WILL CONFER ON

Chief Superintendent Here on Way to Meeting in Halifax

Dr. W. S. Carter, of Fredericton Chief Superintendent of Education, passed through the city today en route to Halifax, to be present at a conference tomorrow when Dr. Trueman, president of Mount Allison University; President MacKinnon, of Dalhousie, and other leading educational-ists will discuss the harmonizing of student text books in this section of

GEOGRAPHY OUT OF DATE

Dr. Carter was asked if he did no consider the geography book being used by New Brunswick's public school children to be out of date. His reply was that it was 25 years old, and during the last few years old, and during the last few years maps had undergone considerable change and statistical data was not the same as when the book was printed. The Great War alone had practically recast the map of Europe, and it was only natural to assume this grography text had would assume this geography text book would have to be brought up to date. The cost of printed matter became so excessively high after the war that a favorable opportunity was being awaited to make several changes in the text

ARITHMETIC

Asked if the O'Blennis arithmetic was not considered faulty, Dr. Carter interred that in any changes that might be brought about this publication, too, would be carefully discussed, and its merits fully probed. The Chief Superintendent of Education left the impres-and Kings county, finding school conditions at least at normal. He ex-of a $16 cost for text books, her father being a small wage earner but desirous that his child should receive the full benefits of a public school education since she had shown proficiency in the mail box there.

He told Clarahan that he first began intermediate grades.

Was followed to the corner of Lenox avenue and 125th street, and was taken into custody just as he was taken in since she had shown preficiency in the intermediate grades.

The chief superintendent remarked in reply that it was only logical to assume if education was free the school books should be free and the Government was endeavoring to do this at the present time so far as its funds would allow. However to pay for High School text books would be a great burden to Government finances and Dr. Carter felt that such a superior education as felt that such a superior education as be worth the cost of the books to any same meeting place, Lenox avenue and family. In isolated cases these books 136th street. The letters were signed
