

day with her pupils in the River Forest schools. To the author's wife is due the credit of polishing off many rough edges and of aiding in that irksome task of putting the manuscript in form for publication.

Our hearty thanks are tendered the following publishers: Messrs. Scott, Foresman & Co. for permission to use the illustrations from Harding's "Middle Ages" that appear on pages 2, 8, 13, 157, and 273; Messrs. Ginn & Co. for the illustration on page 26, taken from Atkinson's "European Beginnings of American History"; Messrs. Allyn & Bacon for the map on page 23, which is taken from West's "Ancient History"; and Messrs. D. C. Heath & Co. for the cuts on pages 20, 225, and 265, which are taken from Bourne & Benton's "Introductory American History."

WILLIAM LEWIS NIDA.

RIVER FOREST, September, 1912.