

chioness, proceeded on a tour of inspection through the College and School, visiting the chapel, the library, the dormitories, &c., and expressing themselves in the most flattering terms concerning what they saw. Lord and Lady Lansdowne were much pleased with the condition of the young people's rooms, and congratulated the senior matron, Mrs. Skinner, on the perfect manner with which she performed her duties.

The proceedings terminated before 1 o'clock. The Viceregal party drove to Sherbrooke by the willow road, and after lunching with W. B. Ives, M.P., President of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association, proceeded to the Exhibition.

The Clergy and their wives, and other visitors from a distance, were entertained by the authorities of the College.—[Re-printed from the Quebec Morning Chronicle of September 16th, 1887.]
