TWO LIVELY IMPROMPTU SCRAPS LAST EVENING

Dutch Courage Proved the Undoing of Small Man on Long Wharf - Boys Battle Over a Pick.

Although the by-laws of the city forbid prize fights and other disturbances of the kind it does not follow that the warlike spirit of the citizens both young and old, is at all cooled. Indeed all evidence points to the fact that many people of St. John enjoy a scrap as much as those of Reno or any other city, the youngsters do not seem to have lost their sterner days, as was proved last evening when two of them engaged in one of the hottest light-weight fights seen here for some time. The time and the place had not been decided on before hand, but nevertheless the boys had the goods and they went at it in real earnest.

All this happened when two of the youngsters engaged in leveling the mound behind the Y. M. C. A. building claimed the honor of swinging the pick. Which of the two would have succeeded in this commendable effort was not decided for some peace maker stepped in and stopped the fun. However it was good while it lasted and Jack Johnson would have been carried away with envy if he could have seen the style of one of the fighters who remarked as he was going home: "If dat big stiff at only let me alone I'd a knocked de stuff out a dat guy."

These two youngsters were not to share the honor of being the only scrappers in town, however, as the Long Wharf was the scene of another fight last evening. This latter incident came about when one small man filled with too much of that joy of spring, namely, hook beer, announced his conviction of being able to beat any man in the group. As no one took him seriously the small man became peeved and stated he could beat any man in town. Just then a large sized gent stepped up, and when the dust cleared away it was said the smaller fighter remarked that he must have covered too much territory with his last challenge.

HIS WIFE GAVE HIM POISON THINKING IT WAS MEDICINE

Mrs. Beasley's Error Last Night Caused Her Much Anxiety and Her Husband Much Pain—Administered Carbolic in Mistake for a Cough Cure.

There was great excitement in the household of Josh. Beasley, the caretaker of the Oddfellows' hall, on Union street, last night, when he very nearly lost his life by swallowing carbolic acid.

It was 8:30 o'clock and the family had retired for the night. Mr. Beasley has been troubled with a cough since his boyhood days, and he had in his house some mixture for the trouble. A few days ago he sustained a sore finger and had obtained some carbolic to be used on the finger. The cough mixture and the acid were in similar bottles and were placed on a mantelpiece in Mr. and Mrs. Beasley's bedroom.

Shortly after the family had retired last night, Mr. Beasley started coughing. Mrs. Beasley arose from the bed saying that she would procure the cough mixture and give him some to relieve him. She went to the mantelpiece and took down the bottle of acid.

SCOTT E. MORRELL WAS ARRESTED LAST NIGHT

Well Known Barrister Charged with Obtaining Money from Frederick Ramsay Under False Pretences.

A sensation was sprung on the public last evening at eight o'clock when Scott E. Morrell, one of the city's best known barristers, was placed under arrest by Deputy Chief W. Jenkins and Detective Patrick Killen. Mr. Morrell was conducted to the Central Police Station and was locked up in one of the cells to await his appearance before the Police Magistrate this morning. The charge which appears opposite the lawyer's name on the police blotter is "With having obtained money under false pretences."

It was on April 22nd that a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Mr. Morrell by Frederick Ramsay, who made the charge that on the 23rd day of February last Mr. Morrell had obtained $50 from Frederick Ramsay under false pretences, saying that he had initiated a suit at law for the said Frederick Ramsay and had issued a writ against the Prudential Life Insurance Company of Canada, and that the cause would come on at the Central Police Station and that the case has aroused much interest.

CITY MAY START AN INCINERATOR PLANT

Board of Health's Annual Spring Cleaning Campaign Brings Garbage Question to Life Again.

The Board of Health starts its annual spring cleaning next week. Nine inspectors will be sent out to examine backyards and alleys, and see that the householders get busy removing the accumulated rubbish of the winter.

A question which will have to be faced very soon is that of providing a modern system of doing away with the refuse of the city. The city is getting too big for the old fashioned dump, and at the present time about the only places available for disposing of the refuse are located on private properties. There is a dump at the back of Peter's tannery and another near the Marlborough grounds, and both of these will have to be closed up in a short time.

The other day an official of a company which constructs incinerators was in the city and had an interview with the city engineer and officials of the Board of Health. He exhibited plans for incinerators capable of handling from 10 to 50 tons of refuse a day, the prices of which without the building ranged from $6,000 to $12,000.

Some time ago the city secured legislation enabling it to erect an incinerator and organize a system of house to house collection of garbage and refuse at frequent intervals. Tenders for handling the city garbage were called for, but contractors objected to the specifications and no bids were received. It is probable the new commission will take up the matter and see what they can do about it.
