

JOSEPH COLBERT DIES OF INJURIES

Accident on Steamship Bethlehem at Long Wharf—Ambulance Fails on Way to Hospital.

The death of Joseph Colbert, aged about twenty-six, of Job's Cove, Nfld., occurred this morning at ten o'clock in the General Public Hospital, where he was taken about nine o'clock, following an accident sustained on the steamship Bethlehem, at Long Wharf, where he was driving a donkey engine. In some manner he was caught in the winch, whirled around the drum and thrown violently to the deck, where he was picked up by a fractured skull, internal injuries, a broken arm and probably other serious injuries. Coroner Porter was notified about noon and will view the body and the scene of the accident to decide whether or not an inquest will be necessary. The family of the deceased man, living at Job's Cove, have been notified of his death.

He was taken to the hospital in the ambulance which was bought recently from the Red Cross society, and while on its way up Waterloo street the engine stalled, stopping the car near St. Mary's church. The injured man was carried the rest of the way by the driver and two other men accompanying him. This ambulance is in use while the new machine is laid up for repairs, and this is the first time a breakdown has been experienced with it.

Duration of de Wah.

He was a small, bow-legged, watery-eyed private in a colored tuxedo, company working at Brent. He was homesick and miserable. The morning after the news of the armistice he went to his sergeant, a big raw-boned powerful colored boy from Texas, and said: "Sarge, I've tried, an' I want ter go back home ter Alabama. I has toted dese here boxes from de ships to de cars until my shoulder is done wore down to de bone. I listed fer de duration ob de wah, an' now de wah is done over, an' I want ter git on back home."

The sergeant looked him over, and up and down. If looks could kill, he would have been dead. "Nigger," he said, "git yourself back on dat job!" But de wah an' over! Dat's right! But de duration an' just started!"—Judge.

QUESTION OF LEADERSHIP OF THE OPPOSITION

(Canadian Press.)

Ottawa, March 6.—The vexed question of seating of the opposition in the House is still unsettled, so it was said at the conclusion of a conference of the three party whips yesterday, and it may have to stand over until the arrival of Hon. T. A. Creaer, and a decision by the Progressive members as to whether or not they will form the official opposition. It is known that some Progressives are favorable to giving way to the Conservatives as official opposition, while others think their own party should take that designation.

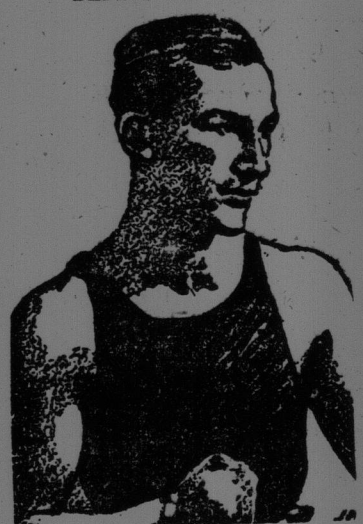

Late night sittings, for which the House of Commons has established a reputation, will not obtain this session if present expectations of the policy of the government are fulfilled. It is understood here that the prime minister has set his face against late hours, and that the evening sessions of the Commons will not be prolonged after eleven o'clock or midnight.

Conservative members and defeated Conservative candidates will meet this afternoon to appoint their leader. It is regarded as a practically foregone conclusion that the appointment of Right Hon. Arthur Meighan will be confirmed. The general policy of the party during the coming session will also be discussed.

The Progressive caucus, when the party will decide whether or not it is to assume the role of official opposition may not be held until Wednesday. Some Progressive members are here, but the majority, along with Hon. T. A. Creaer, party leader, have still to arrive, and not till they are here, it is stated will the caucus be held.

Mr. Creaer is understood to be personally averse to Progressives becoming the official opposition.

DISCUSSING SNAP VERDICT AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Ont., March 6.—Whether or not it will progress to the stage where anything will come of it in parliament, there is a strong sentiment among some of the new members favoring a declaration that the government, if defeated in the House, should not be called upon to resign unless defeated in a straight vote of want of confidence.

Some of the western members have expressed themselves in favor of such a move, declaring that they may take steps to provide against the government being forced to the country on what might perhaps be considered a snappy verdict.

OLD COMPLAINT KEEPS BRITISH PREMIER IN BED

London, March 6.—Today was virtually barren of developments in the political situation. Lloyd George remained in bed during the day with a touch of his old complaint, bronchitis, which prevented him from attending the cabinet council, over which Mr. Chamberlain presided.

The premier, it was said, intends to go to Oxford with his family on Tuesday or Wednesday for his holiday, and will be away from the political arena for at least a week and probably a fortnight.

A. W. COVEY IN FREDERICTON ON SPORT MISSION

Fredericton, N. B., March 6.—A. W. Covey, president of the Maritime Branch of the A. A. U. of C., arrived here from St. John today. He is here for the purpose of endeavoring to pour oil upon the troubled seas of amateur sports hereabouts and is having a conference this afternoon with citizens.

Mr. Covey, it is understood, favors a suggestion under consideration here for some time that an athletic organization should be formed here to handle all branches of sports in the city.

Amateurs Will Win.

In a press despatch this morning I notice that Westville and New Glasgow are about to play for a side bet of $500. In that event Westville apparently stands ready to waive a fond farewell to the amateur ranks. Or it may mean that a good many of the athletes in the colliery town are unable to face the new affidavit that will be sent out very soon. For two or three seasons the independents will be visibly strengthened, but amateur sport will come back. In fact it cannot be kept down. There will be other towns, or rather clubs, follow Westville's example, but a majority of the clubs will get after younger athletes and develop them.

DIVORCES ARE TO BE GRANTED

Judgment in Several Cases in Fredericton, Including One from St. John.

Fredericton, N. B., March 6.—The divorce court met this morning with Mr. Justice Crockett presiding. In the case of Harold Herbert Weeks vs. Byah Weeks, of Moncton, Austin A. Allen of Moncton, who appeared for the plaintiff, asked that the commission which had been issued and returned from Lowell, Mass., to take the evidence of the marriage of the parties in Massachusetts, be opened and read. The request was granted and after the testimony was read, the court announced that it considered that the marriage had been clearly proved and that the evidence given before the court in January as to unfaithfulness by the defendant had been established by the plaintiff. He would therefore order that decree be issued dissolving the marriage contract.

In the case of Herbert Seldon Read vs. Emma Jane Read, of Westmorland county, heard at the November term of the court, His Honor said that a like order would be made.

In the case of Minnie I. Cobham vs. Arthur W. Cobham of St. John, tried in January, the court said that it had no doubt that the plaintiff had fully established the allegations set forth in her petition and a divorce would likewise be granted in this case and the petitioner allowed the costs against the defendants.

In Irene Kelly vs. Rosa Kelly, of Moncton, the court stated that it was not satisfied with the proof of the marriage given, that though the Quebec certificate, under her law, proved that a marriage had taken place, it did not prove the authority of the clergyman at Montreal to perform the contract. The court would allow the case to stand until next month so that the plaintiff, if she desired, might take out a commission to supply the necessary proof. The court then adjourned sine die.

BUINESS ADVERTISING

Newspapers Best, Says Lord Leverhulme's Son.

London, February 8.—(By Mail).—The Hon. W. Hume Lever, son of Lord Leverhulme, gave a lecture last night to the Liverpool University Commerce Society, on advertising. He referred to the highest good business, and said that the honestest advertising is an honest article built up good will, on which all business depended. "Use a short name for your advertising product," he said; "it will be easily remembered. Advertised goods are more able to stand a spell of bad trade than their unadvertised competitors."

Mr. Lever further stated that newspapers were the best medium of advertising new goods to the public. In introducing a new article one had to talk at length, and in this case newspapers were undoubtedly the best medium. Although some people asserted that they never read advertisements, they unconsciously noted them, and if they went to a shop and were asked what kind of goods they wanted they answered with the name of one they had seen advertised. Advertising was not only the most important, but also the most interesting department of many a business seemed to be the Cinderella looked down on by other departments. He would emphasize that the greater advertising of a business the greater its good-will.

By the overwhelming vote of forty to ten, the legislature of Manitoba gave assent to a bill providing for the operation of Sunday trains to beach resorts. Only two cabinet ministers, Hon. Dr. B. S. Thornton, minister of education, and Hon. T. H. Johnson, attorney-general, voted against the bill, which is being sponsored by George Armstrong, socialist, and the various group leaders expressed their approval when the division was taken.

UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE.

Predicted for Trade Purposes by Sir Robert Falconer.

A universal language for trade purposes was predicted last night by Sir Robert Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, at an address before the Philadelphia Society for the promotion of liberal studies. The new language, he said, would be adopted only by persons engaged in international commercial pursuits, while the national pride would preserve the mother tongue in each country.

Tracing the Greek and Roman literature, Sir Robert said the classics, taken as a whole, were the basis of all present-day languages. Speaking of humanism as opposed to materialism, and those who rely on force, he said: "It required three months to persuade even the Allies to reduce their armaments. The civilization that will use those implements of war is far from being humanized."

"The world, he declared, is not united on any fundamental morality. 'The church is weakened,' he added, 'but still Christianity is a powerful humanizing factor.'"

IN WALL STREET.

New York, March 6.—Further divergence of speculative sentiment was indicated by the uncertain course in prices at the opening of today's stock market. Short sellers directed their attacks on the motors, especially Chandler and Studebaker. American Tobacco, one of last Saturday's heavy features, soon receded three points and International Paper lost 1-2 points. Railways were mixed, Canadian Pacific easing, while Union Pacific and Western Pacific maintained fractional gains. Trading was in moderate volume, last week's deficit of clearing houses causing fears of stiffer money rates.

Noon Report.

New York, March 6.—(Noon).—Sugar, local utilities, General Electric, Electric Storage Battery, Cast iron preferred and National Coal and Suit preferred were among the comparatively few stocks to resist the further pressure of the first hour, rising 1 to 3 points. Selling of the motor group, also Independent steels, popular tobaccos, rubbers and oils became more general before noon. Gulf States Steel, Chandler, Goodrich preferred and United Fruit, declined to 1 to 3 1/2 points. Ann Arbor extended last week's rise but other speculative and investment rails as well as shippings lost ground. Call money opened at 4 1/2 per cent.
