MIXED.

A young lady was driven by her brother to the Grand Central depot in New York, to see her off by train. They rather late and had to hurry. The porter pushed her satchels under the seat, and sprung in, but in her hurry she kissed the brother and gave her brother a quarter.

THE YOUNG MAN'S EDUCATION.

He said as his accounts he scanned—
His tones were angry rather—
"That boy's a credit to his class,
But a debit to his father."

GIVING UP IN LENT.

All the married girls I know
To the Lenten service go.
They are giving up as penance many things.
All their furbelows they lack.
They are dressed in somber black,
And they dream of golden harps and snowy wings.

All the married men I know
In the Lenten time are slow.
They are giving up but little that is dear.
But they'll catch it pretty hot,
And they'll give up all they've got
When the Easter gown and Easter hat are here.
