so long will the war continue."
They are followed by General Sir William Robertson's message:
"A serious determination on the part of the nation to seek divine help would undoubtedly furnish valuable help to our soldiers and sailors."
The poster ends with the following words, printed in large type:
"Will you join those who every day at noon and at family prayers at home, pray for our country, our sailors and soldiers?"

Governmental Food Control There Suggested As Solution For H. C. of L.

By Courier Leased Wire.
New York, Nov. 18.—Government supervision of the nation's food dictatorships in Great Britain, France and Russia, was suggested here today as the only solution of the increasing cost of edibles in the United States.
The suggestion was made by Geo. W. Perkins, head of Mayor Mitchell's food supply commission, on the eve of a campaign for the creation of federal, state and municipal market departments. With the opening of the next session of the legislature efforts will be made to obtain the passage of a bill under which a state market department may be created, the first duty of which will be to make a sweeping investigation of the New York food supply with a view to fixing the responsibility for the present high cost of living.

DANDRUFF GOES! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few week's use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.
A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.
Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—all the while.
Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

HUN TORPEDO BOATS LOST

Between Six and Nine Destroyed In Attack on Gulf of Finland.

By Courier Leased Wire.
London, Nov. 18.—A despatch to Reuter's Telegram Company from Petrograd says:
The admiralty staff has issued a communication announcing that in accordance with the latest information of the recent German naval attack in the Gulf of Finland and comparing the number of explosions heard in the fog with the reports from the Russian warships engaged, it is possible to affirm that the Germans lost between six and nine torpedo boats. This supposition, the communication adds, is confirmed by the examination of wreckage, which also shows that the destroyed vessels were of the most modern type and the biggest vessels in this class.

FUNNY LOVE-LETTERS.

Some of the Quicer Epistles of Ardent Wooers.
"Is love insanity?" asked the candid critic; and as a reason for his question he points to the amusing letters made public through the medium of the breach of promise and divorce courts. "These 'Tootsie' and 'Woollie' epistles," he says, "are nauseating in their sickly sentiment."
Certainly it is difficult to imagine a sober and practical-minded business man beginning a letter "My darling Poodle," and ending with "Go doating Puddy." Yet this was revealed in the courts of one county, when "My darling Poodle" made "Puddy" pay some $2,000 for the privilege of making love to her being absent in his attentions.
"You little, yellow-haired ducky, you've waddled straight into my heart," another victim of love-madness wrote and ended. "No bread and cheese for us, Angel Face. But there'll be kisses by the bushel. Yours to the crumpled in court not long ago when confronted with this poetic outburst of his soul:
The glove on Mary's hand,
I wish I could be for one day,
Protecting my Mary's soft fingers from the cold
And getting rubbed up against her cheek;
And sweet getting left at home,
To sit and think in the top dresser-drawer
And wish I was with Mary."
A great deal more poetic in its style was the following epistle: "O, you Venus, you perfect woman, I would offer you two willing hands, and pray that more might grow so that I might better serve you. I would be your shoulders, that I might shoulder everything for you. This not being possible, I dear one, writes to me with these hands, list with thy shell-like ears to my burning words; that leaving me" think, seem cold and hard in comparison with the first time she consumes me even in thoughts of thee. Yours till I am eternally consumed."
Girls are quite as hopeful as men when it comes to love-letters. "I am sitting alone thinking of you, you darling curly-haired lambkin," writes one girl to her admirer. "I run one girlish epistle. I'm mighty sweetheart—because in your last letter you only put one page of crosses. Just think, only one page of crosses, when I sent you two."
He Lost His Case.
Lord Reading—better known to fame as Sir Rufus Isaacs—recently told the story of his first brief. He had been retained to defend a man, a street trader, who had been summoned for selling bad fruit. Mr. Isaacs, as he then was, expatiated at length on the splendid quality of the fruit, and in this way, as was only natural, backed up his client.
Presently the magistrate intervened. Had either of them tasted the fruit, he asked.
They both confessed that they had not. Whereupon the magistrate suggested that either the defendant or his counsel should eat some in court.
Mr. Isaacs turned to his client: "Go on," he whispered, "eat one or two."
"What will happen if I don't?" whispered the other in reply.
"You'll lose the case."
"All right," answered the defendant resignedly, "when lose it I'll have to."
When He Was Bored.
Dr. Macnamara, M.P., of the British House of Commons, is a skilled debater and rarely at a loss for a retort. Once he was addressing a meeting of laborers, when one of his hearers expressed a wish to ask a question. Dr. Macnamara suggested that he should wait till the end of the speech, but he persisted until another member of the audience, who had remarked: "Sit down, you ass!"
There was some disorder, and a third man shouted: "Sit down, you ass!"
This was Dr. Macnamara's chance, he thought, and he cut in with: "There seems plenty of seats about us here, but your friend's made us hear one at a time."
"Well," said the original interrupter, pointing to the doctor, "you go on these."
For once the doctor, as he does not hesitate to admit, was beaten.
Not for Twice as Much.
He was an idle Irish boy, but he had the Irishman's ready wit. He had shipped on board a man-of-war, where he annoyed the boatswain by his laziness. Seeing him on the main-top one morning, gazing idly out to sea, the boatswain called to him:
"Come down out of that, ye rascal! Come down out of that, an' Oi'll give ye a dozen whacks wid me rope!"
"Pah, sorr," replied the boy. "Oi wouldn't come if ye offered me two dozen!"
Fresh From the Mint.
A returned vacationist tells of being in a country store when a little girl entered with an egg in her hand.
"Give me an egg's worth of tea, please," she said to the storekeeper.
"An' ma says you might weigh out an egg's worth of sugar, too, cause the black hen 'tweenkin' an' I'll be up again in a minute."
Insult.
"Blacksmiths seem to have a reputation for honesty."
"Deservedly so, but due partly, perhaps, to the nature of a blacksmith with trust funds. There is nothing to adulterate in his line. Compared with some of us, a blacksmith has few temptations to resist."
