The Chairman's Admonition.

The convention was called to order by Vice-President McLeod at 8.30 of clock. Formal explanation of its purpose was made by him. He briefly referred to the development of the province in the three and a half years of the Rutherford government, a work which thinking men everywhere today were endorsing. The Rutherford administration took the virgin province in the rough, and by wise and careful legislation were fashioning it into a beautiful and perfect monument of a well-governed and prosperous province. Such action will lead to immediate retaliation on the part of Austria-Hungary as a thorough understanding exists on that point with Turkey. Any such action on Servia's part would be the signal for the immediate advance in Servia of Hungarian troops while the third army corps from Salonica would hasten to meet any such invasion by Servia. The foreign office is very reserved but special activity at the war office tells eloquently that all is being prepared for action should diplomacy fail.
