

SWISS WOMEN IN THE WEEK DAY COSTUME.

SWITZERLAND.

DURING June, July and August "The Canadian Magazine" will publish articles on Switzerland written by a clever Canadian lady who has spent two years in that picturesque country. She will describe the social customs and peculiar characteristics of the Swiss people in a most entertaining manner. The three articles will be profusely illustrated from photographs and sketches, and will be decidedly interesting.

In the June number will appear an article on Mr. Gladstone, giving a very thorough account of his course as a statesman and a scholar. This will be illustrated from the paintings of Millais, Forbes and Thaddeus, and from various other drawings, cartoons, etc.

In the June number several short stories by prominent writers will also appear. The rapid improvement in this class of work by Canadian writers is fully illustrated by the work now appearing in this publication.
