

"Let's Marry and the Money Will Come!"

Hundreds of young lovers have said this. Louise Driscoll and Harry Morton said it, too—and went ahead on this belief.

They married and settled in a little suburban cottage, the rent of which took just half of Harry's income.

Of course, trouble came—it was bound to. Louise learned what it means to a young wife to see her beauty fading as a result of household drudgery; Harry learned what it is to have that trapped feeling which comes when one shoulders expenses one cannot meet.

And the worried mind is the captious mind. It is not strange, then, that Louise and Harry found themselves speaking sharply to each other—justifying their sharpness and, finally, hardly speaking at all.

What happened? For when things have reached this stage, something always happens. Find out by reading "Moonlight and Money," which starts on Saturday next in The London Free Press.

When Twenty-five Millions Buy "Cascarets" They Must be "Just Right" for Liver and Bowels

Twenty-five million boxes of Cascarets were sold last year to folks who wanted relief from Constipation, Biliousness, Indigestion, Gases, Colds and Sick Headache without being shaken up and sickened all the next day. Cascarets work while you sleep, removing the toxins, poisons and sour, indigestible waste without griping or inconvenience. Cascarets regulate by stimulating the liver and strengthening the bowel muscles. They never weaken or upset you like Salts, Cathartics or violent Pills. Cascarets cost a little too.

outfitting stores. These elegantes lead rather than follow the fashions and they—the members of a specially select circle—have always been partial to the decorative styles which held sway in the reign of Louis XIV. and his successor.

As for the new neckties, our women have found the decollete neck so comfortable and so becoming that they are very unwilling to give it up. With regard to the opinion of the dress artists in the rue de la Paix, it is a case of half and half. Some tell you that low necks are "finished," others, equally influential, assert that the necks of the coming winter will be "high and low", and with this latter opinion I am in accord.

It is true that there is a tendency in Paris to keep skirts very short. Longer skirts have been tried and again tried, but smart women especially the young and lovely actresses have refused to accept the added inches. This is really a great pity, since the present style of dress, so full at the sides demands an ankle length skirt.

Redfern is one of the Paris artists who is making ankle-length dresses, and Worth is doing the same. These simple indoor robes, but many of the others have gone back on their spoken words with regard to the length of winter skirts. One thing is certain and this is that the skirts of to-morrow will be much fuller and more fussy over the hips, frills and yet again frills, this is the cry of the moment.

NEGOTIATIONS OFF IN BRITISH STRIKE

Lloyd George, in Message to People, Declares Government is Merely Preventing an Attack Against the Life of the Community, While Railway Men Claim They are Fighting Contract to Lower Wages.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—The Government's attitude to-night in the railway strike remains that the men must return to work before negotiations can be reopened. It is supposed that the executive of the Transport Workers' Federation is trying to persuade Secretary Thomas, of the railway men, to agree to this course, in favor of the belief that the union of railway men will eventually agree to resume work in their apparent realization of the fact that it is impossible to realize the services of the community, and that to this extent the strike has failed as a move to force the Government's hand.

Every day there is an improvement in the train service. Practically all London suburban trains are now working a restricted service.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Though it would be premature to abandon hope of a settlement of the railway strike the situation to-night has disappointed the almost universal expectations of some arrangements resulting from the numerous conferences yesterday and to-day between the labor representatives and the Government, and the position is again grave.

James Thomas, general secretary of the National Union of Railway Men, announced that the efforts to reopen the negotiations collapsed owing to the Government's refusal to go beyond its previous offer, but added that other unions than that of the railway men were continuing their efforts at mediation, but while the strike continued, the railway men would do nothing to hinder mediation.

A Statement.
After a conference of the executive of the railway men and transport workers, Mr. Thomas issued a statement in which he said: "Rumors of a settlement are incorrect. The negotiations have broken down inasmuch as the Government's offer does not differ from that of Friday last."

The transport Workers Federation will hold another meeting to-morrow indicating that they still refuse to call a strike. The Government is increasing its organization to insure public services and under emergency powers, have closed Regent Park to the public and are using the park as a clearing center for market produce, frozen meat and fish in the same way that Hyde Park is being used for the distribution of milk.

To-day's failure to reach a settlement cannot properly be described as a breakdown of negotiations, because there have been no actual negotiations so far as the Government is concerned. It is rather a failure of efforts at mediation between the National Union of Railway Men and the Government.

FIRST REAL WONDER PRODUCED IN SERIES

The world's series has produced its first real wonder. Walter H. Reuther, youthful left-hand pitcher of the Reds, twirled, batted and generally pushed himself through the portals of the Baseball Hall of Fame in the first game. Apparently not sure that he could get by the doorkeeper with victory over Ciootte, he went out and gathered himself a 1,000 per cent batting average for a sure entry. Nervous and shaking under the strain the first three innings, he was pampered and encouraged by the rest of the Redlegs with the same attention that is paid a throughbred. Twice he almost collapsed on the bags in the mad fourth inning, and as he came back to the Red's bench was massaged and fanned with towels.

At the end of the game, he stood in the box until a trainer came out and wrapped a blanket around him, after which his teammates carried him off the field on their shoulders.

He's the first jolt the coppers have to swallow. There may be still more.

CIVIL SERVICE

WAS ATTACKED

Protests Against Re-classification. Ottawa, Oct. 2.—The new service bill, which provides for the re-classification of the 60,000 odd employees of the Government, was under fire in the House to-day. The bill was introduced and defended by Hon. A.K. MacLean. He admitted that there were likely mistakes and anomalies. This was inevitable with 60,000 employees to be considered, but he believed 99 per cent of the civil servants favored the measure. He suggested that the bill be sent to a special committee where complaints could be heard.

MANY PROTESTS.
There were many protests against placing the whole outside civil service in the hands of the civil service commission. The strongest protest came from Hon. T. W. Crothers, ex-minister of labor. In his opinion the bill was wrong in theory and practice. He regarded it as contrary to the principles of representative Government, because the Government is responsible, for appointments. In his opinion the best men in the civil service were those who had been recommended under the old patronage system. What member would dare appoint a scab-wag to the service if he reset upon him.

This view was upheld by Dr. J. W. Edwards, Captain McGibbon, Muskoka; H. C. Hoeken, West Toronto, and others. Dr. Edwards described it as ridiculous for a few men at Ottawa to make appointments for all of Canada. Appointments to the outside service should be made through the sitting member, who was acquainted with local conditions.

NOT POPULAR.
Dr. Gibbon said the bill was neither necessary or popular. Patronage under the present system was simply centralized in Ottawa. Mr. Hoeken intimated the sitting member was best able to make recommendations for vacancies in his own constituency. There was a general demand that a returned soldier should be added to the commission and some of the members favored the addition of a woman. Mr. MacLean said that the Government saw no need of enlarging the board at present. Ninety-five per cent of the new appointees were returned men, so that an addition of a soldier would not strengthen their position. Mr. MacLean said Parliament should either get behind the commission or abolish it.

DR. STEELE DEFENDS.
A strong defender of the civil service bill was found in Dr. Steele, of South Perth. He said no revolution in the civil service could be made without existing criticism. Dr. Steele said that the service needed reforming. Evidence taken before the committee of which he was chairman last session showed that in the civil service in Ottawa in 1918 the number of days lost in addition to holidays totaled 94,633, or 315 working years. This was a scandalous state of affairs, which should be changed. The first step was to put the service under the commission. Reforms could not be made in a day.

He favored the appointment of a special committee, even if it took six months. It was certainly worth doing well. His suggestion was accepted by Hon. A.K. MacLean and on his motion the bill was referred to a special committee of 25 members.

FRENCH FORCES LEAVING PARIS.

PARIS, Oct. 2.—It is announced the French naval base at Fiume has been closed and that the last French soldiers and a sailors will leave that port on board the cruiser Condorcet to-day.

Ethelda Bleibtrey, 16 years old, and a green novice less than a year ago, today is a title holder, a breaker of world's records, and probably our brightest prospect in the field of water sports for women.

Miss Bleibtrey is still in high school and because of her popularity was elected captain of the swimming club last year. She could paddle around a little, but she thought that a captain a swimming club should be a regular swimmer, so she joined the W. S. A. club.

Under the guidance of a swimming coach, she made rapid strides and sprang her first surprise last spring by swimming 50 yards, back stroke in a 75-foot tank in 38 4-5 seconds. From then on she began to smash records right and left, until today she holds the National A. A. U. 440-yard free style championship; 880 yards National Championship; 500-yard free style National Championship; and has shattered the world's record for back stroke at 50 and 100 yards.

These achievements at free style swimming reveal ability in Miss Bleibtrey never attained by a fair constant of 16, or by a more mature swimmer.

A remarkable feature about her turned one in the same length of swimming is that she keeps her form even when tired. She may be played out at the end of a hard race but she never shows it. Her stroke invariably remains clean and correct to the very last. She glides smoothly thru the water, using a double trudgeon crawl with a six-beat leg drive and a slow powerful arm action without the least exertion.

Miss Bleibtrey is a splendid, smiling sunbrowned girl. She stands 5 feet 7 inches and weighs 136 pounds.
