COUNTY COUNCILS

The press in some sections of the Province are suggesting the abolition of County Councils and the apportioning their work between township councils and the Local Legislators. This is a proposition not to be entertained for a moment. It would be a backward step. If there is a thoroughly representative body to be found in the whole of the province it is the County Council. It is the County Council which gives value for the money paid, it is the County Council which introduces as a means of giving the various municipal divisions an opportunity of directly controlling their local affairs. The members embody the most honest and direct reflex of the popular will. There are more producers and taxpayers among them than among any of the bodies which are to be found in the whole of the province. Why, for heaven's sake, attempt to do away with them? There may have been some proportion to the balance of the rest of our self-governing structures. When population was sparse and the members of the Council were comparatively numerous, the members embodied the most honest and direct reflex of the popular will. There are more producers and taxpayers among them than among any of the bodies which are to be found in the whole of the province.
