The Origin and History of the lead Pencil.

Interesting Facts About a Most Popular Instrument.

The lead pencil, the most common or all writing implements, is somewhat over 200 years old. The term "lead pencil;" however, is a misnomer, as, in a mineralogical sense, there is not a particle of lead in its composition. The lead pencil originated with the discovery of the graphite mines in England in 1664 during the reign of Queen Elizabeth. As graphite so greatly resembled galena, the German name for which was bleiglanz, it was given the name of blei, or lead.

In the early days of lead pencil making the graphite was sawed into thin sheets and cut into strips smaller and smaller until they were of a size to be covered with light wooden slips and thus serve as potency, varicocele, shrunken organs, land were considered of inestimable value emissions, premature discharge, necessary and were protected by law and were protected by law. was great waste-first, in digging, tor any of the pieces were too small for cutwing, and again in the mander of cutting graphite, which was so crude that the graphite, which was so crude that half the material was lost. So a binding substance had to be invented. Glue, gum, isinglass and other substances were tried, but the graphite was only rendered hard and brittle and of uneven hardness. Its marks were faint and indistinct, and in those days if the point broke it was quite an undertaking to sharpen it again. First, the wood had to be cut away and the graphite heated over a light to soften it, after which it was drawn to a point with the

In 1795 Conte, a Frenchman, came on the idea of using pulverized graphite and binding clay. This discovery resulted in pencils of varying hardness, according to the amount of binding clay added, and each pencil was of exactly the same hardness throughout its length. Soon after this discovery improvements followed in mixing, rolling and shaping the graphite composition, which was cut into lengths, placed in a warm oven to harden and finally incased in wood, as seen to-

The fellow commoners were always at Cambridge called empty bottles, from the following circumstance that occurred at Emanuel: Wine merchants send their porters occasionally round the colleges to collect the bottles. One of these men, during the hour of lecture, knocked at the lecture room door by mistake and called out "Empty bottles!" The tutor, then out of humor at being attended only by one fellow commoner when there were 20 in college, cried out: "Call again another time. I have now but one." This soon gathered wind, and these young gentlemen of the first class went afterward throughout the university by the name of empty bottles. As to professional students (some very few excepted), they are worse scholars at leaving college than at their admission. I heard our tutor once censure a young man at lecture who had been nearly three years at college by saying that he knew less than a freshman who sat next him.

"Well, and what of that?" retorted the youth. "He is but just come from school!"—Cornhill Magazine.

MRS. GEO. HURDIS OLD WORLD NEWS

Writes from Carleton Place, Ont., that Laxa-Liver Pills have made her "smart and healthy."

Most of the misery and ill-health that humanity is burdened with arise from dis-orders of Stomach, Liver and Bowels. The tongue gets clean, the breath sweet, the headache ceases, the complexion clears up, the dyspepsia vanishes, the constipation is cured—everything in life takes on a brighter aspect.

The pain that sometimes strikes man at the most inopportune moment is due to indigestion. It may come in the midst of a dinner and make the feast a mockery. It is a reminder that he may not eat what he chooses, that he may not eat what he chooses, nor when he chooses. He is a slave to the weakness of his stomach. A man's health and strength depend upon what he gets out of his food. This depends on his digestion. Remove the obstruction by taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are a positive cure for constipation and its attendant like your stomach, flatulence, dizziills—sour stomach, flatulence, dizzi-ness, biliousnessd and "heartburn." The 'Pellets' are very gentle in their action. They simply assist nature. They give no violent wrench to the system. They cause no pain, nor grip-

One night after taps four men gathered in a tent to do away with their pay. It was the night of pay day, and there was no convenient place in which to spend their money except over cards. The game had gone on with varying fortune here and there. It was after midnight. The sentry was a chum and had been told not to see the light in the tent. At last a jackpot was on the board and had been "sweetened" until it was very tempting. Every one was in it, and it was worth before the open about $20. When one of the players opened it, every one staid and drew cards.

The edge had a full house, the next man four tens, the third man four queens and the dealer four aces. The opener threw a dollar into the pot. The next man raised, and it was raised and reraised until it was beautiful to see.

At this point there was a scurry of footsteps outside. The sentry rushed in, grasped the lantern and dashed it out, lerking and extinguishing it as he did so. As he disappeared he whispered hoursely: "Officer!

Instinctively four hands went out in the darkness and spread themselves over the pot, while four other hands closely clutched five cards each.

"So's mine," said the others. Then they waited. Slowly the night passed, growing chillier and more chill in its going. The sentry was cursed, the officer was cursed, but still they sat.
