A PNEUMATIC TUBE TO EUROPE.
Old J. H. Pierce of Southampton, Conn., who has been studying the use of pneumatic tubes, has reached a point at which he hopes to show that a tube across the Atlantic can be used. The tube will always be in contact with the currents of air in one tube always moving in an opposite direction from the other. The heaviest man will serve to illustrate the tube. A car takes the place of the charge, the tube to be indefinitely continuous, and the speed of the car to be governed by the rapidly with which air can be forced through. Time is required to establish a current of air flowing with great swift-ness through a tube perhaps thousands of miles in length, but when once created the motion will be nearly uniform. The speed of the current may be made as great as the car can go by using the steam-driven fans employed in blast furnaces. Niagara Falls could drive fans and furnish motive power to keep in motion the train of tubes. This is a project which the Old World, the engineering world, the world of the future, and the world of the present, are all looking at. The tube will be made of steel, and will be polished inside with corrugated steel match-ings. The speed, owing to the curvature of the earth's surface, will tend to overcome all weight, and the tube will be upon the upper part of the globe; thus there is scarcely any limit to the speed attainable.

Well Built San Francisco Girl.
From the San Francisco Chronicle.
Chatting with a sprightly, intelligent girl the other evening, I was informed that she belonged to a class which prided itself upon its ability to make "bustle" photographs.

"Don't you think that it is really going a little too far?" I ventured to suggest mildly.

"Now Venus arising from the sea, or Yarns and Cupid, or Diana and her nymphs, or any of those studies which we are accustomed to associate with the nude in art, while quite correct in marble or on canvas, would not be proper if we recognized in Venus's lady work when we had drunk tea on the previous evening, or discovered that Diana was identical with the girl we took into society at a ball."

"Not a bit of it," said my progressive companion, stoutly. "I've been those pictures for myself. No one sees them on the outside. Moreover, you men are always chattering about impressive models, and slandering us for wearing corsets and tight shoes, and other things which may cramp the figure. Look at the physiological facts. If Mary, studying her picture, finds that her waist does not come up to the Venus de Milo standard, she abandons corsets, and endeavors intelligently to improve her shape. And I can tell you that I have in my collection pictures of girls of my acquaintance who would make any of the Venuses and Dianes jealous with envy. I depicted the American, and the argument finally terminated in consenting to show me this album, of course with the faces covered."

It was a most remarkable collection. The figures that I saw showed the bust naked, a few the waist, but none of them were perfect. It was a splendid showing of the perfection of physique to which our California maidens have attained. There were here in abundance, exquisitely modeled legs, with calves and ankles and feet which would have made a sculptor wild to model. There were arms taken alone, and feet and hands alone, and one was a back from the neck to the waist.

What is Gents to Baste a Boy?
From the Boston Herald.
"My father, never did anything for me, recently married a young man who, a few weeks ago, finished his school life, and is now seeking a good business position. He has been for others in his entire life. His life has been passed in the pleasant pastimes of the business world, in reading, studying, hunting, fishing, ball playing, yachting, and other employments not particularly beneficial to others. He is a type of that class of boys whose parents are sufficiently well-to-do to keep servants to attend the household drudgery, and whose fathers follow vocations in which the boys are made of the boy's spare hours. Like most boys of his class, he looks upon his board and clothes for twenty years, together with his pony, jewelry, bicycle, etc., as matters of course. The writer, while the complaining remark was still ringing in his ears, had the curiosity to make a conservative estimate of what it costs to raise an ordinary boy for the first twenty years of his life, and here it is:

$100 per year for the first five years.....	500
$120 per year for the next five years.....	600
$150 per year for the next five years.....	750
$200 per year for the next five years.....	1,000
$300 per year for the next five years.....	1,500
Total.....	$4,350

This is a moderate estimate of the financial value of a boy, and the writer, who is a father, has never done anything for him.

An American Adventure in London.
From the New York Herald.
There was an American adventure in London during the present season, who averaged some of the wrongs inflicted by the English traveler on long-suffering Americans. The lady in question was young and handsome and presumably wealthy. She came to London early in the spring, accompanied by a lovely young sister, and she was said, by an invalid husband, to have taken a home in the most fashionable quarter of London, situated quietly and was very much admired. The pretty sister became engaged to a young American gentleman, who was a resident of London. When the wife, with her invalid and invisible husband, went off to the continent, the husband's health was said to be failing. From that trip the lady returned abandoned in dress and overwhelmed with gifts, the dear sufferer, the devoted husband, had expired soon after he had started on his travels. The impetuous wife, without consulting the husband's health, had given up the idea of a European tour, and the young sister's betrothed broke off the engagement, and the husband's health was said to be failing. From that trip the lady returned abandoned in dress and overwhelmed with gifts, the dear sufferer, the devoted husband, had expired soon after he had started on his travels.
