

Where is the sun-beam that but now so bright Played on the dimpling brook? Dark o'er the beath
 A deepening gloom is hung; from clouds, high piled On clouds the sudden flash glances; the thunder
 Rolls far, reverberated 'mong the cliffs;
 Nor pause; but ere the echo of one peal
 Has ceased, another, louder still, the ear appals.

murdered Marie, together with his own clerical robe, which was stained with blood, and threw the ashes into the privy. On reflecting if he had removed all traces of the crime, he recollected, with dismay, that he had left the pocket knife behind him; he immediately returned to the spot, but after the most minute search he could not find it. The knife which was produced at the trial, had already been found by a labourer, who at the break of day was passing near La Roche, and had his attention caught by a pool of blood, a bloody rope, and a black-handle knife lying by it. The knife he took up, but fearing it might bring him into trouble, he threw it into a bush. However, after going some distance, he returned, took up the knife a second time, washed it, and took it home with him. When Mingra's servant maid appeared before
