

WOMAN SUFFRAGE WRONG

IN PRINCIPLE, AND PRACTICE.

AN ESSAY

BY

JAMES McGRIGOR ALLAN.

Author of "The Intellectual Severance of Men and Women," "The Real Differences in the Minds of Men and Women," "A Protest against Woman's Demand for the Privileges of Both Sexes," &c.

Most respectfully dedicated to the seventeen millions of women—including all wives—in Great Britain and Ireland, who will not be enfranchised by the present final Spinster and Widow Suffrage Bill.

"It is right to exclude women from political and civil affairs; nothing is more opposite to their natural destiny, than all that would bring them into rivalry with men, and glory itself would be for woman only a splendid mourning-suit for happiness."

MADAME DE STAËL: "Germany."
