Bow-wow Show In Full Swing

Philharmonic Hall is Crowded With Canine Aristocrats of All Sorts.

A List of the Prize Winners in Judging up to Last Evening.

(From Thursday's Daily.) If any Victoria youngster yesterday sang "Daddy Wouldn't Buy Me a Bow-wow," it was not because there were no "bow-ows" in plenty to be heard for there were hundreds of them, as remains in the vicinity of Philharmonic hall can testify to a certainty.

The dog show—the third annual event of the Victoria Dog Club—is in full swing. The dog show is being held at the Philharmonic hall, and is expected to continue for several days. The dog show is a very popular event, and is expected to attract a large number of spectators.

Cocker spaniels head the list this year with 68, the largest entry of the show. The dog show is a very popular event, and is expected to attract a large number of spectators. The dog show is being held at the Philharmonic hall, and is expected to continue for several days.

Probably the most marked improvement in this year's show over last year's was the increase in the number of entries.
