THE LATE DR. J. B. BLANCHET.

This promising young man expired at his residence in the City of Quebec, on the 21st of July, 1872. Graduating at McGill University in the spring of 1863, he proceeded to England and pursued his studies at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London, where he became dresser to the late Sir William Laurence, Bart.; in January, 1864, he became a Member of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, and the following April took out the License of the College of Physicians, London. After spending some months on the continent of Europe he returned to Canada, where he entered private practice in the City of Quebec.

At the second meeting of the Canadian Medical Association, held in Toronto, in 1869, Dr. Blanchet was elected hon. secretary for the Province of Quebec, to which position he was re-elected in 1870 and 1871. At the last triennial meeting of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Dr. Blanchet was elected one of the Governors of the College to represent the City of Quebec, and at the last semi-annual meeting of the Governors of the College held in this city, Dr. Blanchet was present, but was at the time in illhealth. Those who knew him had no idea then that his life was in jeopardy.

In extending to the bereaved friends our heartfelt sympathy, we can only add our belief that from what we knew of the deceased, his anniable and gentlemanlike deportment, had he been longer spared, his career would have been full of brilliancy.
