J. L. Sale & Co. the Manufacturing Jewelers.

Many Jems of the Goldsmith's Art Produced by Them-Nugget Jewelry flakes Them Famous.

In all probabilities there is no min ing camp in the world today in which is gathered the same high character of skilled artisans in all branches of the trades as here in Dawson. Surely in no other locality so far removed from the large centers of commercial life can be seen the product of the goldsmith's art more cleverly executed than here, and that without the aid of mechanical appliances.

This is evidenced in the recent production by J. L. Sale & Co., of the golden souvenir destined for William lennings Bryan. Not only is this production a perfect specimen of mechani cal genius, but it is a work of art in its conception and the highest form of art in its execution-a golden monument to skill.

This production could never have been executed without years of experience in the profession. Mr. Sale, who is still but a young man, spent 15 years as a manufacturing jeweler in San Francisco before he came to this country in the rush of '98. He landed in Dawson with but the tools of his trade and the practical knowledge of his profession and formed a partnership with Jeweler Pond, who in former years was an employe of Mr. Sale. The firm flourished, and in the summer of '99 Mr. Pond sold his interest to his partner, the business continuing under the name of J. L. Sale & Co.

In the same year a branch store was started at the Forks and a factory on Second avenue. The store at the Forks is still maintained, but upon the removal of the Dawron store to its present location near Second street, the factory was embraced in the premises. Last summer the firm imported a large and costly stock of watches, diamonds and silverware, the finest in this country, which are constantly admired by the many customers who throng the store.

Mr. Sale has made 'many nugget souvenirs, among which are the famous golden belts of early days, Cad Wilson's, May Lamore's and Rose Blumkin's. Other splendid designs were executed for Commissioner/ Fawcett and Lady Minto. There are six practical jewelers employed by Mr. Sale who work assiduously in their various departments to keep up with the demands of the flourishing busines difference in the temperature of the immediate vicinity of several degrees It is said that there is a point on the iver immediately in front of Moosehide that has never yet been known to freeze over and it is on this account that the Indians located their town where it is, as that is said to be the warmest point on the river for many miles either up or down, the usual miles either up of down, the usual cold of the atmosphere being material ly modified by the vapor which arises from the open water. Should this spot remain unclosed in front of the city, it will be the first time in the memory the oldest white settler that there has ever been an open place in the Yu-kon in winter between the mouth of the Klondike and Moosehide. ## The Story a Texan Tells About the Irish Brigade Commander.

"I know 'Buck' Blake, or 'Beau' Blake, as some call him, who is now in command of the Irish brigade with the Boers," said a Texas man the othe er evening. "He had been a cowboy and at the time I made his acquaint ance was interested with a Kentuckian named Harvey Watson in a horse ranch south of Brownsville. He was a big, good natured, powerful fellow. with humorous Irish blue eyes and a small, sandy mustache. Although he had no record as a 'bad man,' it was himself in an emergency. I saw that fully demonstrated one night at Fort Worth. He was in town on some business and; happening to walk into a big bar attached to a gambling house ther famous throughout the southwest, encountered a cattleman named Ed Armstrong, with whom he had had some difficulty over a stock brand.

"Armstrong had the reputation of being a 'killer,' and as soon as he saw Blake he reopened the old quarrel Blake replied to his remarks good hu moredly, but he became more and more insulting and finally whipped out Irishman's head. 'Now, you hound,' he roared, 'I want you to tell the whole house that you're a liar!' "The action was so sudden that Blake had no time to defend himself, but he never turned a hair. 'Aw, put that thing away.' he said laughingly. Then looking over Armstrong's shoulder, he added, as if speaking to somebody be hind him, 'It's all right, Harvey; he's only kidding.'

"Thinking that Blake's partner, Wat son, had entered the place and was then in his rear, the desperado instant ly wheeled around. As he did so the big Irishman hit him a crushing blow under the ear and knocked him fully a dozen feet. His revolver flew out of his hand as he fell and exploded harm lessly in the air, and before he could recover his senses Blake was on his chest, with his hands on his throat.

"That ended the row and made an ev erlasting impression on my mind. By the way, Blake, got his nickname of 'Beau' from a favorite expression of his while a cowboy. On Sundays he used to 'beau up.' as he called it, fc visit some girls on an adjoining ranch 'Beauing up' consisted of shaving and taking his trousers out of his boots."-New Orleans Times-Democrat,

POLICE COURT NEWS.

In Magistrate McDonell's court this morning the first case heard was that of the Queen vs. C. L. Marsh who was up on the serious charge of stealing a team of horses, the prosecuting witness and original owner of the equines being A. Thomas. The grave charge, however, did not stand when the searchlight of investigation was thrown upon it, as it came out in evidence that Marsh had purchased the team in good faith and at a stipulated price, the money to be paid in a few days; that 40 days later the purchase price was tendered by Marsh's agent and refused by Thomas who wanted the horses back; that Marsh refused to give them up and was, in consequence, charged with theft. The decision of the court was that no theft had been committed, and the case was accordingly dismissed. The case of Cowan vs. D. H. Delaney for wages alleged to be due for labor performed was continued, the defendant not being in court.

J. Labbie paid Robert Labbie $245.25 for 75 cords of wood represented to lie in the country back of Moosehide, and when Labbe went after it notices were posted showing that the wood was the property of Chris Sonnikson and partner. In fact, several parties claim cer-tain amounts of wood in that locality, 100 cords or so more than is really there to say nothing of the 75 cords Labbe claims to have purchased from Riddle. pretty well understood that he had The court deemed the evidence suffi-plenty of sand and could take care of himself in an emergency. ## Afternoon Fire

At 2:45 this aftetrnoon an alarm of fire called the department out, and a line of hose was laid out First to Seventh avenue, where the cabin of Mrs. Nellie Cummings was enveloped in flames.

. The fire had made great headway when the alarm was rung in, and although the hose was laid from a coil in a wagon driven at a gallop, the cabin was practically a total loss before a six shooter and leveled it at the either the water or chemical engine could be brought to bear. The cabin which was a three-roomed one in which which was a three-roomet one sons lived, Mrs. Cummings and her two sons lived, entire constents as nohing whatever was saved.

The two or three nights previous to iast night were quite warm, but last evening the contents of 'the instrument at Sergeant-Major Tucker's office took a drop, and only stopped falling when 23 below zero was reached.

Last Night Colder.

All Have Money. Vesterday in one of the down town business offices six gentlemen were talking on various subjects, when someone remarked that more money was carried about by people in Dawson than anywhere else in the world. . The conversation continued for a time, when the man who had first introduced the subject in order to deomnstrate, proposed that the other five produce what money they had with them; this was done, with the result that between the six present, there was upwards of $22,000.

Chance for Speculation

R.

The fact that when the river closed there was a large section of it in front of the north end of Dawson remained open and has not since closed is a matter concerning which there is consider-able speculation, as many are of the opinion that it will remain open al, winter while others say it will be closed as tightly as any other, part of the river by Christmas. As it does not require much in Dawson to draw out ers, a number have already been laid as to whether or not this now open space in the river will entirely close this winter.

In the event of its closing, the indidivual who locates, stakes and records sufficient space for a skating rink will sufficient space for a skating rink will have the world by the caudal append-age, so far as having the best ice court in the city is concerned, as when that place freezes up, if it does, it will doubtless be as smooth as glass and as level as mature can leave it. If, by some unexplainable working of nature the river at that point should remain open all winter the city will, in all weather in which the atmosphere is colder than the unfrozen water, be enveloped in a cloud of fog which will arise from it, and which swill make a
