BAI.LOON TENNIS.

Either two or four players are needed in this game: A string is stretched across the lawn, which supplies the place of the net in ordinary tennis.
An air ball should be provided. The players arrange themselves on either side of the string, one side against the other. The hand is used in batting the ball from one side to the other, each side attempting to keep the ball from alighting on the ground on their side of the string, at the same time each trying to bat it in such manner that it will strike the ground on the side of the opponent.

The couple lived happly for several years, but in 1894, when Mrs. Post was absent, according to the testimony of her father, Mrs. Schmidt and Post dined together frequently.

"I thought it strange that he went out every evening while my daughter was away," said Mr. O'Brien, "so I decided to investigate. One evening I followed him as he rode on the front seat of a green tandem with a woman behind him until near 138th street. Going to a house in the rear of the one where they were I looked across the intervening space and saw them together."

Henry Schmidt, husband of the corespondent, testified that Post frequently came to his house, and for a time thought these visits were of a platonic character.

"One night I came home early," Schmidt said, "and found Post and Lydia sitting on a couch eating fruit and candy.

"What are you doing here,' I asked.

"He told me he was living there, so I beat him and left the house."

RIDE ON TANDEM

Wife Gets Decree From James Brady Post, Who Pedalled Himself to Court

FATHER BICYCLIST, TOO

NEW YORK, March 5.—James Brady Post, son of Virginia Washington Post, formerly prominent in Brooklyn society, literally rode out of the bonds of matrimony on a green tandem bicycle accompanied by a young woman. His father-in-law, following behind on a bicycle, helped things along by recting the story to Judge Truax in the supreme court yesterday.

According to evidence adduced in court, Post, who inherited $300,000 from his grandfather, James Brady, laid slege to the heart of Lydia Rolpia about 1890, but Henry Schmidt, of No. 149 Riverside Drive, made a more favorable impression on the young woman. Post later married Miss Hattie O'Brien of No. 151 West 170th street.

The lady's arrival was signalled by wild cheering and cat-calls. She was accompanied by the committee, all in evening dress. She wore black, her features being somewhat hidden by a thick veil. She carried an umbrella, some notes, and a small hammer.

Having been introduced, she rose to her feet, but it was some moments before she could speak.

It may have been that the voice had It may have been that the voice had a familiar ring to some, and perhaps others thought the lady rather tall for Mrs. Nation. But the speech went on:

"I have come over from America. (Cries of 'Liar,' 'Never been to America in your life.') I landed at Glasgow. I have appeared at two music halls in London—('Shame!' 'Oh!')—and music halls, my friends, are places where no respectable 'people can go. ('You went.') You mustn't imagine that I am a music hall artist. ('No, no.') I am merely trying to use the music halls to say a few words. ('Oh.')

"I am coming back to Cambridge on Saturday when, I hear, you are you are going to have one of your 'Drunks.' on Saturday when, I hear, you are you are going to have one of your 'Drunks.' (Loud cheers.) I have left my hatchet in America, but I have here a substitute (holding up the hammer). I would have you remember that you have at any rate, one friend, your home defender, Carry Nation.

Though many of the audience now realised that they had been hoaxed a vote of thanks was solemnly proposed and seconded, both speakers severely criticising the meeting for their behavior with a lady. "Mrs. Nation" then left the room, and the meeting broke up in an uproar.

"Mrs: Nation" was conducted to Mr. Stanley Gardiner, the senior dean of the college, but the interview lasted rather longer than was expected, and the conclusion of the session tonight About fifty representatives of the Mine Workers' Union met here today with National President Lewis to arrange for a conference with the anthracite coal operating interests at the conclusion of the session tonight President Lewis issued the following statement:

"The meeting of three district boards was to consider the prospective conference with the anthracite operators. Many matters in this conference, like others, will not be given to the public, not because we would not like to take them fully into our confidence at this time, but for the reason that we believe it would be an unwise business method to divulge negotiations which are pending and which will affect vitally so many people as well as varied interests.

"The conference between the anthracite operators and the United Mine Workers' representatives will be held at the Reading terminal building besteroids." President Lewis was chairman of today's meeting and George Hartlin, secretary. During most of the afternoon, National Board Member John Fallon of Wilkesbarre occupied the chair, while President Lewis participated in the discussion. The meeting lasted nearly six hours.

Arctic Explorer Missing Since July 1907 -Rear Admiral Sehley Issues Appeal for Funds

NEW YORK, March 5.—Rear Admiral Schley, U. S. N., retired, on behalf of the Arctic Club of America, of ing committee of the house for examination before being dealt with by the house. This system, Mr. Gordon believes, would facilitate the passing of the estimates and would prevent a great waste of time in the commons, where every item now comes in for close scrutiny.

Mr. McLean (Lunenburg) will move for a reduction in the membership of the commons rallway committee to fifty. At present nearly two-thirds of the members of the house are members of this committee.

Col. Worthington (Sherbrooke) will ask for a select committee of the commons to investigate the expenditures of the militia department since 1903 other than amounts voted for annual drill, and to inquire as to the wisdom of these expenditures.

EMINENT EDUCATIONALIST PRAISES MOTION PICTURES. On page two of this issue of the "Star" is published a most interesting article by Professor Frederick Starr, of Chicago University, dealing with the motion picture form of entertainment, which he unreservedly claims is the highest type of amusement in the history of the world. Professor Starr is an educationalist whose word carries a great deal of weight and the engrossing excerpt from his lecture will be read by motion picture patrons with a great deal of satisfaction.

EVERYBODY WEARS FURS.

The prevailing tendency of the current season seems to be to wear furs, and the Dunlap Cooke fire sale has certainly encouraged the tendency and made the wearing of good furs a comparatively easy matter. But what will happen when the people have to resort to the high prices that next year's markets will offer? However, so many fortunate buyers have availed themselves of the tempting prices of this sale that they won't care where the prices soar to next year. The Dunlay Cooke Company are still busy and another tempting sale is offered to-
