the interest of the Empire could possibly be held classwhere than in London. Now, the souvenient, because it is the most contrain, rallying point is the capital of Canada. A third feature of the Conference is the significance it attaches to colonial opinion. Historic Downing street has, to a very large extent, formulated colonial policy, and has regulated the relations of the colonies to each other, to the Mother Land, and to foreign countries. Now, the colonies are beginning to assert themselves. Instead of waiting for the Colonial Secretary to direct their ways, they meet in solemn conserve and agree to tell that functionary respectfully, of course, what they want done. The Conference from these points of view proclaims the changing conditions of the Colonial Empire. Greater vertical is speaking in louder tones on behalf of new franchises, not to weaken the half of new franchises, not to weaken the suring. In the INTERCOLONIAL CONFERENCE.

After an absence of several weeks Mr. A. to C. Flumerfelt, president of the B. C. Board of Taske, has returned from the East. Among other places he visited Montreal, Toronto and Ottaws, and by invitation was asfe to put faith in any American forecast, particularly about the tariff. Reliance may sometimes be placed on the record of accomplished facts, but it is never wise to place the slightest faith in a political prediction. The Conference from these points of view proclaims the changing conditions of the Colonial Empire.
