TRINITY

THE GOVERNOR AND LADY ALLARDYCE IN YE OLD TOWN OF TRINITY.

"Variety is the spice of life." Following upon the visit of the politicians, the commercial men, and the Bishop of Newfoundland, has come that of the Governor and Lady Allardyce. We had the usual week's notice of the official visit of the viceregal party, and that week was fully occupied by public meetings, the formation and work of committees, a general cleaning up of the town, and the erection of a triumphal arch, etc. Interest in the work was thus awakened on the part of the men, and that interest increased from day to day. Everybody worked with a will, and by 12 o'clock on the day of the Governor's arrival, all were pleased with the festive appearance of the old town, and each was glad to know that he had worked so hard, and he was satisfied with the results. A general holiday was agreed upon. At the same time the ladies' committee was formed and set in motion for the preparation and the decoration of the Parish Hall; and when their work was done, it was well done, and we had no doubt about the pleasure that the appearance of the Hall would give to the Governor and Lady Allardyce.

The day was beautifully fine. There was not a movement of the water even at the Narrows; the surface of the harbour was untroubled by the slightest breeze; whilst the atmosphere was delightful. In short, it was an ideal day, and we were glad. As H.M.S. Wageria passed the Port Point at the entrance of the Harbour, a Post-horn welcome was tooted from the station, and the white ensign on the ship was saluted by Mr. Rowe, by the lowering of the flag at the Lighthouse. As soon as the ship was anchored, Chief Magistrate Somerton went on board to pay his respects, and to arrange the official programme for the day. The Governor and Lady Allardyce, accompanied by Captain Johnston and Major Wilberforce-Bell, came ashore immediately, and were officially received at the landing by Mr. Somerton. A pleasing feature of the landing was the presence and introduction to Lady Allardyce of two Girl Guides—Misses Nina Granger and Phyllis Eriksen, who were accepted by Lady Allardyce with the label of her coat and revealed to the girls her Girl Guide emblem, the action on her part, and all that the emblem conveyed of mutual interest, was noticed and appreciated by many of the onlookers as well as by the Girl Guides.

The Governor and Lady Allardyce were heartily cheered by the crowd as they passed on to the Parish Hall. In the passing they paused to view the well proportioned arch (made of fir and decorated with flags) and to read the working on it. This was done on the water side of the arch were the words:

TRINITY WELCOMES HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR AND LADY ALLARDYCE.
GOD SAVE THE KING.

Having passed under the arch they turned to read the wording on the town side of it, which was:

FAITHFUL SERVICE, FALKLAND, FIJI, TASMANIA.
LADY ALLARDYCE, GOD BLESS HER.

The Governor and Lady Allardyce smiled approval of the welcome thus expressed, and it was evident to us that the words Falkland, Fiji, Tasmania brought to them many happy memories of years of official residence in those distant parts of the Empire; and which, in a sense they hardly expected to be reminded of in far away Trinity, Newfoundland.

Upon their arrival at the Parish Hall (which was filled to capacity) little Rosalind Morris presented a bouquet of flowers to Lady Allardyce, and she was rewarded by her gracious thanks, and a kiss that Rosalind will remember for many years to come. Then an address of welcome to the Governor and Lady Allardyce was read by Mr. Somerton, and it was delightfully responded to by the Governor. After this, several of the town representatives—including Mr. Reginald Millie, ninety years of age, and Mrs. Pittman 87—were presented to the viceregal party. The Governor Lady Allardyce, together with Captain Johnston, Major Wilberforce-Bell and Mr. Somerton then visited the churches. They were met at the door of St. Paul's Church of England, by the Church Warden (Mr. William W. White and Mr. Fred Morris) and escorted to the Magistrate's pew. The hymn, "We love the place of God, wherein Thine honour dwells" was sung. The prayers for the King, Queen and Royal Family, and for the Governor were said and all joined in the Lord's Prayer. Then a short, condensed outline of the history of the parish and the Incumbents since 1763 was given by the priest in charge (of which the Governor asked for a copy). A verse of the National Anthem and the Benediction brought the service to a close. Miss Ash had charge of the Organ. The party then went to the vestry where they saw and examined the old Registers, signed their names in the official Visitors Book, and then went on to the Roman Catholic and Methodist Churches, where they were welcomed by representatives respectively.

After visiting a monument to the fallen soldiers, Mr. Eriksen and Dr. Fitzgerald took them in their motor cars to Port Rexton. The beautiful and varied scenery as viewed from the different vantage points along the drive, were charming revelations to the visitors, and were appreciably referred to by the Governor and Lady Allardyce during the day. Upon their return to Trinity over forty guests—representatives of every class of our people—at the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Somerton, sat down to tea with the Governor and Lady Allardyce. This was provided by Mrs. Somerton and the ladies of the committee in the Guild Room of the Parish Hall. Every assistance was voluntarily and pleasantly rendered to Mrs. Somerton by the young ladies, who waited on the tables, and anticipated our every want, which had much to do with making the occasion comfortably informal and most pleasant. After tea the Governor and Lady Allardyce visited the Mortuary Chapel of St. Paul's to see the old mural tablets, the memorial windows to the boys of the congregation who fell in the war, and the other memorials that always make the building so restful, and so suggestive of reverence and beauty and thoughts of the holy dead.

At eight o'clock "all-the-town-and-his-wife" assembled to hear an address by the Governor and Lady Allardyce. Mr. Somerton introduced the speakers, and we listened with every attention and appreciation to two of the most practical addresses, on two most practical subjects, that it has been our privilege to hear. A vote of thanks was proposed by Dr. Fitzgerald of Trinity East, seconded by Dr. Sinclair of Trinity and carried by acclamation. When this was tendered to the Governor and Lady Allardyce, and the Governor stood to assure the people of his appreciation of their kind words and deeds, he became reminiscent, and then it was evident that he had not ceased to be a man with a high sense of humor, when he became a Governor with a high sense of dignity; and a few delightful stories by him, brought a deeply instructive address to a very happy ending.

After the address the Hall was cleared for dance, and then the enjoyment of the day shifted to another department. It was generally known that the Petty Officers of the ship would be there by invitation, and that drew a goodly number of those who could dance, and of those who came to look on. The sailors had been invited to tea before the dance, and their thorough enjoyment of it, together with their gentlemanly conduct, won for them a high place in the estimation of the young ladies who attended to their wants. During the dancing it was delightful to the onlookers to see the many evidences of real enjoyment on the faces of the sailors. "Gentlemen all" they were, and their lady partners will ever think of them as such, and consider themselves indebted to them for one of the most enjoyable evenings of the season. Three of the sailors danced the sailor's horn-pipe. They did it well, and kindly responded to an encore. This was a bit of dancing that we had not seen before, and it was the prettiest feature of the evening. The affair was carefully chaperoned from beginning to the end. As the sailors leave was up at 2 a.m., the singing of a verse of the National Anthem at 1.45, constituted the end of a perfect day. The sailors went back to the ship, happy and grateful, whilst the landmen and the ladies went back to their homes, delighted with the rendering of the programme of the day and with complimentary ideas of the boys in blue. Will you see me back again?

To-morrow, June 25th, is St. John Baptists' Day in the Church's Calendar, and Midsummer Day in the Calendar of the civil year. St. John said of our Lord: "He must increase; but I must decrease." The days begin to increase in length on Christ's Day (Dec. 25th) and to decrease in length on St. John's Day (June 25th).

LOST AND FOUND.

Some thirty-five years ago, when Mrs. Pittman's mother died, there came into her possession a silver spoon that had originally belonged to her mother's father and mother, Richard and Catherine Ash. On the handle of it were the initials R. and C. A. The spoon was treasured by Mrs. Pittman. At some time before the spoon came into her possession it was broken at the base of the handle and was mended. Twenty-two years ago Mrs. Pittman went on a visit away from Trinity, and when she returned the spoon was missing. The servant declared she knew nothing about its disappearance or its whereabouts, thought it was generally understood at the time that she knew all about it. Fifteen years ago during the annual spring digging of the bog garden by Mrs. Pittman, she unearthed the bowl of a spoon, which upon examination proved to be silver. There was nothing to identify it with the spoon that had disappeared years before, but it was put away carefully. Within the last few weeks as Mrs. Pittman was digging the ground again, she dug up the handle of a spoon. It did not look worth much, but the initial letters on it—R.C.A.—pointed to the fact that it was the handle of the long lost spoon, and that the bowl that was dug up fifteen years ago was the other part of it. Both parts are now ready to be sent to the silversmith to be united again, and to be given an honored place with other heirlooms of the family.

Query—How was the spoon broken, and why was it found so far away from the house of Mrs. Pittman. Well, the servant had undertaken to polish it and in doing so it had broken at the place where it had been mended. Instead of reporting this to her mistress, she buried the pieces of the spoon in the ash-heap. The next year those ashes were carted to the bog garden and used as a fertilizer, and the pieces of the spoon went with the ashes. The servant, then a girl, but now a woman (in St. John's, I think) will no doubt be pleased to read this, and surprised to find that the question—What became of the spoon? can be answered, and that she did know something about it after all.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Mrs. Hiscook (Postmistress) has enlarged and improved the front door of her house; and on the brass plate of the door itself are the words "Mountain Ash Villa." The sentiment is a pleasing one, and tends to lift the property out of the common place. This is all right too, when the property itself, like that of Mrs. Hiscook, is kept in such good and respectable condition all the time.

Master Willie Gent of King's Collegiate School, Windsor, N.S., is home for the summer holidays. His father met him at St. John's. His examination marks indicate a steady improvement in all his subjects; and his appearance and deportment are evident guarantees of physical and gentlemanly training, as results of his first year's work. He is the winner of two prizes in his class.

Mrs. Thomas Jenkins is recovering health and strength at Trinity, after a serious operation. She will join her husband as Bishop's Falls within a few weeks.

Co., registered at the Garland Hotel last week, and looked up customers. Always glad to see you Max.

Mr. Frank House of Grand Falls spent his holiday with friends and relatives in Trinity, and returned to duty last week. Glad to see you looking so well Frank.

Doctor and Mrs. Sinclair are comfortably settled in their newly prepared home.

Whilst cleaning up the old Church Yard we counted the headstones, and found 200. This led me to count the entries in the burial register from 1763 to 1880, and I find there are over 3,000 bodies interred there.

Mr. Ralph Pittman went to St. John's last week to join a motor boat party on its way to Stag Bay vicinity in search of tur and gold. We wish him and his party every good success.

In the selection of designs that are to be used in the make up of the new set of Newfoundland Stamps, to be issued in the near future, two views of Trinity will appear. One is the beautiful S.W. Arm of Trinity Harbor, and the other is a view of Salvage Cove, and the picturesque shoreline just outside the Harbor. We congratulate Mr. Gibbs on his good taste in selection.

Mr. Sellers, representing the British Clothing Co., etc., registered at the Garland Hotel this week, attended to his duties and went to Bonaville. Glad to see him.

Nurse Green of New York is visiting her parents at Trinity. Mr. F. J. Bradley and bride are at the Garland. Hon. D. A. Ryan is at the Garland. Mrs. Levisconte of King's Cove and Mrs. White of Catalina were in Trinity this week. Mrs. Jenkins is getting better.

New Atlantic Cable.

LARGEST BETWEEN THE STATES AND BRITAIN.

Plans for the laying of a new cable for direct communication between New York and London, have been made public in a statement issued by Clarence H. Mackay, President of the American Postal Telegraph-Commercial Cables System, says a Router message. The new cable will be the largest ever laid in the Atlantic Ocean, Mr. Mackay states.

He further points out that this cable will be the first to be laid in the Atlantic between this country and Europe since 1910. Work on it has already been begun by the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company and Siemens Brothers, and it is expected to be laid by August 1st.

The Fastest As Well.
The new cable represents an important addition to the existing means of communication between America and Europe. Mr. Mackay says it will have a capacity twice that of any cable now in service from this country. Engineers of the Commercial Cable Company, who designed the cable, estimate that its speed will be about 400 letters per minute, making it the fastest cable the world has yet known. The new construction will involve an expenditure of between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000. The route of the cable will be from New York to Nova Scotia, a distance of about 1,000 miles, and from Nova Scotia to the Azores, approximately 1,750 miles making a total of 2,750 miles of cable to be laid in this stretch. At the Azores it will connect with a cable belonging to the company already laid and which in turn will connect with a new cable of 320 miles, also to be laid this summer, from Ireland to England. Still another cable will be laid from the Azores to the Continent of Europe in the near future.
