

LAN

Langora, East Africa, 172, 276
 Le Mawé, South Africa, 119
 Leché (antelope), 122
 Lee, Hans (Boer hunter), 327
 Leggings, 160
 Leopards, South African, 136
 Lesser kudu, effect of eating its meat, 276; 304, 305
 Lesser reed-buck, 297
 Lichtenstein's hartebeest, 290
 Limpopo, the, 80, 83, 88, 100, 110, 115, 131
 Lion, South African, native mode of killing, 47; Livingstone's adventure, 47; a woman's courage with a lioness, 48; attacking buffaloes, 52, 90; killing oxen in camp, 64, 66; bayed by dogs, 64, 69; Mr. Oswell's narrow escape from, 69; the question of its courage or cowardice, 92, 315-319; fear of man, 93; not so formidable as the North African, 94; quickness and strength, 94; cries and bark, 98; at a typical breakfast, 108; Oswell's encounter again with one, 119; fear of the horse for, 120; attack on a Kafir, 121; starving, 122; chasing oxen, 127; killing babyelephant, 128; maneless, 131; instances of its boldness and ferocity, 319, 320; dangerous nature of old animals, 320; not a clean feeder, 321; burying paunch and entrails of prey, 322, 323; cannibalism, 323; mode of killing prey, 324; physical appearance, 327; mane, 327; weight of, 328; measurements of, 329; its roar, 331; behaviour when wounded, 332; guns for killing, 332; Selous' kill of the largest in his experience, 333-344;—East African, stalking eland, 191; conduct when wounded, 215; his 'kingly' title questioned,

MAC

236; appearance, 236; habits, 237; attacking camps, 238; attacks on man, 239-242; charging, 242; the maneless, 243; animals on which he preys, 243-245; signs of presence, 245; instances of want of courage, 246-250
 Lithocranius Walleri, 307
 Livingstone, David, 26; relations with Oswell, in lake exploration, 27; as a companion, 34; with the Bushmen, 38; station at Mabotsé, 40, 95, 97; misadventure with a lion, 47; dealing with timid natives, 57; on Oswell's escape from a lioness, 71; his Bechnana headman, 73; meat-eating powers, 83; parting with Oswell, 87; on native mode of killing hippopotamus, 113; with Sechelé at Kolobeng, 119; journey to Lake 'Ngami and Zambesi, 125; observation of instinct in a bird, 134; character, 142; interview with Sebitoani, 144; astonishes Sebitoani by a written message, 144; Sebitoani narrates his career to him, 145; meets with slave traders, 147
 Livingstone, Mrs., 47, 87, 126
 Lo Bengula, 327
 Lo Magondi's, South Africa, 320
 Locusts, 37
 Loder, Sir Edmund, 80
 Lumi river, East Africa, 258, 308
 Lupapi spring, 66, 71
 Luhoshé (a tuber), 130
 Lykepia, 205, 218, 291, 312
 Lyman sight, the, 21

MABOTSE, Livingstone's mission station, 47, 48, 87, 97
 Machako's, East Africa, 168, 242, 243, 260, 261, 270, 277, 289, 297-299, 301