The Evening Chit-Chat

By MISS CAMERON

She is usually as well dressed as any woman she is with. And yet everybody knows she is a far less means than most of her companions. Her plan of action is to buy very nice, though simple things and then keep them looking well about twice as long as the average woman. Everybody wonders how she accomplishes this. Here are some of the minutiae of the trick as explained to one wonderer.

"In the first place, I never buy anything that is cheap or shoddy or extreme in any way. I am willing to pay well for good lines and good materials. If necessary, I economize on trimmings. Consequently, my things will always be all right for three or four seasons if I keep them well.

"I always have on hand in summer a plain sailor hat which I can wear in stormy or even damp or threatening weather. Such a hat will last me three or four seasons and the saving to my nice hats is incalculable.

"The winter I have a felt sailor for the same purpose.

"I always have a good looking rain coat and wear it when there is any danger of a storm. Nothing makes a

Herbert K. Job,

State Ornithologist of Connecticut, U.S. The distinguished naturalist referred to below is a cousin of our Hon. W. C. Job. From his very earliest youth H. K. Job has devoted himself to the study of bird life, and to-day he is the leading authority in America on this branch of Natural History.

D. W. P.

"Mr. Herbert K. Job, State Ornithologist of Connecticut, is preparing for The Outing Magazine a series of articles on the preservation, protection and propagation of our birds. Mr. Job has always been on The Outing staff and this new series of articles promises to be his best work. Some of the titles are:—"Our Quest for New Bird Life"; "Can We Restore Bob White?"; "The Great Wild Duck Industry"; "The Hickory Partridge"; etc.

In every case Mr. Job deals entirely with concrete results, showing what has been done in specific cases—the methods followed—expense involved and the causes of success or failure as the case may be.

Herbert K. Job is in constant touch with his relatives here in a descendant of Mr. Daniel Job, a grandson of the late Robert Job and a great grandson of John Job, famous as the friend and ally of Gladstone's father in Liverpool.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women who consult Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first specialist in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without cost, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres't, Buffalo, N. Y.

Fads and Fashions.

The newest lingerie collar for a smart, simple frock is shaped like a small cape or kerchief, extending several inches over the shoulders and almost reaching the waist line in the back. In front the ends are cut in deep points.

The popular and fashionable top coat made of satin or crepe de chine has the wide shing sleeve, which was in style in medieval days. It is not so large as its ancestors and it has a wide cuff, which shows the color and the reverse side of the satin.

Bags designed exclusively to be carried with the frock of lingerie are fashionable from lace—Baby Irish and Fillet being most used. They are swung by twisted cords of white cotton combined, usually, finished with tiny tassels of cotton.

The newest jackets are broad at the top, narrowing down toward the lower edge. There is one-sided effect in the trimming, the deep ruffles adjusted to straighter strips. Some show the touch of black velvet in the form of buttons or bows. And all are particularly lovely.

There are caps, hosiery, shoes, sandals, sunshades, bags and even long bath or, rather, beach cloaks which accompany the dainty, chic little suit for wear in the surf. The hosiery and shoes are always in the darkest possible shade, as being less striking and in better taste.

The vogue of the elbow and three-quarter length sleeve has given a fresh impetus to the long buttoned or monaquette glove, which for sum-

Strange Story of Murder in Balloon.

Rejected Suitor Inveigles Girl Into Car, Then Kills Her and Suicide!—Romanian Police Find Headless Bodies.

London, July 8.—A remarkable story of murder in a balloon is sent to London by the Vienna correspondent of the Daily Mail.

A number of policemen, while walking across a field near Dorchol, Roumania, saw an abandoned balloon with a guide rope trailing along the ground.

When the balloon was hauled down the headless bodies of a young man and a girl were found in the car. Both bodies showed evidences of a desperate struggle.

The girl had been stabbed to death. Her companion had been shot. The gas bag had been split with a knife.

An investigation revealed that the girl was the daughter of a distinguished army officer of Bucharest, and that she was to be married on the day the balloon was found.

The man in the car was the son of a wealthy land owner, named Jonesen, who had fallen in love with her. The Roumanian police say that the young man, finding his advances rejected by the girl, who was promised to another, induced her to go with him on a balloon trip, and then murdered her and killed himself.

How the heads were lost from both bodies is not explained, however.

Killed Woman Who Refused to Accept Him as Boarder.

Fretolia, July 8.—William Moore, a young man employed in the wagon works, instantly killed Mrs. John King to-day, and probably fatally wounded her 12 year old daughter, Florence. Mrs. King, who keeps a boarding house on the east end of Main Street, had refused to accept Moore as a boarder, as she had turned him out months ago.

Moore entered the house to-day and, it is supposed, enraged at again being refused, shot the woman and child. He was arrested by Police-man Whitlock, who was passing at the time. He gave himself up quietly and said nothing. Moore used a sporting rifle for his murderous act.

Mrs. King is a middle-aged woman and for some time has been separated from her husband.

Juneau, Alaska, July 9.—In the excitement attendant upon his battling with a monster king salmon, Charles Smith, of Petersburg, was drowned at Taku Inlet the other day. For an hour Smith struggled with the huge fish, which was hooked at the end of a trawling line, when apparently his head became entangled in the string. He slid out of his little power launch and sank before his companion could turn the craft around to rescue him. The fish line was broken. The body has not been recovered. Smith was well known in this section as "Iron-Jaw Charley." For many years he followed the occupation of fishing on Puget Sound and the Columbia River.
