

Ask your friends what they think of Blue Ribbon Ceylon Tea.

THE SECRET OF THE GRANGE

The post of that morning brought me letters from home from my parents, and the reading of them filled my heart with the greatest happiness I had ever known.

Domer when he died. He begged me to pardon him. He knew that he had sacrificed me in his anxiety to secure the property for his daughter.

"I pass over the joy of that meeting, and their happiness at seeing me again, and holding my child in their arms, to please them, I had had painted while in Paris a picture of my poor wife; it was printed from a photograph which had been taken before our marriage.

Riches never came alone. When Raymond Charlton died he made a will, and left the fortune so rich uncle, Raymond Charlton, who never married, made overtures to my father, and the brothers were reconciled.

Blanche never came to visit me twice while I was at Hastings, and I thought how little she knew she was under the same roof with Allan's wife. I loved the gentle childish lady very dearly, and was not with her long; she died as quietly as she had lived.

Blanche never came to visit me twice while I was at Hastings, and I thought how little she knew she was under the same roof with Allan's wife.

Blanche never came to visit me twice while I was at Hastings, and I thought how little she knew she was under the same roof with Allan's wife.

Blanche never came to visit me twice while I was at Hastings, and I thought how little she knew she was under the same roof with Allan's wife.

requisite. I arranged to send a certain sum every quarter for the maintenance of the household.

from Allan Charlton withdrawing his suit, and Blanche whispered to me that now she should not be afraid to see Hugh Mostyn again.

Our journey to Hastings was abandoned. Mr. Charlton and his daughter were going abroad; he said they should probably remain on the Continent for five or six years.

Information about Forage Crops for Summer Feeding. The losses that occur annually to our farmers from the drying up of their pastures in July, August, and September should induce every stockman to grow a few acres of green feed.

Corn, when it grows well, is the great staple for fall feeding. Another very valuable and tender plant for the southern part of Canada is sorghum.

Soya or soy beans have been rather extensively grown for fodder in the southern States for some years, and are gaining popularity in the north as well.

BABIES WITH WORMS.

A Grateful Mother Tells How Her Little Boy Was Cured. Mrs. A. Saxe, Rowanston, Que., is another happy mother who thanks Baby's Own Tablets for the health of her boy.

Mrs. A. Saxe, Rowanston, Que., is another happy mother who thanks Baby's Own Tablets for the health of her boy.

Mrs. A. Saxe, Rowanston, Que., is another happy mother who thanks Baby's Own Tablets for the health of her boy.

Mrs. A. Saxe, Rowanston, Que., is another happy mother who thanks Baby's Own Tablets for the health of her boy.

Mrs. A. Saxe, Rowanston, Que., is another happy mother who thanks Baby's Own Tablets for the health of her boy.

Mrs. A. Saxe, Rowanston, Que., is another happy mother who thanks Baby's Own Tablets for the health of her boy.

A Remarkable Case.

TOLD BY MR. ORLIN POST, OF GRUMIDGE, MANITOBA. Suffered Greatly for Five Years From Rheumatism—Doctors and Many Medicines Failed to Help Him, But He Got the Right Medicine at Last.

(From the Echo, Dominion City, Man.) Recently while chatting with a reporter of the Echo, Mr. Orlin Post, a well known farmer of Grumidge, Man., gave the following story of his five years' great suffering from that most painful of diseases—rheumatism.

"There are few people, unless they have been similarly afflicted, can understand how much I suffered during those five years from that most painful of diseases—rheumatism.

"There are few people, unless they have been similarly afflicted, can understand how much I suffered during those five years from that most painful of diseases—rheumatism.

"There are few people, unless they have been similarly afflicted, can understand how much I suffered during those five years from that most painful of diseases—rheumatism.

"There are few people, unless they have been similarly afflicted, can understand how much I suffered during those five years from that most painful of diseases—rheumatism.

Information about Forage Crops for Summer Feeding. The losses that occur annually to our farmers from the drying up of their pastures in July, August, and September should induce every stockman to grow a few acres of green feed.

Corn, when it grows well, is the great staple for fall feeding. Another very valuable and tender plant for the southern part of Canada is sorghum.

Soya or soy beans have been rather extensively grown for fodder in the southern States for some years, and are gaining popularity in the north as well.

HOUSEHOLD WISDOM.

The following recipe is taken from the Herald: "Purée of peas is made of a pint of shelled fresh green peas, boiled rapidly in a pint, and a half cup of water to which a small quantity of onion, a good sized sprig of mint and an sprig of parsley have been added.

Persons who cannot eat pineapple uncooked will appreciate hot pineapple. The pine is pared and cut in dice or picked in pieces and then put into a boiling syrup long enough to be thoroughly heated.

Cucumbers should be prepared in the only way that makes them fit for human food and safe for the stomach.

Pale, Nervous Wild With Pain

From a Skeleton of Skin and Bone Mrs. Edwards Was Built Up to Health and Strength By Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. R. W. Edwards, 33 McMurray street, Brantford, Ont., describes her case as follows: "For five years I have suffered more than words can tell from nervous headache, nervous dyspepsia, would walk the floor in agony, until I fell exhausted and unconscious, and my husband would have to carry me back to bed.